Schwartzkopf Wins Re-Election

Baker Leading Hansen By 43 For Council Seat

. . . 325 MAIL VOTES TO BE COUNTED

The unofficial vote count with all 142 precincts reporting was Schwartzkopf, 21,192, and Peterson, 10,459.

Mrs. Boosalis Returns

Meanwhile, Mrs. Helen Boosalis was elected to a fourth term on the City Council, which will have three new faces when it takes over on May 17.

Also elected to the council were Steve Cook, an architect and member of the Planning Commission, and Bob Sikyta, a heating and air conditioning dealer.

The fourth spot is still undecided with Havelock pharmacist W. Richard Baker outpolling attorney Richard Hansen by a slim 43-vote margin with 325 absentee and disabled ballots to be counted later this week.

Baker finished fourth in the 1969 City Council general election, at which time three were elected.

Hansen led Baker by a narrow margin through the halfway point in counting returns, then drooped to fifth.

Not Heavy Turnout

Mrs. Boosalis, Cook and Sikyta held their one, two and three positions throughout the counting of ballots in an election turnout of 32,505, slightly more than the total in the 1969 mayoral general election.

The veteran councilwoman polled an unofficial 20,585; Cook, 18,284; Sikyta, 15,569; Baker, 14,753; Hansen 14,710; Charles Hamilton, 12,542; Nancy Childs, 11,882 and Bill Murrell 8,438.

The only change from the primary results was in the sixth and seventh positions, then held by Mrs. Childs and Hamilton respectively.

In a hard-fought campaign for the mayoral post with leadership billed as the top issue, Schwartzkopf won 66% of the vote, as compared to the 51% he received in the primary election. Bill Davidson, defeated in the primary, threw his support behind Schwartzkopf several days before the election.

Schwartzkopf had campaigned on his record and his plan to create a housing department along with city leadership in coordinating all private and public groups involved in housing to solve the housing problems.

Those elected to the council had also voiced support for the city taking the leadership to coordinate housing efforts of the public and private groups.

Restrictive On Zoning

The new council is expected to be more restrictive on allowing rezoning requests with the new councilmen putting top emphasis in their campaigns on long-range planning and sound zoning practices, as well as following more closely Planning Commission recommendations.

Mrs. Boosalis said she feels the public attitude on zoning and planning "has apparently changed."

She said she looks for a "great spirit of cooperation among the council members in solving the problems we have."

Revising Ordinances

Both Cook and Sikyta campaigned for revising present zoning ordinances to remove what they feel are inadequacies in the present zoning laws.

Schwartzkopf said Tuesday night that he is grateful to the support for him shown by the people and by his workers.

"I am thankful this hard campaign is now over and we can get back to the city business and help to find solutions to the pressing urban problems," the mayor said.

Peterson said that apparently the desire of the voters is to retain the present administration.

"I hope my campaign has helped to point out some of the problem areas which need attention and I hope the mayor will act on solving these problems for the good of Lincoln," said the councilman, who will go off the council May 17.

Antiwar Rally Broken Up . . .

Poilce Arrest 2,200 At Justice Building

Washington (AP) — Police broke up an antiwar rally outside the Justice Department Tuesday, arresting 2,200 people who failed to comply quickly with orders to leave. It brought the number of arrests to 9,700 in two days of demonstrations.

Police information officer Paul Fuqua gave the figure as the last of the demonstrators were brought in buses and bench-outfitted moving vans to headquarters four hours after the arrests began.

Another information officer said those arrested at the Justice Department would be arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct and unlawful assembly and would not be freed on $10 collateral.

The $10 collateral policy was adopted late Monday when the city's jails were glutted by 7,000 arrested in abortive attempts to stall the capital's traffic. Police said another 494 were arrested Tuesday in similar, but smaller, tries.

There was no way of determining how many had been arrested more than once.

Homebound traffic, meanwhile, moved smoothly as 2,000 troops supplemented the city police force.

Singing, Peace Signs

The protesters generally went without resistance, singing to guitars and flutes and holding up two fingers in the peace sign.

The rally had lasted nearly two hours when a police sound truck announced: "A police line has been established Leave this area immediately or be subject to arrest."

Policemen closed off both ends of 10th Street between Pennsylvania and Constitution Avenues, so quickly, that many who wanted to leave had no chance to do so.

Some of the estimated 1,000 people in the block asked Deputy Chief O. W. Davis about leaving and were told "go up to the line and the men will put you on one of those buses. That's the only way you can leave."

Scooters Hit People

A block away at 11th and Pennsylvania some policemen drove their motorscooters into the crowd, knocking several down. Later at least one cannister of tear gas was fired at that location.

The arrests began a minute later. At one point reporters saw several policemen beat five demonstrators with clubs. A sergeant stopped them.

The police action at the Justice Department broke up what had been a quiet rally, watched occasionally by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell from his fifth floor window. Mitchell was seen on a balcony observing the mass arrests later.

The crowd on 10th Street had been as large as 5,000 but a poor speaker system made it difficult to hear and many of the people had drifted away.

Among those arrested was John Froines, sought on a warrant charging him with conspiring with antiwar leader Rennie Davis in Monday's disruptive tactics. Davis was arrested Monday and his bond was set at $25,000. The two men were among the Chicago 7 conspiracy defendants.

U.S. Magistrate Arthur Burnett set Froines' bond at $10,000. Philip Hirschkop, lawyer for Davis and Froines, said they would post 10% cash bond and be released late Tuesday.

President Nixon, who was at San Clemente, Calif., during Monday's demonstration, returned to the White House Monday night.

"The President felt they were dealt with appropriately," press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said of the way demonstrators were handled. But Ziegler declined to comment on the procedures under which the demonstrators were arrested.

Short Cuts

The procedures, short-cutting traditional methods of filling out arrest forms and photographing prisoners with arresting officers, have drawn protests from demonstrators and their lawyers.

Chief Judge Harold H. Green of the D.C. Superior Court issued a show-cause order requiring officials to explain the mass arrests.

The American Civil Liberties Union accused the government of producing phony arrest reports long after the demonstrators were in the temporary detention compounds set up at the Washington Redskins football practice field, a jail exercise yard and a sports arena.

The ACLU said government lawyers filled out arrest forms Monday night, inserting the names of a few policemen at random.

It asserted also that police made indiscriminate arrests, sweeping up people who were not part of the demonstrations.

4 Incumbents Retain School Board Seats

Four incumbents won easy re-election to the Board of Education Tuesday.

Catherine Angle was the contest's top vote-getter with 22,195, handily returning her to the School Board for another four years.

Marvin C. Stewart and John E. Lux also were re-elected for four-year terms.

Mrs. Angle, 45, a housewife, has been on the school board since 1967 and was president 1969-70. She opposed a school mill levy increase.

Stewart, a 52-year-old veterinarian who was first elected to the school board in 1970, thought increased state aid could lower local property taxes.

Lux, 45, a University of Nebraska associate professor, has been on the board of education since 1965. He described the property tax burden as too great.

Copple, 48, an insurance and banking executive, was elected to the school board in 1964 and was president 1967-68. He said he felt the voters' mood was against higher property taxes.

Bus Bond Issue

For	25,202
Against	6,831
Total Vote	32,505

Voters Approve Bonds For Local Bus System

Voters by a 4 to 1 margin approved the issuance of general obligation bonds, not to exceed $965,000, to purchase existing properties of Lincoln City Lines and a new fleet of buses.

The unofficial vote with all 142 precincts reporting was 25,202 for issuing the bonds and 6,831 against the bond issue.

The vote spells good news to present bus riders who have long complained about poor and undependable service and the generally poor condition of the bus fleet.

The favorable vote was important since Lincoln City Lines has filed with the State Railway Commission to discontinue service, citing "catastrophic losses."

The big concern now of city officials is that bus service will continue until the city can take over the operations, probably in September. The present bus company is requesting that service be discontinued now.

Meeting Slated

The council plans to meet Wednesday at 8 a.m. to discuss plans for takeover of the bus system.

Still needed is approval by the Department of Transportation Urban Mass Transit Administration of a federal grant to cover at least half and possibly two-thirds of the city's costs.

Purchase Required

The city plans to purchase the existing buses — required by the federal government to get federal aid — and use them until a new fleet of buses, equipped with two-way radios, air-conditioning and air pollution control devices, arrive.

Richard Finke, chairman of the Mayor's Bus Committee said he was happy that issue passed by the margin it did.

"This probably shows the need for an improved system and the people realize this," Finke said.

Mayor Pleased

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said the city needs a first class mass transit system and that he is pleased that the city can move ahead "to provide the type of service the people deserve."

Schwartzkopf also called for hiring a professional manager to operate the municipal bus system with the operations placed within the framework of the city administrative structure.

Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis said she had faith that the voters would come through.

. . . EXON MAY VETO MEASURE

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Tuesday gave initial 33-1 approval to a revised bill which would direct Gov. J. James Exon's administration to issue not less than $3 million in highway bonds by Nov. 30.

The proposal, LB1008, designed to supply the state with sufficient highway dollars to provide counties with additional aid authorized in LB844, may be headed for a gubernatorial veto.

Exon has rejected the need for additional highway bonds in 1971.

The 1969 Legislature authorized the issuance of $10 million in bonds this year to supplement the $20 million issue of 1969.

Extend Authorization

While directing the $3 million issue, LB1008 would also extend the $10 million authorization until June 30, 1972.

Reduce Matching Share

As revised, it would reduce county matching fund requirements and assure counties that they will receive not less than their 1969 highway dollar allocations in the future despite their decreased share of total highway funds which becomes effective in 1972.

Counties now receive 25 1-3% of the total pot, but that share will drop to 24 1-3% in 1972 as the share for cities increases from 21 1-3% to 22 1-3%.

In 1974, cities and counties will each receive a 23 1-3% share.

Would Cost $1.1 Million

With the change in formula which takes effect next year, counties would have lost some $1.1 million in road construction funds, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly said.

Their total loss over a six-year period would be about $2,750,000, he said. The natural growth in highway revenue dollars should overcome any decrease in actual funds after that time.

Under terms of LB844, funds would be taken from the state's share of the highway revenue pot to "make up" any dollar losses to the counties as the distribution formula changes.

Make Up Losses

LB1008 would supply the highway fund with an extra $3 million which woud provide sufficient funds to make up county losses without reducing the state's actual dollar share.

LB844 would also help counties by reducing their matching requirements for the second half of their highway allocation from 100% to 50%.

Each county would continue to receive the first half of its allocation without matching requirements.

Help For Counties

That change would help counties which now face a constitutional property tax mill levy limit and reduce their matching requirements in line with the previous matching fund reduction for second class cities and villages authorized in LB74.

Compromise amendments to the bill were offered by Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton and accepted on a voice vote.

They replaced committee amendments which would have frozen the sliding scale formula which will shortly equalize the distribution of funds between cities and counties.

Senate Delays A Thorny Issue

Washington (AP) — A Senate called on often to act on such problems as war, peace, prosperity and social disorders Tuesday faced — very briefly — another thorny issue. Should it hire girl pages?

But it didn't really come to grips with the question. It put off a showdown vote for at least a week. And it may wait longer than that before really wrestling with the issue.

Eiche Wins Unopposed

FREDERICK EICHE
Received Most Votes

His 23,874 total was more than 1,500 ahead of the next highest.

The 59-year-old insurance agent has served on the Airport Authority since 1961.

Hog Partners Have Trouble

Washington (UPI) — To illustrate the plight of the nation's farmers, Rep. Dawson Mathis, D-Ga., said two of his constituents had formed a hog farming partnership.

"One would steal the hogs and the other would steal the corn, and even at that, they lost $4 a hog."

2 Baby Storks Hatch At Zoo

San Diego (AP) — There's no more waiting for the stork for Hansel and Gretel, the European White storks given to the San Diego Zoo by the government of Denmark in 1967.

The first weighed six ounces and was named Borge, in honor of Borge Lund, who represented Denmark as its vice counsel in Los Angeles during the 1967 ceremony. The stork is the national bird of Denmark.

In the stork yard, a zoo spokesman said, there was a clacking of bills among the long-legged birds which are voiceless.

Youth In 'Critical' Condition; Injured In Car-Cycle Crash

A 17-year-old Lincoln youth was listed in "critical" condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital following a car-motorcycle collision at Normal and South Tuesday afternoon, according to police Lt. Dean Leitner.

Leithner said Frank Vestecka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vestecka of 2917 So. 47th, suffered a broken leg, a broken arm, a broken wrist, head injuries and a fracture at the base of his skull when the motorcycle he was riding collided head-on with a car driven by Susan Stehly, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stehly of 801 Hazelwood.

Police said Vestecka was headed northwest on Normal and Miss Stehly was going southeast on Normal attempting to turn east onto South at the time of the accident.

Bill Directing Road Bond Issuance Gets Initial OK

. . . EXON MAY VETO MEASURE

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Tuesday gave initial 33-1 approval to a revised bill which would direct Gov. J. James Exon's administration to issue not less than $3 million in highway bonds by Nov. 30.

The proposal, LB1008, designed to supply the state with sufficient highway dollars to provide counties with additional aid authorized in LB844, may be headed for a gubernatorial veto.

Exon has rejected the need for additional highway bonds in 1971.

The 1969 Legislature authorized the issuance of $10 million in bonds this year to supplement the $20 million issue of 1969.

Extend Authorization

While directing the $3 million issue, LB1008 would also extend the $10 million authorization until June 30, 1972.

Reduce Matching Share

As revised, it would reduce county matching fund requirements and assure counties that they will receive not less than their 1969 highway dollar allocations in the future despite their decreased share of total highway funds which becomes effective in 1972.

Counties now receive 25 1-3% of the total pot, but that share will drop to 24 1-3% in 1972 as the share for cities increases from 21 1-3% to 22 1-3%.

In 1974, cities and counties will each receive a 23 1-3% share.

Would Cost $1.1 Million

With the change in formula which takes effect next year, counties would have lost some $1.1 million in road construction funds, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly said.

Their total loss over a six-year period would be about $2,750,000, he said. The natural growth in highway revenue dollars should overcome any decrease in actual funds after that time.

Under terms of LB844, funds would be taken from the state's share of the highway revenue pot to "make up" any dollar losses to the counties as the distribution formula changes.

Make Up Losses

LB1008 would supply the highway fund with an extra $3 million which woud provide sufficient funds to make up county losses without reducing the state's actual dollar share.

LB844 would also help counties by reducing their matching requirements for the second half of their highway allocation from 100% to 50%.

Each county would continue to receive the first half of its allocation without matching requirements.

Help For Counties

That change would help counties which now face a constitutional property tax mill levy limit and reduce their matching requirements in line with the previous matching fund reduction for second class cities and villages authorized in LB74.

Compromise amendments to the bill were offered by Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton and accepted on a voice vote.

They replaced committee amendments which would have frozen the sliding scale formula which will shortly equalize the distribution of funds between cities and counties.

Senate Delays A Thorny Issue

Washington (AP) — A Senate called on often to act on such problems as war, peace, prosperity and social disorders Tuesday faced — very briefly — another thorny issue. Should it hire girl pages?

But it didn't really come to grips with the question. It put off a showdown vote for at least a week. And it may wait longer than that before really wrestling with the issue.

Voters Approve Bonds For Local Bus System

Voters by a 4 to 1 margin approved the issuance of general obligation bonds, not to exceed $965,000, to purchase existing properties of Lincoln City Lines and a new fleet of buses.

The unofficial vote with all 142 precincts reporting was 25,202 for issuing the bonds and 6,831 against the bond issue.

The vote spells good news to present bus riders who have long complained about poor and undependable service and the generally poor condition of the bus fleet.

The favorable vote was important since Lincoln City Lines has filed with the State Railway Commission to discontinue service, citing "catastrophic losses."

The big concern now of city officials is that bus service will continue until the city can take over the operations, probably in September. The present bus company is requesting that service be discontinued now.

Meeting Slated

The council plans to meet Wednesday at 8 a.m. to discuss plans for takeover of the bus system.

Still needed is approval by the Department of Transportation Urban Mass Transit Administration of a federal grant to cover at least half and possibly two-thirds of the city's costs.

Purchase Required

The city plans to purchase the existing buses — required by the federal government to get federal aid — and use them until a new fleet of buses, equipped with two-way radios, air-conditioning and air pollution control devices, arrive.

Richard Finke, chairman of the Mayor's Bus Committee said he was happy that issue passed by the margin it did.

"This probably shows the need for an improved system and the people realize this," Finke said.

Mayor Pleased

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said the city needs a first class mass transit system and that he is pleased that the city can move ahead "to provide the type of service the people deserve."

Schwartzkopf also called for hiring a professional manager to operate the municipal bus system with the operations placed within the framework of the city administrative structure.

Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis said she had faith that the voters would come through.

Eiche Wins Unopposed

FREDERICK EICHE
Received Most Votes

His 23,874 total was more than 1,500 ahead of the next highest.

The 59-year-old insurance agent has served on the Airport Authority since 1961.

Hog Partners Have Trouble

Washington (UPI) — To illustrate the plight of the nation's farmers, Rep. Dawson Mathis, D-Ga., said two of his constituents had formed a hog farming partnership.

"One would steal the hogs and the other would steal the corn, and even at that, they lost $4 a hog."

2 Baby Storks Hatch At Zoo

San Diego (AP) — There's no more waiting for the stork for Hansel and Gretel, the European White storks given to the San Diego Zoo by the government of Denmark in 1967.

The first weighed six ounces and was named Borge, in honor of Borge Lund, who represented Denmark as its vice counsel in Los Angeles during the 1967 ceremony. The stork is the national bird of Denmark.

In the stork yard, a zoo spokesman said, there was a clacking of bills among the long-legged birds which are voiceless.

Youth In 'Critical' Condition; Injured In Car-Cycle Crash

A 17-year-old Lincoln youth was listed in "critical" condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital following a car-motorcycle collision at Normal and South Tuesday afternoon, according to police Lt. Dean Leitner.

Leithner said Frank Vestecka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vestecka of 2917 So. 47th, suffered a broken leg, a broken arm, a broken wrist, head injuries and a fracture at the base of his skull when the motorcycle he was riding collided head-on with a car driven by Susan Stehly, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stehly of 801 Hazelwood.

Police said Vestecka was headed northwest on Normal and Miss Stehly was going southeast on Normal attempting to turn east onto South at the time of the accident.

Peking Denounces Nixon 'Hostility To Chinese'

(c) New York Times News Service

Hong Kong — Radio Peking denounced the Nixon administration Tuesday for "hostility to the Chinese people" and accused it of "brazen interference" in China's affairs by its continued support of Nationalist China. However, the broadcast also described the American people as friendly towards the Chinese and hailed the visit of the American table tennis team last month. (More on Page 18.)

European Speculation Heavy

Paris — Renewed debate within West Germany over another upward revaluation of the mark and widespread nervousness over the position of the dollar caused the greatest speculation in European money markets in the past two years. (More on Page 2.)

Mexico Prods Nonaligned

Geneva — Nonaligned members of the Geneva disarmament conference were urged by Mexico to ignore the leadership of the United States and the Soviet Union and draft their own proposals for a combined ban on biological and chemical warfare and for the prohibition of underground nuclear tests, on which no agreement has yet been reached. (More on Page 27.)

Kremlin Seeks Agreements

Rights Bill Clears Committee

Washington — A bill that would give the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission the power to issue orders against discrimination in employment by either industry or labor unions was approved by the House Education and Labor Committee. The bill could encounter strong opposition in the future.

2,000 Protesters Arrested

Washington — About 2,000 antiwar demonstrators were arrested in various minor confrontations with District of Columbia police, bringing the two-day total of arrests to more than 9,000. (More on Page 1.)

Hilliard Charges Dropped

San Francisco — An indictment against Black Panther leader David Hilliard, who was charged with threatening the life of President Nixon, was abruptly dismissed. Federal Judge William P. Gray dismissed the indictment after the government refused to disclose the contents of illegal wiretaps to Hilliard's lawyers.

Philadelphia Fair Unlikely

Philadelphia — After four years and $2.5 million in planning, the steering committee of the Philadelphia Bicentennial Corporation recommended that all plans for the city playing host to a world's fair in 1976 be scrapped. The committee had failed to find a site and had been unable to get guarantees of adequate federal and local financing.

Reds Again Nix Nixon Proposal

Paris (UPI) — North Vietnam and the Viet Cong rejected on Tuesday President Nixon's proposal for sending all prisoners of war to Sweden and said he must set a troop withdrawal deadline before the prisoner problem can be solved.

Spokesmen for the Communist delegations to the Vietnam talks rejected the Nixon offer in news releases.

Hanoi spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le said, "The alleged question of war prisoners raised constantly by Mr. Nixon is but a maneuver aimed at covering up his crimes of aggression and his countless war crimes, and to justify his obstinate refusal to set a reasonable deadline for the withdrawal of all American troops."

Viet Cong spokesman Duong Dinh Thao said the Viet Cong stood by their eight-point peace plan under which the question of prisoners of war would be settled only after Nixon had set a firm date for the complete withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

"The so-called question of prisoners of war has been raised by the Nixon administration as part of machinations and maneuvers aimed at sidestepping the true issues of the South Vietnamese problem," Thao said, adding:

"This is why we will always insist that in order to settle rapidly the question of the liberation of captive servicemen the Nixon administration must put forward an appropriate deadline for the total withdrawal of American troops. Until now President Nixon has always obstinately opposed it. It is he who therefore refuses a correct settlement of the question of the liberation of captive military men."

Thao said that since Nixon does not want to meet the June 30 deadline set by the Viet Cong last year in their peace package, "he should set a date of his own and we will examine it."

"The best way to contribute to the re-establishment of peace and a settlement of all the questions relating to it is to demand that the Nixon administration set a firm date for the withdrawal of American troops."

Kent State President Speaks Of 'Senselessly Cruel Death'

Kent, Ohio (UPI) — Kent State University President Robert I. White said Tuesday four students killed by National Guard bullets during a campus demonstration last spring died a "senselessly, early, cruel death."

White, in an address to about 10,000 students during campus memorial services on the first anniversary of the killings, said, "If one thing unites us, that desire for memorial does just that — that and a craving for peace."

"Sadly we grant to them their green peace and rest, and offer a legacy of commemoration by those left behind," White said.

"There be those of us who have lost brothers or sisters, parents, husbands or wives, and their absence becomes partially — only partially — filled with growing memories. These memories often come to a focus and we grope for that focus."

Crippled For Life

Dean Kahler, 19, of Canton, Ohio, wounded by the gunfire that crippled him for life, also addressed the students.

"The four people who died here were part of you," Kahler said in a highly emotional speech. "I want you to remember the four students who died here. I want you to remember them forever.

"The war caused the four deaths here. This proves that non-violence is the only way to work against this war. I think that Kent State University has an important role to play in ending the war in Vietnam."

Bell Rung

Minutes before White and Kahler, who spoke from a wheelchair, started their addresses, a large bell was rung once for each Kent student killed, again for each of the two students killed at Jackson State College in Mississippi and once for the American servicemen killed in Indochina.

Dollar Takes Pounding On European Money Exchanges

Frankfurt, Germany (AP) — The U.S. dollar took a pounding in European foreign exchanges Tuesday and began to look like the money nobody wants. Speculators and others furiously sold dollars on the expectation that the German mark would be revalued upward.

In three frantic hours, the West German Central Bank was forced to buy $1.2 billion here to keep the exchange rate of U.S. money from collapsing.

Financial sources said it was one of the biggest waves of support buying ever seen on any foreign exchange market.

Elsewhere in Western Europe the picture was much the same, although the trading was less hectic. In Zurich, London and Paris, government banks were also forced to step in and buy dollars to keep U.S. money from falling below its official floor.

After Recommendation

The rush to buy marks began Monday after five leading West Germany institutes for economic research recommended that the government allow the mark to float freely to combat inflation. Banking sources estimated a freely flating mark would amount to a 4 to 5% upward revaluation of the mark.

World News

Most commercial banks were buying dollars below the floor price.

The dollar hit the floor in Zurich. In London, heavy buying by the Bank of England kept the rate just above the mandatory intervention point of $2.42 to the pound.

Gold Price Up

The gold price also surged upward. It hit $39.86 an ounce in London, highest level since the 1969 monetary crisis, and rose 43 cents in Frankfort to $39.92. The U.S. government's pegged price for gold is $35 an ounce.

As Europeans saw it, the dollar had become weaker than it once was. But it appeared unlikely that any steps would be taken in the near future to affect the value of the dollar for Americans at home.

Financial sources expected instead that European adjustments would be made to what has become primarily a European problem, causing little official concern in Washington.

Dollars Flowing In

"It's really a German problem in the immediate term," Robert Shaffer, economist for Bank of America, the largest U.S. bank, said in San Francisco. "What is happening now is that dollars are flowing into Germany, and it is up to them to stop it."

The currency speculation in Europe "does not have a terribly great impact on most people" in America, he added.

Europeans feel current exchange rates are out of kilter, with the dollar rated too high against some of the stronger European currencies — the German mark, the Swiss franc and the Dutch guilder.

One solution would be to devalue the dollar, but the United States opposes this and Europeans agree a dollar devaluation is the most unlikely course.

Revaluation Likelier

Another solution would be to revalue some stronger European currencies upward, raising their price against the dollar, either by boosting the official rate or letting exchange rates float according to supply and demand. This was considered more likely

Eight Helicopter Men Accused Of Murder

Saigon (UPI) — Murder charges have been filed against eight U.S. Army soldiers accused of shooting at a group of Vietnamese civilians from a helicopter, killing one and wounding 16, an Army spokesman announced Tuesday.

The spokesman said the eight — four warrant officers and four enlisted men — fired on the civilians from two helicopters Sept. 19 while on a flight from Dong Tam, 37 miles south of Saigon, to Rach Gia, 115 miles southwest of the capital.

The defendants were identified as CWO2 Michael A. Nicholaou, 21, of Jersey City, N.J.; CWO2 Stephen J. Becker, 23, of Jersey City; WO Roland E. Linstad, 21, of Chelmsford, Mass.; WO Camille A. Perret, 20, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Spec. 5 Dominic Fino, 20, of Baltimore; Spec. 4 James L. Dunston, 21, of Birmingham, Ala.; Spec. 5 John N. Enos, 20, of Los Angeles, and Spec. 4. Charles R. Thompson, 22, of Columbus, Miss.

The men were assigned to the 335th Assault Helicopter Company at the time of the alleged shooting but have been reassigned to nonflying duties at Long Binh, 18 miles north of Saigon, the spokesman said.

Charges of murder and attempted murder have been filed against each of the eight, the spokesman said. Conviction of the murder charge could carry the death penalty.

Red Rockets Hit U.S. Base

Saigon (AP) — Enemy gunners launched their third rocket attack in 12 days on the sprawling U.S. air base at Da Nang before dawn Wednesday and shelled several other U.S. and allied installations in South Vietnam.

In the air, U.S. B52 bombers struck at North Vietnamese infiltration routes that straddle the Laos border in South Vietnam's northern region.

The U.S. Command said the Da Nang base took five rockets Wednesday morning, but reported no casualties and only light damage.

The air base was hit by rockets April 25 and 26. In the second attack, the enemy hit a large oil storage tank and 150,000 gallons of fuel went up in flames.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong gunners lobbed 10 mortar rounds into a unit of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade during a mission 16 miles southwest of Bong Son on the central coastal plain and about 275 miles northeast of Saigon.

Demonstrator From Omaha Takes A Bride Surrounded By Police

Washington (UPI) — Two young antiwar demonstrators, waiting to be arrested while being held between police lines, were married Tuesday before a captive congregation that included a Cabinet member, thousands of fellow demonstrators and much of the District of Columbia police force.

At 4:25 p.m., Tom Fuller, 18, of Omaha, and Miss Joan Susienka, 19, of Webster, Mass., walked up the steps of the Internal Revenue Service building to begin the ceremony.

The bride, a student at the University of Massachusetts, wore a checkered poncho over a brown sweater and somewhat dirty blue dungarees. As she walked up the steps arm-in-arm with the groom, some of the policemen took off their helmets.

"Love disarms," intoned the Rev. Harcourt (Harky) Klinefelter, 34, a long-haired minister of the United Church of Christ in Atlanta, Ga. "It is love that is the way, as well as the end."

While formalities such as blood tests and a marriage license seemed to have been neglected, no one in the crowd objected. Some onlookers compared the ceremony to those conducted by captains of ships at sea.

Green Grease Paint

The couple, both of whom wore green grease paint on their foreheads, said they had known each other since last September. Fuller said they decided to get married "about 10 minutes ago," while awaiting formal charging before being placed in police buses.

At 4:36 p.m., after the audience joined in saying the Lord's Prayer, Klinefelter said: "I now pronounce them man and wife."

Rogers Ready To Talk To Egypt

Cairo, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers arrived Tuesday on the first of two key stops of his Mideast peace mission. He said he was prepared to talk about reopening the Suez Canal.

Flying in from Beirut, Rogers presented a personal letter of friendship from President Nixon to President Anwar Sadat and referred to Egypt's pyramids in saying:

"We will be discussing how we can build a new monument — a permanent monument which will not erode with the passage of time — a monument of peace for the people of the Middle East."

In Jerusalem, a top Israeli policymaker promised Rogers a warm welcome there Thursday and said Israel was willing to consider "a certain pullback" from the canal — but would require "absolute assurance" that no Egyptian or Soviet troops would cross into the vacated territory.

Questions Ducked

After his arrival in Egypt, Rogers outlined his views initially to Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad in an hour-long meeting. An Egyptian spokesman ducked questions about what Riad thought of Rogers' ideas.

"We have to find out what the secretary is saying in extension," the spokesman said.

He said Riad welcomed Rogers' trip and that Riad thought it would contribute to the cause of peace.

'In Concrete Way'

In his arrival statement, Rogers said he was prepared "to explore with Egypt and Israel in a concrete way the possibility of an interim agreement of opening the Suez Canal, which we hope would contribute to a final settlement."

Rogers said "very considerable difficulties remain ahead" in trying to work out a Mideast peace settlement.

"But President Nixon has asked me to take this trip in the conviction that after 23 years of conflict, so costly to the nations of their area in terms of human sacrifice and wasted resources, and so dangerous to the world, no effort must be spared to bring about a just and lasting peace."

Ray In Maximum Security

Warden Robert Moore said Ray would be confined for 30 days to the maximum security disciplinary area of Brushy Mountain State Prison, and lose all privileges, including his relatively easy job in the mess hall.

The 43-year-old Ray, who has served two years of his 99-year sentence for the 1968 King slaying, was held in strict confinement and his movements monitored around the clock when first placed behind bars. Through exemplary conduct, however, he earned a less restricted life and lived in a cellblock where the inner-prison doors were left open during certain hours of the day.

After Recommendation

The rush to buy marks began Monday after five leading West Germany institutes for economic research recommended that the government allow the mark to float freely to combat inflation. Banking sources estimated a freely flating mark would amount to a 4 to 5% upward revaluation of the mark.

Most commercial banks were buying dollars below the floor price.

The dollar hit the floor in Zurich. In London, heavy buying by the Bank of England kept the rate just above the mandatory intervention point of $2.42 to the pound.

Gold Price Up

The gold price also surged upward. It hit $39.86 an ounce in London, highest level since the 1969 monetary crisis, and rose 43 cents in Frankfort to $39.92. The U.S. government's pegged price for gold is $35 an ounce.

As Europeans saw it, the dollar had become weaker than it once was. But it appeared unlikely that any steps would be taken in the near future to affect the value of the dollar for Americans at home.

Financial sources expected instead that European adjustments would be made to what has become primarily a European problem, causing little official concern in Washington.

Dollars Flowing In

"It's really a German problem in the immediate term," Robert Shaffer, economist for Bank of America, the largest U.S. bank, said in San Francisco. "What is happening now is that dollars are flowing into Germany, and it is up to them to stop it."

The currency speculation in Europe "does not have a terribly great impact on most people" in America, he added.

Europeans feel current exchange rates are out of kilter, with the dollar rated too high against some of the stronger European currencies — the German mark, the Swiss franc and the Dutch guilder.

One solution would be to devalue the dollar, but the United States opposes this and Europeans agree a dollar devaluation is the most unlikely course.

Revaluation Likelier

Another solution would be to revalue some stronger European currencies upward, raising their price against the dollar, either by boosting the official rate or letting exchange rates float according to supply and demand. This was considered more likely.

Eight Helicopter Men Accused Of Murder

Saigon (UPI) — Murder charges have been filed against eight U.S. Army soldiers accused of shooting at a group of Vietnamese civilians from a helicopter, killing one and wounding 16, an Army spokesman announced Tuesday.

The spokesman said the eight — four warrant officers and four enlisted men — fired on the civilians from two helicopters Sept. 19 while on a flight from Dong Tam, 37 miles south of Saigon, to Rach Gia, 115 miles southwest of the capital.

The defendants were identified as CWO2 Michael A. Nicholaou, 21, of Jersey City, N.J.; CWO2 Stephen J. Becker, 23, of Jersey City; WO Roland E. Linstad, 21, of Chelmsford, Mass.; WO Camille A. Perret, 20, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Spec. 5 Dominic Fino, 20, of Baltimore; Spec. 4 James L. Dunston, 21, of Birmingham, Ala.; Spec. 5 John N. Enos, 20, of Los Angeles, and Spec. 4. Charles R. Thompson, 22, of Columbus, Miss.

The men were assigned to the 335th Assault Helicopter Company at the time of the alleged shooting but have been reassigned to nonflying duties at Long Binh, 18 miles north of Saigon, the spokesman said.

Charges of murder and attempted murder have been filed against each of the eight, the spokesman said. Conviction of the murder charge could carry the death penalty.

Demonstrator From Omaha Takes A Bride Surrounded By Police

Washington (UPI) —Two young antiwar demonstrators, waiting to be arrested while being held between police lines, were married Tuesday before a captive congregation that included a Cabinet member, thousands of fellow demonstrators and much of the District of Columbia police force.

At 4:25 p.m., Tom Fuller, 18, of Omaha, and Miss Joan Susienka, 19, of Webster, Mass., walked up the steps of the Internal Revenue Service building to begin the ceremony.

The bride, a student at the University of Massachusetts, wore a checkered poncho over a brown sweater and somewhat dirty blue dungarees. As she walked up the steps arm-in-arm with the groom, some of the policemen took off their helmets.

"Love disarms," intoned the Rev. Harcourt (Harky) Klinefelter, 34, a long-haired minister of the United Church of Christ in Atlanta, Ga. "It is love that is the way, as well as the end."

While formalities such as blood tests and a marriage license seemed to have been neglected, no one in the crowd objected. Some onlookers compared the ceremony to those conducted by captains of ships at sea.

Green Grease Paint

The couple, both of whom wore green grease paint on their foreheads, said they had known each other since last September. Fuller said they decided to get married "about 10 minutes ago," while awaiting formal charging before being placed in police buses.

At 4:36 p.m., after the audience joined in saying the Lord's Prayer, Klinefelter said: "I now pronounce them man and wife."

Rogers Ready To Talk To Egypt

Cairo, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers arrived Tuesday on the first of two key stops of his Mideast peace mission. He said he was prepared to talk about reopening the Suez Canal.

Flying in from Beirut, Rogers presented a personal letter of friendship from President Nixon to President Anwar Sadat and referred to Egypt's pyramids in saying:

"We will be discussing how we can build a new monument — a permanent monument which will not erode with the passage of time — a monument of peace for the people of the Middle East."

In Jerusalem, a top Israeli policymaker promised Rogers a warm welcome there Thursday and said Israel was willing to consider "a certain pullback" from the canal — but would require "absolute assurance" that no Egyptian or Soviet troops would cross into the vacated territory.

Questions Ducked

After his arrival in Egypt, Rogers outlined his views initially to Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad in an hour-long meeting. An Egyptian spokesman ducked questions about what Riad thought of Rogers' ideas.

"We have to find out what the secretary is saying in extension," the spokesman said.

He said Riad welcomed Rogers' trip and that Riad thought it would contribute to the cause of peace.

'In Concrete Way'

In his arrival statement, Rogers said he was prepared "to explore with Egypt and Israel in a concrete way the possibility of an interim agreement of opening the Suez Canal, which we hope would contribute to a final settlement."

Rogers said "very considerable difficulties remain ahead" in trying to work out a Mideast peace settlement.

"But President Nixon has asked me to take this trip in the conviction that after 23 years of conflict, so costly to the nations of their area in terms of human sacrifice and wasted resources, and so dangerous to the world, no effort must be spared to bring about a just and lasting peace."

Red Rockets Hit U.S. Base

Saigon (AP) — Enemy gunners launched their third rocket attack in 12 days on the sprawling U.S. air base at Da Nang before dawn Wednesday and shelled several other U.S. and allied installations in South Vietnam.

In the air, U.S. B52 bombers struck at North Vietnamese infiltration routes that straddle the Laos border in South Vietnam's northern region.

The U.S. Command said the Da Nang base took five rockets Wednesday morning, but reported no casualties and only light damage.

The air base was hit by rockets April 25 and 26. In the second attack, the enemy hit a large oil storage tank and 150,000 gallons of fuel went up in flames.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong gunners lobbed 10 mortar rounds into a unit of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade during a mission 16 miles southwest of Bong Son on the central coastal plain and about 275 miles northeast of Saigon.

Ray In Maximum Security

Warden Robert Moore said Ray would be confined for 30 days to the maximum security disciplinary area of Brushy Mountain State Prison, and lose all privileges, including his relatively easy job in the mess hall.

The 43-year-old Ray, who has served two years of his 99-year sentence for the 1968 King slaying, was held in strict confinement and his movements monitored around the clock when first placed behind bars. Through exemplary conduct, however, he earned a less restricted life and lived in a cellblock where the inner-prison doors were left open during certain hours of the day.

Lyman Free School Lunch, Property Deal Is Revealed

. . . Senate Subcommittee Hears Nebraska Letter

Washington (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee Tuesday produced a letter from a Nebraska school superintendent connecting the denial of free lunch privileges for two children with refusal of their unemployed father to sell property to the school.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, said the letter was "a flagrant violation" of civil rights laws. He said he may turn the matter over to the Justice Department for prosecution.

Nebraska's school lunch administrator, Allen A. Elliott, testified that he would correct the matter as soon as he gets home.

The House Education and Labor Committee, meanwhile, approved a bill to authorize up to $150 million over two years to bolster federal payments for free or reduced price school lunches. Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., the author of the bill, noted that the $210 million appropriated for the lunch program for this fiscal year has been depleted without reaching all of the estimated 4 million poor children eligible.

The letter was signed by Darrel E. Schilz, superintendent of the Lyman, Neb., public schools, in reply to an application by Juan Ballesteros of Lyman for free lunches for his children, Viola and Leo.

The letter said Ballesteros' income was not sufficiently low to qualify for free lunches. But it also said:

"The school will offer to give free lunches to Viola and Leo for the rest of this year at no cost. In addition, we will give Leo free lunches next year at no cost — if you will take $300 for the lots that we have been trying to obtain for the school. If this is not in agreement with you, there will not be any free lunches."

Elliott testified that he "knew nothing of this until I came into this room Tuesday morning. I will check into it the first thing when I get home. I agree it is a flagrant violation and one which the state agency does not intend to permit."

The letter was brought to the committee's attention by Mrs. Lawrence King, chairman of the Omaha Presbyterial Task Force. She said Ballesteros is still refusing to sell the property.

Mrs. King said some school professionals "just do not see poverty as poor people do."

"One lady principal told us that 'it just isn't good to give people all these free things — they should have to work for it.' "

"Another principal feels that his taxes are so high because of all the free things these lazy people are given by do gooders."

Elliott said he corrected violations as they were brought to his attention — including one principal who was forcing free lunch children to line up outside his door in full view of their classmates.

While some poor people are embarrassed by such treatment, he said, others "boast and brag" that their children are eligible and tell their neighbors they are "fools" for not applying.

Offer Made To 'Help' Family

Lyman (UPI) — An offer to exchange free school lunches for a lower price on land adjoining the Lyman school was made simply to "help out" a Lyman family, Supt. Darrel E. Schilz said Tuesday.

Schilz said he made the offer in a letter to Juan Ballesteros, who had applied for free school lunches for his children, Viola and Leo, stating that he was unable to pay for the lunches.

Schilz wrote in his Jan. 20 letter to Ballesteros that he would offer free lunches to both children for the rest of the school year and to Leo for next year as well if Ballesteros would accept $300 for the lots in question.

The Schilz letter was made public Tuesday by the Senate hunger subcommittee headed by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., which is hearing testimony in Washington concerning problems the poor face in obtaining school lunches.

Schilz said he had consulted with members of the Lyman School Board before making the offer and "we felt there was nothing wrong."

"We felt that since the family could not pay for the lunches we would offer to help them out," he said.

He added that at the time Ballesteros' income was too high to qualify the children for free lunches. However, several weeks later when he was notified that the family's income had dropped to a level which made the children eligible, he sent an application to the Ballesteros family with no added provisions, Schilz said.

He added that he has not received the application back.

He said the lots, which are wanted by the school for parking, are right across the street from the school. He said Ballesteros had set a total price of $400, which he said was higher than lots are "generally selling for" in this area.

FBI Queries Man Found In Stolen Plane

Rogers, Ark. (AP) — A light plane stolen Thursday in Larned, Kan., was found Monday in Rogers, Ark., and the Federal Bureau of Investigation was questioning the man found sleeping inside.

Authorities identified the man as Elmore Dunham.

The plane was stolen from Larned, then flown to Smith Center where the pilot filled up with gas, then took $100 from the Smith Center airport manager. The plane was reported to be the same one that landed Sunday at the Fairfield, Ill., airport, where the pilot filled up with gas, then robbed the airport attendant of $30.

Johnson, Otoe Counties Receive Water Grants

Nebraska News

The Lancaster district is expected to serve approximately 400 rural families presently with inadequate water supply.

Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., announced Tuesday that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) have awarded an $80,000 dollar grant to Rural Water District No. 1, Otoe County and a $435,000 loan to Johnson County's Rural Water District No. 1.

The Otoe County grant and loan will provide funds for water service to 190 farm and rural families presently without an adequate water supply, according to James V. Smith, administrator for FHA.

The grant will also enable a second water district being formed in Otoe County to merge with Otoe No. 1 at a saving of $50,000, according to Smith.

The Johnson County loan will be in addition to a grant announced in 1970 for $256,000 which has been held pending approval of the loan.

The release of the grant funds and the loan will provide water to 208 rural families in the southern two thirds of Johnson County and to 110 persons in the town of Elk Creek.

The loans are to be repaid to the FHA over a period of 40 years at 5% interest.

Rural water system financing is extended through FHA to organizations operating on a non profit basis.

Rep. Thone said, "I am working hard on a loan for Lancaster Water District No. 1 and expect to have a favorable report to announce soon."

Nixon's Attention Pleases Ag Leaders

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Farm leaders generally seem pleased that President Nixon took notice of their financial problems resulting from low prices in a time of inflation, but they are not expecting any immediate financial advantage from the new Nixon farm image.

Ray Ratliff, president of the Nebraska Agriculture Council, said, "The President promised to raise farm income, it'll be a good trick if he can do it."

The national president of the National Farmers Organization Oren Lee Staley, said, "I think it is encouraging that the President has had his attention called to the farm situation but what he had to say gave no attention to the farm income situation.

"A salute to agriculture means nothing unless it means more income to the farmer. Now that the President is apparently aware that farmers still exist, he must assume the responsibility for the farm income level as far as government programs are concerned."

Roland Nelson, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau, said, "I am pleased to note in the reports of what he said that he recognizes that farmers have a serious problem with inflation."

Nelson also was pleased by the President's efforts to increase exports. "We have felt that the 10 billion dollar goal in exports is possible for sometime," Nelson said.

Vic Haas, president of the Nebraska Wheat Growers would like to grow more wheat for export. "However my banker tells me that it is not economically feasible to grow wheat at the present world price. The present world wheat price is below the cost of production in Nebraska."

He said, "They speak with the forked tongue back there. They talk of raising farm income and drop the support of rye 13c, oats 9c and barley 2c. They say one thing and do another."

Glenn Kreuscher, director of Nebraska's Department of Agriculture, commented, "We need more credit but the real answer is not putting farmers deeper in debt, it's in increasing their income. Present proposals are far short of meeting the problem."

Elton Berck, president of the Nebraska Farmers Union, said, "We are happy to learn that the President knows that the farmers are in a very bad economic situation but we will resist every effort to camouflage the situation and direct attention to such proposals that do not promise an improvement in the farmers economic situation."

Regarding exports Berck said, "Exports improve the foreign trade balance, but if the exports don't bring the farmer a parity price, they are of no benefit to him."

Berck added, "Unless and until the administration shows its willing to do something about the price and income side, all the loan funds will do nothing to improve the cost price squeeze."

Howard Elm, executive secretary of the Nebraska Grain and Feed Dealers, commented on the end result of the proposed research:

"The dollars put into research always pay a big return for the consumer, basic research helps the consumer in every case. It plays a big role in the cheap food we enjoy today."

Exports could help the farmer some if we can create a big enough demand to raise prices to the producer," Elm said.

"Exports help the balance of trade, but the world trade prices are too low," he added.

Ervain J. Friehe, a wheat grower from McCook, said, "It can't hurt to have the President recognize that we have problems and the exports can help some but we need a better price."

'Dramatic U.S. Peace Initiative Might Break Paris Stalemate'

Omaha (AP) — Two Lincoln ministers who visited the Paris peace talks said that the U.S. might be able to break the diplomatic stalemate there with a "dramatic peace initiative."

The Rev. Scott Libbey, Nebraska Conference minister of the United Church of Christ, and Dr. C. Ebb Munden, pastor of Lincoln's First United Methodist Church, said talks with spokesmen for all sides of the Vietnam conflict convinced them that the war can and must be ended soon.

The Rev. Mr. Libbey said Vietnamese people on both sides are so "war weary" that any government rejecting a "serious" peace offer could "lose popular support" and put itself in danger of overthrow.

The two ministers were part of a national interdenominational committee of 50 Protestant ministers and laymen who visited the talks in March.

Nuclear Blast Allows Release Of Natural Gas

Los Angeles (AP)—A nuclear device exploded 8,430 feet below the surface, has allowed more than 400 million cubic feet of natural gas to be safely removed from a Colorado well, says an oil firm official.

Tests showed radioactivity in the gas was well within safety guidelines, C. Wardell Leisk, of the Austral Oil Co., Houston, Tex., told a meeting of the American Petroleum Institute's Division of Production.

Leisk said the explosion 19 months ago in Garfield County, Colo., shows that nuclear stimulation of gas-bearing formations could benefit the public and the gas industry.

Corsair Fighter Tops With Swiss

Bern, Switzerland (AP) — Ling-Temco-Vought's Corsair jet fighter Tuesday was announced to be the top candidate for a $302 million order to modernize the Swiss Air Force.

The Swiss Military Department Defense Ministry said that another American plane, the McDonnell-Douglas Skyhawk, was running second in the official evaluation list prepared by experts.

Offer Made To 'Help' Family

Lyman (UPI) — An offer to exchange free school lunches for a lower price on land adjoining the Lyman school was made simply to "help out" a Lyman family, Supt. Darrel E. Schilz said Tuesday.

Schilz said he made the offer in a letter to Juan Ballesteros, who had applied for free school lunches for his children, Viola and Leo, stating that he was unable to pay for the lunches.

Schilz wrote in his Jan. 20 letter to Ballesteros that he would offer free lunches to both children for the rest of the school year and to Leo for next year as well if Ballesteros would accept $300 for the lots in question.

The Schilz letter was made public Tuesday by the Senate hunger subcommittee headed by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., which is hearing testimony in Washington concerning problems the poor face in obtaining school lunches.

Schilz said he had consulted with members of the Lyman School Board before making the offer and "we felt there was nothing wrong."

"We felt that since the family could not pay for the lunches we would offer to help them out," he said.

He added that at the time Ballesteros' income was too high to qualify the children for free lunches. However, several weeks later when he was notified that the family's income had dropped to a level which made the children eligible, he sent an application to the Ballesteros family with no added provisions, Schilz said.

He added that he has not received the application back.

He said the lots, which are wanted by the school for parking, are right across the street from the school. He said Ballesteros had set a total price of $400, which he said was higher than lots are "generally selling for" in this area.

Neihardt Reminisces With Friends

FBI Queries Man Found In Stolen Plane

Rogers, Ark. (AP) — A light plane stolen Thursday in Larned, Kan., was found Monday in Rogers, Ark., and the Federal Bureau of Investigation was questioning the man found sleeping inside.

Authorities identified the man as Elmore Dunham.

The plane was stolen from Larned, then flown to Smith Center where the pilot filled up with gas, then took $100 from the Smith Center airport manager. The plane was reported to be the same one that landed Sunday at the Fairfield, Ill., airport, where the pilot filled up with gas, then robbed the airport attendant of $30.

Johnson, Otoe Counties Receive Water Grants

Nebraska News

The Lancaster district is expected to serve approximately 400 rural families presently with inadequate water supply.

Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., announced Tuesday that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) have awarded an $80,000 dollar grant to Rural Water District No. 1, Otoe County and a $435,000 loan to Johnson County's Rural Water District No. 1.

The Otoe County grant and loan will provide funds for water service to 190 farm and rural families presently without an adequate water supply, according to James V. Smith, administrator for FHA.

The grant will also enable a second water district being formed in Otoe County to merge with Otoe No. 1 at a saving of $50,000, according to Smith.

The Johnson County loan will be in addition to a grant announced in 1970 for $256,000 which has been held pending approval of the loan.

The release of the grant funds and the loan will provide water to 208 rural families in the southern two thirds of Johnson County and to 110 persons in the town of Elk Creek.

The loans are to be repaid to the FHA over a period of 40 years at 5% interest.

Rural water system financing is extended through FHA to organizations operating on a non profit basis.

Rep. Thone said, "I am working hard on a loan for Lancaster Water District No. 1 and expect to have a favorable report to announce soon."

Nixon's Attention Pleases Ag Leaders

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Farm leaders generally seem pleased that President Nixon took notice of their financial problems resulting from low prices in a time of inflation, but they are not expecting any immediate financial advantage from the new Nixon farm image.

Ray Ratliff, president of the Nebraska Agriculture Council, said, "The President promised to raise farm income, it'll be a good trick if he can do it."

The national president of the National Farmers Organization Oren Lee Staley, said, "I think it is encouraging that the President has had his attention called to the farm situation but what he had to say gave no attention to the farm income situation.

"A salute to agriculture means nothing unless it means more income to the farmer. Now that the President is apparently aware that farmers still exist, he must assume the responsibility for the farm income level as far as government programs are concerned."

Roland Nelson, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau, said, "I am pleased to note in the reports of what he said that he recognizes that farmers have a serious problem with inflation."

Nelson also was pleased by the President's efforts to increase exports. "We have felt that the 10 billion dollar goal in exports is possible for sometime," Nelson said.

Vic Haas, president of the Nebraska Wheat Growers would like to grow more wheat for export. "However my banker tells me that it is not economically feasible to grow wheat at the present world price. The present world wheat price is below the cost of production in Nebraska."

He said, "They speak with the forked tongue back there. They talk of raising farm income and drop the support of rye 13c, oats 9c and barley 2c. They say one thing and do another."

Glenn Kreuscher, director of Nebraska's Department of Agriculture, commented, "We need more credit but the real answer is not putting farmers deeper in debt, it's in increasing their income. Present proposals are far short of meeting the problem."

Elton Berck, president of the Nebraska Farmers Union, said, "We are happy to learn that the President knows that the farmers are in a very bad economic situation but we will resist every effort to camouflage the situation and direct attention to such proposals that do not promise an improvement in the farmers economic situation."

Regarding exports Berck said, "Exports improve the foreign trade balance, but if the exports don't bring the farmer a parity price, they are of no benefit to him."

Berck added, "Unless and until the administration shows its willing to do something about the price and income side, all the loan funds will do nothing to improve the cost price squeeze."

Howard Elm, executive secretary of the Nebraska Grain and Feed Dealers, commented on the end result of the proposed research:

"The dollars put into research always pay a big return for the consumer, basic research helps the consumer in every case. It plays a big role in the cheap food we enjoy today."

Exports could help the farmer some if we can create a big enough demand to raise prices to the producer," Elm said.

"Exports help the balance of trade, but the world trade prices are too low," he added.

Ervain J. Friehe, a wheat grower from McCook, said, "It can't hurt to have the President recognize that we have problems and the exports can help some but we need a better price."

'Dramatic U.S. Peace Initiative Might Break Paris Stalemate'

Omaha (AP) — Two Lincoln ministers who visited the Paris peace talks said that the U.S. might be able to break the diplomatic stalemate there with a "dramatic peace initiative."

The Rev. Scott Libbey, Nebraska Conference minister of the United Church of Christ, and Dr. C. Ebb Munden, pastor of Lincoln's First United Methodist Church, said talks with spokesmen for all sides of the Vietnam conflict convinced them that the war can and must be ended soon.

The Rev. Mr. Libbey said Vietnamese people on both sides are so "war weary" that any government rejecting a "serious" peace offer could "lose popular support" and put itself in danger of overthrow.

The two ministers were part of a national interdenominational committee of 50 Protestant ministers and laymen who visited the talks in March.

Nuclear Blast Allows Release Of Natural Gas

Los Angeles (AP)—A nuclear device exploded 8,430 feet below the surface, has allowed more than 400 million cubic feet of natural gas to be safely removed from a Colorado well, says an oil firm official.

Tests showed radioactivity in the gas was well within safety guidelines, C. Wardell Leisk, of the Austral Oil Co., Houston, Tex., told a meeting of the American Petroleum Institute's Division of Production.

Leisk said the explosion 19 months ago in Garfield County, Colo., shows that nuclear stimulation of gas-bearing formations could benefit the public and the gas industry.

Corsair Fighter Tops With Swiss

Bern, Switzerland (AP) — Ling-Temco-Vought's Corsair jet fighter Tuesday was announced to be the top candidate for a $302 million order to modernize the Swiss Air Force.

The Swiss Military Department Defense Ministry said that another American plane, the McDonnell-Douglas Skyhawk, was running second in the official evaluation list prepared by experts.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The headline on the story said "Farm Aid" but when we finished the story, we wondered if the headline writer really knew what he was talking about. Maybe he took the President's word for it because the President said he was increasing spending on agriculture to help the American farmer with the "high cost of farming" and to hike exports of his harvests.

Now, if you read that carefully, the help to farmers is in one category and hiking exports is another and that is quite right. But it is easy to assume that in hiking exports, you do indeed help the farmer.

Whether you actually do or not, however, is highly questionable. The truth is that farmers selling wheat for export are doing so at less than production price.

The government does pay a subsidy, if needed, to bring the price of U.S. wheat down to competitive world levels. But the subsidy goes to the exporter or someone near that end of the line, not the farmer.

There is no certificate for export wheat now as there was under the old farm program. Thus, the farmer gets no government support for export wheat. So increasing U S. wheat exports isn't going to be much of any help to the American farmer who would spend more producing that wheat than he could get out of it.

Much the same can be said for the rest of the millions of dollars that the President has said will be spent on agriculture to help the farmer. A lot of that money will be on research and it takes a long time for the benefits of research to reach the farmer. One farmer expert has said that all research has done is keep the housewife's food budget below 17 per cent of her total income.

That, of course, is the crux of the farm problem. While everyone beyond the farmer has managed to make something out of the production of food and the consumer has reaped a harvest, the farmer can hardly get back what he spends to grow a crop.

Other large sums of money will go for credit but the farmer really doesn't need more debt. Credit at the right time and under the right circumstances is a highly valuable and essential tool but you have to understand what credit will and will not do for you.

Credit does not give you any more income. What credit you get, you have to repay and such credit is properly used only in relation to your anticipated income. So credit to farmers is a lot of nothing when it is out of balance with their income.

That is what extended credit will be to a lot of farmers now. If they are able to get it, they will simply be deeper in debt and with little prospects for paying off the loan. Obviously they cannot go on like this forever and one by one will be forced off the farms.

More money is supposed to go into fighting crop and livestock disease. This is fine except that it could actually be the final downfall of many farmers. It could lead, if successful, to levels of production that produced a glut of grains on the market.

Presumably, the wheat could at least be moved to markets in a physical sense since it is the first harvest of the year. And under the new farm program, wheat farmers are likely to get about what they did last year for their product, even though that isn't going to make any of them rich.

But if all the acres of corn, milo and other grains that are planted are finally harvested, we could have grain coming out our ears. Experts on the scene say that the nation could never move all the grain that will be produced if we avoid such things as corn blight and have a good growing season.

And the resulting excessive production would apply a heavy downward pressure on prices. It is true that the farmer has more freedom under the new farm plan and some farmers will be able to practice greater efficiency as a result of this but high production could wreck the whole scheme.

All in all, nothing the President has said he is doing puts any more money directly in the pockets of farmers. And when the whole farm picture is looked at, it is the money in the farmers' pockets that makes all the difference in the world.

Hard Times At Buckingham; Watercress Replaces Caviar

LONDON — Ordinary people must ask for a raise, but when Queen Elizabeth II wants more money, she must send a Gracious Message to the House of Commons. Her majesty, now in dire straits, is expected to ask Parliament for such an increase this summer. If so, she will be the first British monarch ever to request a raise.

The royal grant, known as the Civil List, amounts to 475,000 pounds sterling a year (about $1,140,000). This figure was fixed in 1952 when Elizabeth ascended the throne. However, in terms of today's inflated prices, the queen should be getting close to $2 million just to keep even. The government at Westminster pays Elizabeth only $12,000 more than it paid to Edward VII at the turn of the century.

The queen must pay all the wages of her staff of some 300 servants. She must also keep up the royal residences and entertain out of her Civil List income. The remainder, her salary in effect, is about $144,000. Even Queen Juliana of the Netherlands gets more. Although President Nixon receives $200,000 a year, he also gets $50,000 a year to defray expenses resulting from official duties. In addition, Congress pays more than $8 million a year for the upkeep of the White House and $1.3 million for Nixon's staff.

The queen's finances are currently in Rolls-Royce-style chaos, writes The Sun. As an economy measure, Prince Philip has sold his yacht, Bloodhound, for $75,000. The palace staff has been cut by 15 per cent Prince Philip gave Americans a preview of the royal austerity program when he appeared on the television program "Meet the Press" in November, 1969, and said that Buckingham Palace would run a deficit in 1970. He even hinted that if Parliament would not help, the royal family might "have to move to smaller premises."

The royal family lives a life of middle-class simplicity amidst settings of palatial grandeur. Whereas it used to be caviar, now cucumber or watercress sandwiches are served at the queen's summer tea parties.

There are, of course, a number of prerequisites which are not accounted for in the queen's allowance. Her phone and postal bills of over $125,000 a year are paid by the Post Office. She also is allowed $1.2 million for the upkeep of the royal yacht Britannia, almost $1.1 million for her jet plane, Royal Flight, and $84,000 for the royal trains.

The plight of the royal family is greatly embarrassing to some. However, if the queen lacks ready cash, she has immense capital assets. Estimates of her fortune range as high as $350 million. This includes her castles, her paintings, and the world's finest collection of set gems.

Although the Conservative government has no intention of changing its voluntary restraint policy on other wage claims, it is unlikely to say "no" to the queen. What Prime Minister Heath is likely to do is to review the archaic way in which the monarch is paid.

'Some Day The Government May Do Something On Your Internal Security'

Prisoner Issue Stalemated

North Vietnam holds the trump card in any negotiations over prisoners of war because the U.S. government and the American people, however much they want an end to the war, are clearly more concerned over the welfare and eventual release from captivity of U.S. servicemen than is the north over the release of its agents held by the South Vietnamese.

But the prisoner issue is stalemated. Hanoi says it will not talk about a release or exchange of prisoners until the U.S. sets a definite date for withdrawal of all its troops from South Vietnam. And President Nixon says the U.S. will never completely withdraw until the prisoner issue is settled.

The President only Monday gave his support to a proposal that prisoners of war from both sides be interned in Sweden. The Swedish government, according to press reports, said it would provide ships and internment facilities for prisoners if the United States and Hanoi could reach an agreement on the transfer of prisoners to a neutral country.

A Lincoln man recently suggested, and it possibly has been suggested before, a rather unique method of helping to resolve the prisoner problem. He proposes that the U.S. ask Hanoi to release American servicemen now held prisoner in North Vietnam, some of whom have been in captivity for five years or longer. These prisoners would be relieved in the same number by "volunteers, who would be representative, valuable Americans." Presumably these would be older men, such as himself, or anyone who for humanitarian reasons would be willing to become part of a human ransom. And the north would still retain its valuable bargaining position, the Lincolnite reasons.

Such an arrangement would probably not be accepted by North Vietnam, nor would it break the stalemate that now exists, but it does reflect the humanitarian concern felt so keenly by most Americans

Past efforts to prick the conscience of North Vietnam have resulted in some better treatment of prisoners held there, but little more. It is a sad but most probably true statement that Hanoi has President Nixon over a barrel on the prisoner issue.

For Better Downtown

Suggestions made by two recent callers seem to have some merit. We have not gone into either subject by way of attempting to determine their practicality but will pass them along in the hopes that appropriate persons might take them up for consideration.

Both have to do with vacant or soon-to-be-vacant downtown buildings. In the latter category is the building in which Sears is now located. Sears will soon be a new facility in the Gateway Shopping Center.

The suggestion here is that the state buy the building and use it for the expanded office space it so badly needs. The building is a large one and centrally located. A number of state offices are already renting space in the building. This might be far less expensive to the state than building a new building and would help the utilization of existing downtown property, although that is not given as a major consideration for the state.

The other suggestion has to do with current vacant buildings such as now stand at both 14th and 12th and O. The suggestion is that downtown merchants pool the window areas in these vacant buildings and fill the windows with attractive displays of merchandise.

This would certainly improve the appearance of the downtown area, would appear to be of very little cost and might even help the overall retailing picture for the merchants. Each window could continue a small sign telling where the merchandise displayed could be purchased.

The appearance aspect of the thing is of greatest importance. The downtown gives a bad impression to people with so many empty stores. The displays might be only an illusion of activity but that would help a lot in doing away with an idea that the area was in the process of decay.

Disrupting Bureaucrats Will Solve No Problems; Too Many In Washington With Nothing To Do

WASHINGTON — The anti-war protests in the capital are based on the notion that if you keep people from going to their offices in Washington, you interfere with the efficiency and policies of the government, but this is obviously ridiculous.

Efficiency increases here in direct proportion to the rate of absenteeism. Studies of bureaucratic production in both the age of Coolidge and the age of the computer demonstrate the same general conclusion: Halving the work force doubles the work.

Calvin Coolidge reduced this to an aphorism. My distinguished colleague, Arthur Krock, once asked him: "How many people work for you in the White House?" Coolidge replied: "About half of them."

The two primary causes of inefficiency in Washington are overstaffing and boredom, too many drones showing up with nothing exciting to do. The anti-war demonstrations, sit-ins, and scuffles with police at the office tend to remove this tedium and add a little zest and even fun to the poor bureaucrat's life.

Franklin Roosevelt ran the last world war with a White House staff about half as large as the crew now working for Henry Kissinger alone in the executive offices. The War, State and Navy Departments used to work out of that one big building at the corner of 17th and Pennsylvania Avenues, now overcrowded by only a portion of the White House assistants, so the militants had better re-think their problem.

"We're going to shut this place down," they shouted at the Justice Department the other day. But that would only leave the place to J. Edgar Hoover and the F.B.I., who are scattered all over creation.

The techniques of bombing Congress and stopping traffic by lying down on the Memorial Bridge are equally harmful to the militants' cause. The one single act that has produced a unanimous spirit in the House and Senate this year was the explosion in the Capitol basement — and their reaction was against the bombers and their cause. Next to bombing, interfering with a man's automobile is the surest way in America to inflame opinion against the obstructors, but the traffic jams are coming, anyway.

This is not to say that the anti-war demonstrations of the past have not influenced the administration to speed up the withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam, but only when they had the weight of public opinion behind them.

What influences the President and his policies now is not militant physical action but political action, not street demonstrations but voting registrations. There are now several opportunities for political action that badly need public support.

First there is the opportunity to register the newly enfranchised 18-to-21-year olds for the presidential election of 1972, and also to register those citizens who will be away from their homes next year and can for the first time take advantage of the new 30-day residence requirement clause in the 1970 Voting Rights Act. In some states, the "young vote" would be greatly increased if students were carefully organized and permitted to vote on campus rather than at home.

Second, there is a bill before the Senate, introduced by Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, which would authorize the President to take military action against an enemy for only 30 days, and after that only if his actions were approved by the Congress of the United States.

Third, there is another opportunity to bring the campaign expenditures and television broadcasting rules under sensible control during the 1972 election, if the Pastore bill now before the Senate gets the kind of public support it deserves.

And finally, there is an opportunity before the Democrats, which they probably won't take, to make up their minds on a candidate for the presidency this year instead of tearing themselves apart in a party squabble and going into the election with a weakened organization and an exhausted candidate.

Thus, there is plenty of work for an effective and vigorous political opposition to do, but if it is to be effective it has to be discriminating and non-violent. For example, Xuan Thuy, the North Vietnamese delegate at the Paris peace talks, said an interesting thing the other day which deserves more attention than it has received.

"I propose," he said, "that at this conference, this very day, or tomorrow, or another day of your choice, we discuss the question of fixing the date for the withdrawal from South Vietnam of United States forces and of those of other countries in the American camp, so as to be able then to take up the question of the guarantee of the security of the United States soldiers during their withdrawal, and the question of the release of captured troops."

The administration has brushed this off as old stuff and propaganda, but since the President has been emphasizing the security of his troops and the release of the P. O. W.'s, the position is at least worth discussing, but probably won't be without pressure from the public and the families of the P. O. W.'s.

For The Few

Seward, Neb.

The article about the disappointment Coach Devaney showed with the possibility that Gov. Exon might veto the bill for a hike in the cigarette tax showed me that Devaney was interested in a smaller number of Nebraskans than Exon.

I feel that taxation must be used to support services for the largest number of people. I would like to hear more about whom the NU fieldhouse will serve and whom the state office building will serve. As for a recreation building for the Beatrice State Home, I thought we were finally getting away from the archaic idea that mentally retarded persons should be institutionalized. We have work going on to put the trainable retarded on their own feet in a real world. I would like to see more money spent on this.

I have a funny feeling that the NU fieldhouse will be used mostly by the football team, which would mean athletics for 50 men for approximately four months. This I don't call athletics. I don't merely want to watch someone else play. I want to play, myself.

I would like to see the old myth dead that says a great university has to have a great football team. That was true before World War II when only five per cent of the population went to college. A winning team then to the university meant a large endowment, a new building, or much needed equipment donated by some wealthy alumnus. Today I don't know what the rationale is behind a winning team besides promising the coach a renewal of contract. I think even this is bad.

Equal Facilities

Lincoln, Neb.

Each day I am amazed and sickened by our government officials' actions: "Our" government recently found William Calley guilty of premeditated murder for which the government did the "premeditating." "Our" Nebraska Legislature, despite the veto of our governor, passed a law raising the cigarette tax to finance, mainly, a fieldhouse for the celebrated Coach Devaney. Then federal court Judge Warren Urbom ordered the state penal complex to be integrated immediately. This decision was made contrary to Warden Sigler's wishes. The whites being moved to the old cellhouse will be, to say the least, unhappy. The blacks remaining in the old cellhouse will be unhappy. All this will lead only to fighting, burning, rioting and, worst of all, murder. Where will the money come from to repair the damages to the aged complex when the smoke clears? Our tax dollars, of course.

It would be better to use extra tax money, from cigarettes, if necessary, to build a much needed new penitentiary so that inmates, both black and white, would have equally liveable facilities. Aren't human lives more important than a Number One football coach?

Building A Club

Lincoln, Neb.

What does the word "discriminate" mean? What about the rights of other people? Don't we have any?

We've bent over backwards for the minority groups. But we have a right to associate with whom we please. It's our country, too.

We are a working class of people whose taxes support the university, welfare, rent and loans for college students, and we donate to most of the charities so we are not of a poor moral character. Then, after our work hours, we enjoy a club which we support without help.

There are many hours of work involved in putting on dinners and dances to pay our way and to make money to help others.

Even though some of us don't have a high school or college education, we have paid for homes, paid our taxes, raised fine families and taught them to respect the rights of others, their country and its laws. We are not a whining, protesting people taking a free ride.

People can set up their own clubs and be issued a charter. It takes work to build a club.

We don't try to join the fancy, high-priced clubs or live in The Knolls or other places like that. They are no better, but, after all, they are not our class. We enjoy our own working class of people. We have something in common.

New Schedules

Lincoln, Neb.

On March 23, I wrote on airport facilities. Since then, many things have happened, some good, some not so good.

Good things: United Air Lines has added another flight direct to Chicago. The C. A. B. has allowed Frontier Air Lines a direct flight to Chicago Midway, also another Lincoln-to St. Louis, Mo. via Kansas City. But no direct flight to Minneapolis. The Airport Authority says it has spent much time and money to get these flights to upgrade our service out of and into the city.

Not so good: The Airport Authority has done a good job selling this idea to our civic groups. The Chamber of Commerce feels the airlines' financial condition is in a decline, yet they say to go ahead with plans for a new terminal. New bus facilities would cost about 87 cents per person per year for 10 years, or in the neighborhood of $1 million. This would serve everyone. The airport facility is $15 million and only for those 10 per cent who have ever flown commercially.

I say, give the new schedules a couple of years to work, if necessary, then proceed slowly.

Welfare Rules

Lincoln, Neb.

The letter, "Freeloading," from S. Vollertson, was especially good and expressed the feelings of us taxpayers very well. There definitely is a need to put some pressure to relieve us of this welfare burden. A few simple rules would help.

(1) Make names of all ADC and food stamp recipients available to the public.

(2) Keep listings of jobs available. If they refuse offered jobs, deduct the amount they would have earned from the amount they receive on welfare. They should be willing to work at anything and help as much as possible, if welfare supplements it.

(3) Form child-care pools among the ADC mothers, giving some the freedom to get a job away from home and still others the opportunity to contribute while staying at home.

(4) Insist that stamp and check recipients bring an itemized statement each month of where and for what they spent the stamps and money.

(5) Provide training for the untrained, but if they don't attend classes or finish their training, they should automatically and permanently be off welfare.

As the system works now, it is too easy for people.

Officer Don Stacy

Lincoln, Neb.

I wish to express sincere commendation to Mayor Schwartzkopf, the city of Lincoln, our very capable chief of police, Joe Carroll, and an outstanding police force. Recently I was an eye-witness to the manner in which the victim of a motorcycle-truck accident at 11th and Cornhusker was cared for.

Officer Don Stacy checked the victim's eyes for signs of life, then asked help in turning him over on his back gently. He then pumped in rhythmic motion on his chest and gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, continuing this until the ambulance arrived. I must admit that a prayer left my lips not only for the victim but also for the young officer who was on his knees displaying great courage under difficult conditions.

I am proud to live in Lincoln where we have a police force composed of men trained, capable, courageous and who have a high regard for the value of human life. I thank God for such a group of men and especially for men like Don Stacy.

The recent City Council decision to recommend to the State Liquor Commission to renew the liquor licenses of Elks Lodge No. 80, Eagles Lodge No. 147, and Moose Lodge No. 175 is dismaying. Their affirmative vote actually encourages racial discrimination, as set forth in the membership policies of these lodges. To have denied the liquor licenses would have insured a closer examination of these policies. This is a legal means of curbing a moral issue.

Many criticize legislation as a means of breaking down discriminatory barriers. Yet, ours is a nation of laws. For example, the Civil Rights Laws of the 1950's and 60's. Prior to these and other litigation, basic rights were denied to minorities. Laws have been instruments for social change. Man is not so basically magnanimous that he is always aware or sensitive to the needs of others.

Many are appreciative to our City Council for their hard work on behalf of the Lincoln citizenry. We would trust that their affirmative decision was not influenced by the fact that most of the council members are also Elks Club members.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The headline on the story said "Farm Aid" but when we finished the story, we wondered if the headline writer really knew what he was talking about. Maybe he took the President's word for it because the President said he was increasing spending on agriculture to help the American farmer with the "high cost of farming" and to hike exports of his harvests.

Now, if you read that carefully, the help to farmers is in one category and hiking exports is another and that is quite right. But it is easy to assume that in hiking exports, you do indeed help the farmer.

Whether you actually do or not, however, is highly questionable. The truth is that farmers selling wheat for export are doing so at less than production price.

The government does pay a subsidy, if needed, to bring the price of U.S. wheat down to competitive world levels. But the subsidy goes to the exporter or someone near that end of the line, not the farmer.

There is no certificate for export wheat now as there was under the old farm program. Thus, the farmer gets no government support for export wheat. So increasing U.S. wheat exports isn't going to be much of any help to the American farmer who would spend more producing that wheat than he could get out of it.

Much the same can be said for the rest of the millions of dollars that the President has said will be spent on agriculture to help the farmer. A lot of that money will be on research and it takes a long time for the benefits of research to reach the farmer. One farmer expert has said that all research has done is keep the housewife's food budget below 17 per cent of her total income.

That, of course, is the crux of the farm problem. While everyone beyond the farmer has managed to make something out of the production of food and the consumer has reaped a harvest, the farmer can hardly get back what he spends to grow a crop.

Other large sums of money will go for credit but the farmer really doesn't need more debt. Credit at the right time and under the right circumstances is a highly valuable and essential tool but you have to understand what credit will and will not do for you.

Credit does not give you any more income. What credit you get, you have to repay and such credit is properly used only in relation to your anticipated income. So credit to farmers is a lot of nothing when it is out of balance with their income.

That is what extended credit will be to a lot of farmers now. If they are able to get it, they will simply be deeper in debt and with little prospects for paying off the loan. Obviously they cannot go on like this forever and one by one will be forced off the farms.

More money is supposed to go into fighting crop and livestock disease. This is fine except that it could actually be the final downfall of many farmers. It could lead, if successful, to levels of production that produced a glut of grains on the market.

Presumably, the wheat could at least be moved to markets in a physical sense since it is the first harvest of the year. And under the new farm program, wheat farmers are likely to get about what they did last year for their product, even though that isn't going to make any of them rich.

But if all the acres of corn, milo and other grains that are planted are finally harvested, we could have grain coming out our ears. Experts on the scene say that the nation could never move all the grain that will be produced if we avoid such things as corn blight and have a good growing season.

And the resulting excessive production would apply a heavy downward pressure on prices. It is true that the farmer has more freedom under the new farm plan and some farmers will be able to practice greater efficiency as a result of this but high production could wreck the whole scheme.

All in all, nothing the President has said he is doing puts any more money directly in the pockets of farmers. And when the whole farm picture is looked at, it is the money in the farmers' pockets that makes all the difference in the world.

Hard Times At Buckingham; Watercress Replaces Caviar

LONDON — Ordinary people must ask for a raise, but when Queen Elizabeth II wants more money, she must send a Gracious Message to the House of Commons. Her majesty, now in dire straits, is expected to ask Parliament for such an increase this summer. If so, she will be the first British monarch ever to request a raise.

The royal grant, known as the Civil List, amounts to 475,000 pounds sterling a year (about $1,140,000). This figure was fixed in 1952 when Elizabeth ascended the throne. However, in terms of today's inflated prices, the queen should be getting close to $2 million just to keep even. The government at Westminster pays Elizabeth only $12,000 more than it paid to Edward VII at the turn of the century.

The queen must pay all the wages of her staff of some 300 servants. She must also keep up the royal residences and entertain out of her Civil List income. The remainder, her salary in effect, is about $144,000. Even Queen Juliana of the Netherlands gets more. Although President Nixon receives $200,000 a year, he also gets $50,000 a year to defray expenses resulting from official duties. In addition, Congress pays more than $8 million a year for the upkeep of the White House and $1.3 million for Nixon's staff.

The queen's finances are currently in Rolls-Royce-style chaos, writes The Sun. As an economy measure, Prince Philip has sold his yacht, Bloodhound, for $75,000. The palace staff has been cut by 15 per cent. Prince Philip gave Americans a preview of the royal austerity program when he appeared on the television program "Meet the Press" in November, 1969, and said that Buckingham Palace would run a deficit in 1970. He even hinted that if Parliament would not help, the royal family might "have to move to smaller premises."

The royal family lives a life of middle-class simplicity amidst settings of palatial grandeur. Whereas it used to be caviar, now cucumber or watercress sandwiches are served at the queen's summer tea parties.

There are, of course, a number of prerequisites which are not accounted for in the queen's allowance. Her phone and postal bills of over $125,000 a year are paid by the Post Office. She also is allowed $1.2 million for the upkeep of the royal yacht Britannia, almost $1.1 million for her jet plane, Royal Flight, and $84,000 for the royal trains.

The plight of the royal family is greatly embarrassing to some. However, if the queen lacks ready cash, she has immense capital assets. Estimates of her fortune range as high as $350 million. This includes her castles, her paintings, and the world's finest collection of set gems.

Although the Conservative government has no intention of changing its voluntary restraint policy on other wage claims, it is unlikely to say "no" to the queen. What Prime Minister Heath is likely to do is to review the archaic way in which the monarch is paid.

'Some Day The Government May Do Something On Your Internal Security'

Prisoner Issue Stalemated

North Vietnam holds the trump card in any negotiations over prisoners of war because the U.S. government and the American people, however much they want an end to the war, are clearly more concerned over the welfare and eventual release from captivity of U.S. servicemen than is the north over the release of its agents held by the South Vietnamese.

But the prisoner issue is stalemated. Hanoi says it will not talk about a release or exchange of prisoners until the U.S. sets a definite date for withdrawal of all its troops from South Vietnam. And President Nixon says the U.S. will never completely withdraw until the prisoner issue is settled.

The President only Monday gave his support to a proposal that prisoners of war from both sides be interned in Sweden. The Swedish government, according to press reports, said it would provide ships and internment facilities for prisoners if the United States and Hanoi could reach an agreement on the transfer of prisoners to a neutral country.

A Lincoln man recently suggested, and it possibly has been suggested before, a rather unique method of helping to resolve the prisoner problem. He proposes that the U.S. ask Hanoi to release American servicemen now held prisoner in North Vietnam, some of whom have been in captivity for five years or longer. These prisoners would be relieved in the same number by "volunteers, who would be representative, valuable Americans." Presumably these would be older men, such as himself, or anyone who for humanitarian reasons would be willing to become part of a human ransom. And the north would still retain its valuable bargaining position, the Lincolnite reasons.

Such an arrangement would probably not be accepted by North Vietnam, nor would it break the stalemate that now exists, but it does reflect the humanitarian concern felt so keenly by most Americans.

Past efforts to prick the conscience of North Vietnam have resulted in some better treatment of prisoners held there, but little more. It is a sad but most probably true statement that Hanoi has President Nixon over a barrel on the prisoner issue.

For Better Downtown

Suggestions made by two recent callers seem to have some merit. We have not gone into either subject by way of attempting to determine their practicality but will pass them along in the hopes that appropriate persons might take them up for consideration.

Both have to do with vacant or soon-to-be-vacant downtown buildings. In the latter category is the building in which Sears is now located. Sears will soon be a new facility in the Gateway Shopping Center.

The suggestion here is that the state buy the building and use it for the expanded office space it so badly needs. The building is a large one and centrally located. A number of state offices are already renting space in the building. This might be far less expensive to the state than building a new building and would help the utilization of existing downtown property, although that is not given as a major consideration for the state.

The other suggestion has to do with current vacant buildings such as now stand at both 14th and 12th and O. The suggestion is that downtown merchants pool the window areas in these vacant buildings and fill the windows with attractive displays of merchandise.

This would certainly improve the appearance of the downtown area, would appear to be of very little cost and might even help the overall retailing picture for the merchants. Each window could continue a small sign telling where the merchandise displayed could be purchased.

The appearance aspect of the thing is of greatest importance. The downtown gives a bad impression to people with so many empty stores. The displays might be only an illusion of activity but that would help a lot in doing away with an idea that the area was in the process of decay.

Disrupting Bureaucrats Will Solve No Problems; Too Many In Washington With Nothing To Do

WASHINGTON — The anti-war protests in the capital are based on the notion that if you keep people from going to their offices in Washington, you interfere with the efficiency and policies of the government, but this is obviously ridiculous.

Efficiency increases here in direct proportion to the rate of absenteeism. Studies of bureaucratic production in both the age of Coolidge and the age of the computer demonstrate the same general conclusion: Halving the work force doubles the work.

Calvin Coolidge reduced this to an aphorism. My distinguished colleague, Arthur Krock, once asked him: "How many people work for you in the White House?" Coolidge replied: "About half of them."

The two primary causes of inefficiency in Washington are overstaffing and boredom, too many drones showing up with nothing exciting to do. The anti-war demonstrations, sit-ins, and scuffles with police at the office tend to remove this tedium and add a little zest and even fun to the poor bureaucrat's life.

Franklin Roosevelt ran the last world war with a White House staff about half as large as the crew now working for Henry Kissinger alone in the executive offices. The War, State and Navy Departments used to work out of that one big building at the corner of 17th and Pennsylvania Avenues, now overcrowded by only a portion of the White House assistants, so the militants had better re-think their problem.

"We're going to shut this place down," they shouted at the Justice Department the other day. But that would only leave the place to J. Edgar Hoover and the F.B.I., who are scattered all over creation.

The techniques of bombing Congress and stopping traffic by lying down on the Memorial Bridge are equally harmful to the militants' cause. The one single act that has produced a unanimous spirit in the House and Senate this year was the explosion in the Capitol basement — and their reaction was against the bombers and their cause. Next to bombing, interfering with a man's automobile is the surest way in America to inflame opinion against the obstructors, but the traffic jams are coming, anyway.

This is not to say that the anti-war demonstrations of the past have not influenced the administration to speed up the withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam, but only when they had the weight of public opinion behind them.

What influences the President and his policies now is not militant physical action but political action, not street demonstrations but voting registrations. There are now several opportunities for political action that badly need public support.

First there is the opportunity to register the newly enfranchised 18-to-21-year olds for the presidential election of 1972, and also to register those citizens who will be away from their homes next year and can for the first time take advantage of the new 30-day residence requirement clause in the 1970 Voting Rights Act. In some states, the "young vote" would be greatly increased if students were carefully organized and permitted to vote on campus rather than at home.

Second, there is a bill before the Senate, introduced by Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, which would authorize the President to take military action against an enemy for only 30 days, and after that only if his actions were approved by the Congress of the United States.

Third, there is another opportunity to bring the campaign expenditures and television broadcasting rules under sensible control during the 1972 election, if the Pastore bill now before the Senate gets the kind of public support it deserves.

And finally, there is an opportunity before the Democrats, which they probably won't take, to make up their minds on a candidate for the presidency this year instead of tearing themselves apart in a party squabble and going into the election with a weakened organization and an exhausted candidate.

Thus, there is plenty of work for an effective and vigorous political opposition to do, but if it is to be effective it has to be discriminating and non-violent. For example, Xuan Thuy, the North Vietnamese delegate at the Paris peace talks, said an interesting thing the other day which deserves more attention than it has received.

"I propose," he said, "that at this conference, this very day, or tomorrow, or another day of your choice, we discuss the question of fixing the date for the withdrawal from South Vietnam of United States forces and of those of other countries in the American camp, so as to be able then to take up the question of the guarantee of the security of the United States soldiers during their withdrawal, and the question of the release of captured troops."

The administration has brushed this off as old stuff and propaganda, but since the President has been emphasizing the security of his troops and the release of the P. O. W.'s, the position is at least worth discussing, but probably won't be without pressure from the public and the families of the P. O. W.'s.

For The Few

Seward, Neb.

The article about the disappointment Coach Devaney showed with the possibility that Gov. Exon might veto the bill for a hike in the cigarette tax showed me that Devaney was interested in a smaller number of Nebraskans than Exon.

I feel that taxation must be used to support services for the largest number of people. I would like to hear more about whom the NU fieldhouse will serve and whom the state office building will serve. As for a recreation building for the Beatrice State Home, I thought we were finally getting away from the archaic idea that mentally retarded persons should be institutionalized. We have work going on to put the trainable retarded on their own feet in a real world. I would like to see more money spent on this.

I have a funny feeling that the NU fieldhouse will be used mostly by the football team, which would mean athletics for 50 men for approximately four months. This I don't call athletics. I don't merely want to watch someone else play. I want to play, myself.

I would like to see the old myth dead that says a great university has to have a great football team. That was true before World War II when only five per cent of the population went to college. A winning team then to the university meant a large endowment, a new building, or much needed equipment donated by some wealthy alumnus. Today I don't know what the rationale is behind a winning team besides promising the coach a renewal of contract. I think even this is bad.

Equal Facilities

Lincoln, Neb.

Each day I am amazed and sickened by our government officials' actions. "Our" government recently found William Calley guilty of premeditated murder for which the government did the "premeditating." "Our" Nebraska Legislature, despite the veto of our governor, passed a law raising the cigarette tax to finance, mainly, a fieldhouse for the celebrated Coach Devaney. Then federal court Judge Warren Urbom ordered the state penal complex to be integrated immediately. This decision was made contrary to Warden Sigler's wishes. The whites being moved to the old cellhouse will be, to say the least, unhappy. The blacks remaining in the old cellhouse will be unhappy. All this will lead only to fighting, burning, rioting and, worst of all, murder. Where will the money come from to repair the damages to the aged complex when the smoke clears? Our tax dollars, of course.

It would be better to use extra tax money, from cigarettes, if necessary, to build a much needed new penitentiary so that inmates, both black and white, would have equally liveable facilities. Aren't human lives more important than a Number One football coach?

What does the word "discriminate" mean? What about the rights of other people? Don't we have any?

We've bent over backwards for the minority groups. But we have a right to associate with whom we please. It's our country, too.

We are a working class of people whose taxes support the university, welfare, rent and loans for college students, and we donate to most of the charities so we are not of a poor moral character. Then, after our work hours, we enjoy a club which we support without help.

There are many hours of work involved in putting on dinners and dances to pay our way and to make money to help others.

Even though some of us don't have a high school or college education, we have paid for homes, paid our taxes, raised fine families and taught them to respect the rights of others, their country and its laws. We are not a whining, protesting people taking a free ride.

Court System Overhaul Proposed

By The Associated Press

By agreement of the sponsor, Judiciary Committee, the bill will lay dormant on general file until the 1972 session begins next January. The new constitutional provisions for annual Unicameral sessions permit bills to be held over from odd-numbered-year sessions to the following even-numbered-year session.

A constitutional amendment approved by voters last November authorized reorganization of Nebraska's courts of limited jurisdiction, and LB1032, which runs to 121 pages, reflects the results of interim studies.

LB1032 would establish a statewide system of county courts replacing existing county, municipal, police magistrate and justice of the peace courts.

Also introduced Tuesday was a Miscellaneous Subjects Committee bill, LB1033, variously revising law related to the State Library Commission.

LB1033 changes the name of the agency from the Nebraska Public Library Commission to the Nebraska Library Commission. It changes the name of its administrative officer from executive secretary to director, and revises the terms and number of commission members.

Boundary Compact Proposed

A bill was introduced in the Legislature Tuesday designed to solve by agreement boundary disputes between Nebraska and Missouri caused by changes in the course of the Missouri River.

The measure, LB1034, was sponsored by the Public Works Committee. Lawmakers voted to suspend the rules in order to place the bill at the head of general file, the first stage of legislative floor action.

If the bill is passed, a similar measure must be passed by the Missouri Legislature and the agreement ratified by Congress before the compact is effective.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha explained that there are several court cases pending concerning the boundary line and "this will settle it."

He called the bill "the logical way to see if Missouri and Nebraska can settle the dispute by compact" and a way to "avoid further court litigation."

Policy Changed On Legal Opinion

The Legislature Tuesday reversed a long-standing policy and decided to make public all opinions from the State Justice Department which are given to individual senators.

The senators voted 19-18 to accept a motion by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff that the opinions be printed in the Legislative Journal, the Unicameral's daily records, as they are received by senators.

Current practice provides that senators may seek legal opinions from Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer but may make those opinions public at their discretion.

Bill Advanced To Curb SID Improvements

By United Press International

The Legislature gave first round approval Tuesday afternoon to a bill which would prohibit sanitary improvement districts from undertaking certain kinds of improvements.

The lawmakers sent an amended version of the bill (LB188) over its first floor hurdle on a 37-1 vote. It is chiefly sponsored by Sen. Richard F. Proud of Omaha.

Despite Proud's objections, the lawmakers adopted an amendment offered by the Urban Affairs Committee which would spell out the kinds of projects prohibited.

A district would not be allowed to construct race tracks, golf courses, clubhouses, skating rinks, marinas, theaters, dance halls of bowling alleys.

Proud said the districts should be allowed to build golf courses, but Sen. P. J. Morgan of Omaha told the Legislaure of a golf course taken over recently by the City of Omaha from one of the districts, which cost "two or three times" as much had the city built it.

Proud also objected saying it wold be hard to provide a comprehensive list of prohibited projects.

"It is impossible to cover the waterfront," he said. "You can't begin to spell out all the projects you can't do."

Some senators later questioned whether the bill would put the Devils Next development project out of business by imposing the restrictions.

And on a suggestion by Lincoln Sen. Harold Simpson, an amendment was adopted to allow exceptions to the limitations for any project not included within the scope of city or village zoning limits, which would exclude Devils Nest.

The bill would also establish procedures for filing objections to district assessments by the private landowner.

Student Seminar Attacks Clothing

New York (AP) — At a recent seminar students of Traphagen School of Fashion expressed a desire to change a lot more than just the style of garments worn by women.

They attacked today's poor workmanship, the designing of way out items for the sake of promotion and clothes that are styled to look well only on size eight models.

Bills Introduced

Bills introduced in the Legislature Tuesday:

LB1032 (Judiciary Committee)—Establishing a statewide system of county courts replacing existing county, municipal, police magistrate and justice of the peace courts.

LB1033 (Miscellaneous Subjects Committee) — Changing name of Public Library Commission to Nebraska Library Commission, revising membership and terms of commission, and related law.

Rest Of Budget Bill Series Advanced

By The Associated Press

Without a dissenting vote, the Legislature Tuesday gave first-round approval to the remainder of a series of budget recommendations made by the Unicameral's Budget Committee.

The senators had earlier voted to advance from general file LB1025, the main budget bill which would provide most of the operating money for state agencies and programs.

The Legislature Tuesday advanced five bills from general file — LB1026 through LB1030 — which are part of a six-bill package from the Budget Committee.

The five bills advsnced Tuesday would:

—Appropriate funds to pay the salaries of constitutional officers.

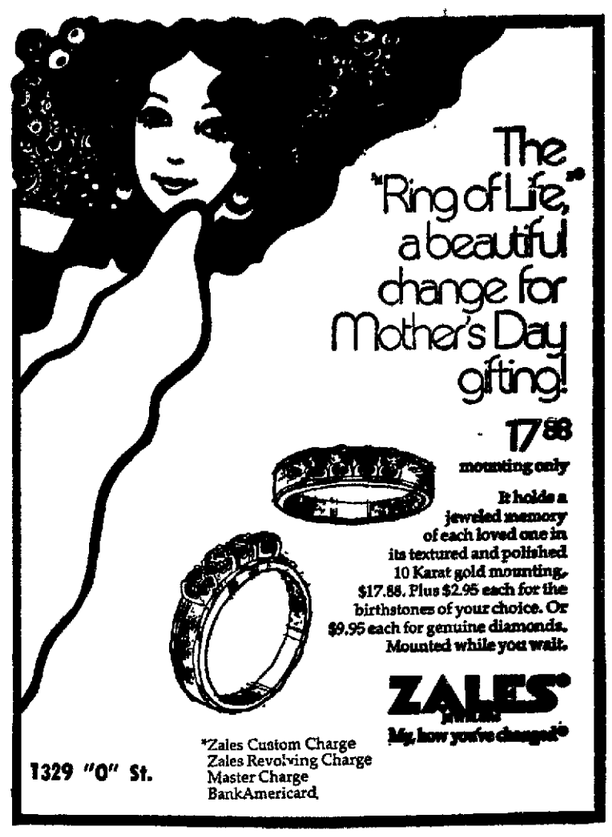

—Make the appropriations of state aid to governmental subdivisions as required by current law and other non-state spending.

—Make a deficiency appropriation to cover an increase in the salaries of district judges which took effect this biennium.

—Transfer certain funds within programs to meet current deficiencies.

—Create the State Department of Personnel Services as a code department.

The bills approved Tuesday are part of the $511.7 million budget recommended by the appropriations committee headed by Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings.

Delay Requested Of New Rules For Truck Drivers

The Legislature asked federal officials Tuesday to postpone, at least to the end of this year, new truck driver qualification regulations which would prevent persons younger than 21 from driving farm trucks across state lines in the routine hauling of produce from farm to market.

A resolution asking such a delay was adopted on a 36-0 vote. The resolution, No. 57, was sponsored by Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance, J. W. Burbach of Crofton and Willard Waldo of DeWitt.

Also passed Tuesday, 38-0, was Grand Island Sen. Don Elrod's Resolution 56, putting the Legislature on record as supporting the proposal to construct a 100-bed addition to the Nebraska Veterans Home at Grand Island.

Possessing Drug Charge Is Filed Against 2 Men

Kearney (AP) — Two men were held under $2,000 bond each after arraignment in Buffalo County Court on felony drug charges.

Joseph Dilger, 23, of Chicago and Jack Kaplin, 18, of Denver appeared on charges of possession of stimulant drugs — namely LSD — and possession of more than ½ pound of marijuana.

They were arrested Saturday by George Svoboda, marshal at Shelton, after Svoboda was advised that occupants of an auto had been attempting to sell drugs [illegible] Grand [illegible]

Court System Overhaul Proposed

By The Associated Press

By agreement of the sponsoring Judiciary Committee, the bill will lay dormant on general file until the 1972 session begins next January. The new constitutional provisions for annual Unicameral sessions permit bills to be held over from odd-numbered-year sessions to the following even-numbered-year session.

A constitutional amendment approved by voters last November authorized reorganization of Nebraska's courts of limited jurisdiction, and LB1032, which runs to 121 pages, reflects the results of interim studies.

LB1032 would establish a statewide system of county courts replacing existing county, municipal, police magistrate and justice of the peace courts.

Also introduced Tuesday was a Miscellaneous Subjects Committee bill, LB1033, variously revising law related to the State Library Commission.

LB1033 changes the name of the agency from the Nebraska Public Library Commission to the Nebraska Library Commission. It changes the name of its administrative officer from executive secretary to director, and revises the terms and number of commission members.

Boundary Compact Proposed

A bill was introduced in the Legislature Tuesday designed to solve by agreement boundary disputes between Nebraska and Missouri caused by changes in the course of the Missouri River.

The measure, LB1034, was sponsored by the Public Works Committee. Lawmakers voted to suspend the rules in order to place the bill at the head of general file, the first stage of legislative floor action.

If the bill is passed, a similar measure must be passed by the Missouri Legislature and the agreement ratified by Congress before the compact is effective.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha explained that there are several court cases pending concerning the boundary line and "this will settle it."

He called the bill "the logical way to see if Missouri and Nebraska can settle the dispute by compact" and a way to "avoid further court litigation."

Policy Changed On Legal Opinion

The Legislature Tuesday reversed a long-standing policy and decided to make public all opinions from the State Justice Department which are given to individual senators.

The senators voted 19-18 to accept a motion by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff that the opinions be printed in the Legislative Journal, the Unicameral's daily records, as they are received by senators.

Current practice provides that senators may seek legal opinions from Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer but may make those opinions public at their discretion.

Higher Education Said Structurally Outmoded

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Two members of a national task force which recently completed a report critical of American colleges and universities said here Tuesday that "the structure of higher education is outmoded in terms of present purposes."

The two, Russell Edgerton and William Cannon, were in Lincoln for a one-day conference on "what's right and what's wrong with higher education", sponsored by the Mountain-Plains Regional Council of the American Association for Higher Education.

Edgerton and Cannon were members of a nine-member group which completed in March a study of higher education in the U.S.

HEW Directive

The study, compiled in a "Report on Higher Education," was the result of a directive from former Secretary Robert Finch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The report has the endorsement of Elliot Richardson, current HEW chief, and it is being distributed to schools across the country for their consideration.

In remarks at Tuesday s opening session and at a news conference earlier, Edgerton and Cannon stressed they see the report as a diagnosis of the problems of higher education, rather than a panacea for all institutions.

Society's Perspective

Edgerton told the some 70 participants in the one-day affair that the task force studied the problems from the perspective of the needs of society, rather than from an institutional point of view.

Earlier, he had told newsmen the task force "sees the report as a vehicle to begin discussions on the questions raised."

And primarily, he said, the group concluded that "people" really haven't been worrying about the right problems."

"An enormous amount of social change has (brought) new meanings and new challenges" to higher education, said Cannon.

'New Clientele'

He suggested colleges will soon be faced with a "new clientele" of people other than 18 to 22-year-olds who have just left high school.

He said the task force concluded that further extension of the present operations of aiming almost solely at that group will continue to cause problems.

Schools ought to provide more flexibility, he said, and attempt to serve all society with new forms of continuing education for the youngster, the housewife and the factory worker alike.

Among the suggestions he mentioned was one which sounded as if it might parallel an idea recently advocated by University of Nebraska Chancellor D. B. Varner, who has suggested offering a freshman year by ETV.

Avoid 'Locking In'

Edgerton suggested that changes will have to come quickly if colleges are to avoid "locking in" to the present mode of operation.

"If we are going to loosen up and make higher education responsive to societal needs," he said, "time is terribly critical."

Tuesday's session was one of five this week sponsored by the Mountain-Plains Council. The others are being held in Topeka, Denver, Salt Lake City and Boise.

Cannon is vice president for programs and projects at the University of Chicago and Edgerton is a special assistant to Richardson at HEW.

McNeil Said In Line For Ombudsman

Former state tax commissioner Murrell B. McNeil is expected to be appointed Nebraska's first ombudsman, it was reported Tuesday.

According to the reports, McNeil will be appointed to the post Wednesday by the Legislative Council Executive Board. The appointment must be confirmed by the full Legislature.

McNeil, who served as tax commissioner under former Republican Gov. Norbert T Tiemann, is currently employed as a researcher for the Legislative Council.

The ombudsman, or public counsel, was created by the 1969 Legislature through the passage of a law sponsored by Sen. Loran Schmit of David City.

The ombudsman is supposed to act as an advocate or complaint checker of government for private citizens.

K-N Rate Hike Request Okayed

Hastings (UPI) — Federal Power Commission approval has been granted to a settlement of a rate application filed by Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. last August, the company announced.

The settlement allows Kansas-Nebraska to increase its rates by 25% for gas sales made to nine wholesale customers for resale in 65 towns in Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado.

The settlement will provide the company additional revenues of $2.4 million annually from its wholesale customers.

$6.4 Million Owed State By Counties

Nebraska counties owed the state $6,394,226 as of the end of February for care of their residents in state mental institutions.

The report was provided the Legislature Tuesday by State Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson, in compliance with a legislative resolution adopted March 30, asking such fiscal information.

Countess owing the money had $2,499,466 in cash on hand to meet the debts in part.

According to the auditor, counties were billed for a total of $50,711,325 in mental patient costs from May 31, 1966 to Feb. 28, 1971, and had paid $44,317,098.

Prof. Rozman Tells NU Students U.S. 'Greatest Menace To World'

By LADD HERSHNER
Star Staff Writer

Some 200 University of Nebraska students were told Tuesday that they should make a pledge to the world that they recognize the realities of the Indochina war and that they will not rest until the U.S. government has changed its priorities.

Stephen Rozman, assistant NU political science professor, told students gathered at an antiwar "teach-in" that "it is time to recognize our government as the greatest menace to the world." He said that nothing the United States can gain is worth the "wholesale slaughter" of another country.

Calling for Americans to "compel our government" to leave Southeast Asia and let those countries decide their own fate, Rozman said that Americans' early ideas about U.S. involvement in the war have proven to be "naive myths."

'Imperialism Exposed'

He went on to say that "U.S. imperialism is being exposed for what it is . . . we are now aware of the over-all pattern of imperialism and the imperialistic system."

Rozman also commented on the NU Board of Regents and said now that "we recognize the power structure on the university we can no longer be deceived by it."

"Each act of repression can now be recognized for what it is." he said.

'Dollar, Flag, Boys'

Merle Hansen, instrumental in forming the antiwar group, Rural Nebraskans For Peace, said that "the flag follows the dollar and the boys follow the flag." This, he said, is fundamentally the U.S. policy.

Hansen said that "today we have the means to totally destroy the world in 30 minutes . . . one absolute and total thing we must do and must do now is change . . . we are going to change or we are going to die."

The Rev. Tom ReHorn, also affiliated with Rural Nebraskans For Peace. told the group that "nationalistic sovereignty has run its course."

'Global Approach'

The minister from South Sioux City said that the time has come to turn to a "global approach" to the world's problems. A world-wide effort must be implemented for peace, he said.

John Dower, a history professor at NU, said that he believes the reason that the North Vietnamese are not willing to negotiate is because "history has shown" that in negotiations with Western countries, the North Vietnamese have always been victims of betrayal.

He said that if "the other side" cannot trust the West, they surely cannot trust President Nixon. Dower remembered Nixon as "one of the most vigorous hawks on Vietnam" in the past.

Nader Postpones Kearney Lecture

Kearney (UPI) — A lecture by Ralph Nader, scheduled for Wednesday on the Kearney State College campus, has been called off.

Student Union director Ward Schrack said Nader had been ordered to appear before a Senate subcommittee in Washington Wednesday afternoon and would be unable to make an appearance in Kearney.

Nader's talk will be rescheduled at a later date, Schrack said.

County Defers Action On Interchange Zoning

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday deferred action on a request for change of zone from agricultural to highway service use on property east of the Waverly interchange.

George Day, who has made application for the change in zoning, told the board that this area is the "front door of Lincoln from the north" and that it should be made attractive.

He said that he plans a motel, office structures and a service stop as well as a nine-hole golf course with swans and other objects for beautification near the motel as well as an industrial tract on the 190-acre site.

He said he also hopes to include a camping site on the property.

Although the planning commission and director have recommended denial for several reasons including undesirable sanitation, Day said that state environmental health personnel have approved his planned sanitation system.

He also said that 40 acres adjacent has already been rezoned several years ago and that the Waverly planning division as well as the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce are "enthusiastic" about it.

City-County Planning Director Douglas Brogden told the commissioners that he felt they should consider that "this is not the only such application they may expect to receive in the future if such zoning is approved.

In other business, a member of the committee which has been studying the possibility of a central microfilming system for the county told the board he felt that the county is better off the way it is.

He said that with some additional equipment for Lancaster County, Douglas County "could come down and take lessons from us."

Lancaster County, he said, has a better operation than Douglas County "ever hoped to have."

He suggested that Lancaster County purchase one 35mm camera that can utilize more than one head, purchase a densitometer to check film quality and a duplicator.

The new equipment proposed would cost about $12,000, according to Hibberd.

Commissioner Robert Colin has urged that the county implement a central micro-filming system to save both time and money, but Hibberd said that the departments doing microfilming now can justify a fulltime microfilm operator.

Several other county officials have indicated reluctance to allowing records out of their individual offices to a central department since the county officials are responsible for those records.

In other action, the commissioners approved the sale of on-and-off sale beer in Bennet on Sunday, June 6, from 1 to 6 p.m. during Bennet's centennial celebration.

Prof. Rozman Tells NU Students U.S. 'Greatest Menace To World'

By LADD HERSHNER
Star Staff Writer

Some 200 University of Nebraska students were told Tuesday that they should make a pledge to the world that they recognize the realities of the Indochina war and that they will not rest until the U.S. government has changed its priorities.

Stephen Rozman, assistant NU political science professor, told students gathered at an antiwar "teach-in" that "it is time to recognize our government as the greatest menace to the world." He said that nothing the United States can gain is worth the "wholesale slaughter" of another country.

Calling for Americans to "compel our government" to leave Southeast Asia and let those countries decide their own fate, Rozman said that Americans' early ideas about U.S. involvement in the war have proven to be "naive myths."

'Imperialism Exposed'

He went on to say that "U.S. imperialism is being exposed for what it is . . . we are now aware of the over-all pattern of imperialism and the imperialistic system."

Rozman also commented on the NU Board of Regents and said now that "we recognize the power structure on the university we can no longer be deceived by it."

"Each act of repression can now be recognized for what it is," he said.

'Dollar, Flag, Boys'

Merle Hansen, instrumental in forming the antiwar group, Rural Nebraskans For Peace, said that "the flag follows the dollar and the boys follow the flag." This, he said, is fundamentally the U.S. policy.

Hansen said that "today we have the means to totally destroy the world in 30 minutes . . . one absolute and total thing we must do and must do now is change . . . we are going to change or we are going to die."

The Rev. Tom ReHorn, also affiliated with Rural Nebraskans For Peace, told the group that "nationalistic sovereignty has run its course."

'Global Approach'

The minister from South Sioux City said that the time has come to turn to a "global approach" to the world's problems. A world-wide effort must be implemented for peace, he said.

John Dower, a history professor at NU, said that he believes the reason that the North Vietnamese are not willing to negotiate is because "history has shown" that in negotiations with Western countries, the North Vietnamese have always been victims of betrayal.

He said that if "the other side" cannot trust the West, they surely cannot trust President Nixon. Dower remembered Nixon as "one of the most vigorous hawks on Vietnam" in the past.

Nader Postpones Kearney Lecture

Kearney (UPI) — A lecture by Ralph Nader, scheduled for Wednesday on the Kearney State College campus, has been called off.

Student Union director Ward Schrack said Nader had been ordered to appear before a Senate subcommittee in Washington Wednesday afternoon and would be unable to make an appearance in Kearney.

Nader's talk will be rescheduled at a later date, Schrack said.

$6.4 Million Owed State By Counties

Nebraska counties owed the state $6,394,226 as of the end of February for care of their residents in state mental institutions.

The report was provided the Legislature Tuesday by State Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson, in compliance with a legislative resolution adopted March 30, asking such fiscal information.

Countess owing the money had $2,499,466 in cash on hand to meet the debts in part.

According to the auditor, counties were billed for a total of $50,711,325 in mental patient costs from May 31, 1966 to Feb. 28, 1971, and had paid $44,317,098.

County Defers Action On Interchange Zoning

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday deferred action on a request for change of zone from agricultural to highway service use on property east of the Waverly interchange.

George Day, who has made application for the change in zoning, told the board that this area is the "front door of Lincoln from the north" and that it should be made attractive.

He said that he plans a motel, office structures and a service stop as well as a nine-hole golf course with swans and other objects for beautification near the motel as well as an industrial tract on the 190-acre site.

He said he also hopes to include a camping site on the property.

Although the planning commission and director have recommended denial for several reasons including undesirable sanitation, Day said that state environmental health personnel have approved his planned sanitation system.

He also said that 40 acres adjacent has already been rezoned several years ago and that the Waverly planning division as well as the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce are "enthusiastic" about it.

City-County Planning Director Douglas Brogden told the commissioners that he felt they should consider that "this is not the only such application they may expect to receive in the future if such zoning is approved.

In other business, a member of the committee which has been studying the possibility of a central microfilming system for the county told the board he felt that the county is better off the way it is.

Wilbur Hibberd, deputy register of deeds, told the commissioners that after seeing Douglas County's system, "Their idea of central microfilming is processing only."

He said that with some additional equipment for Lancaster County, Douglas County "could come down and take lessons from us."

Lancaster County, he said, has a better operation than Douglas County "ever hoped to have."

He suggested that Lancaster County purchase one 35mm camera that can utilize more than one head, purchase a densitometer to check film quality and a duplicator.

The new equipment proposed would cost about $12,000, according to Hibberd.

Commissioner Robert Colin has urged that the county implement a central micro-filming system to save both time and money, but Hibberd said that the departments doing microfilming now can justify a fulltime microfilm operator.

Several other county officials have indicated reluctance to allowing records out of their individual offices to a central department since the county officials are responsible for those records.

In other action, the commissioners approved the sale of on-and-off sale beer in Bennet on Sunday, June 6, from 1 to 6 p.m. during Bennet's centennial celebration.

Sen. Waldo Questions Redistricting Proposal

Although he is "willing to step out" of the Legislature as a result of redistricting, Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt said Tuesday, senators should consider an alternative reapportionment plan based on 50 districts.

The Miscellaneous Subjects Committee has sent to the floor for consideration its recommendation based on 49 districts.

Its proposal would redistrict out of office at the completion of their terms in January of 1973 Waldo and Sen. Ellen Craft of North Platte.

Mrs. Craft has previously announced her intention not to seek re-election in any event; Waldo said he "had not thought about" whether he would seek re-election in 1972.

Under the committee's redistricting plan, Waldo would be moved into the district represented by Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, whose term expires in 1975.

Thus, Waldo would not be able to seek re-election to the Legislature until 1974 after sitting out two years.

"I wouldn't close the possibility of doing that," he said.

The committee's plan, he said, crosses too many county lines and produces other than compact districts.

"It would be much easier to stay with county lines and have better shaped districts if the Legislature would increase its size from 49 to 50," Waldo said.

"And I think the fewer county lines that are crossed, the better it is."

Even though it is late in the 1971 session, Waldo said, "I think it would be better if we go back and refigure these proposed districts on the basis of 50 members.

"Personally, it doesn't make any particular difference to me whether I am out. From a financial standpoint, I'm sure I would be way ahead to get out of the Legislature.

"But it doesn't seem to me that these districts would be desirable from the standpoint of the people or their representatives."

Waldo said the matter could even wait until the 1972 session as long as senators acted quickly enough to beat the mid-March filing deadline.

"We could make it the first order of business in the 1972 session and, after careful study, act on the bill in mid-January two months before the filing deadline.

"That would give everyone plenty of time."

Resolution Asks Navy To Name Ship After State

The Legislature Tuesday was asked to request the U.S. Navy to name a new guided missile frigate after the state of Nebraska.

The request was contained in Resolution 59, sponsored chiefly by Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove. The resolution was laid over one day.

The resolution took note of the fact that Navy Secretary John Chaffee has said nuclear-powered guided missile frigates may be named after states.

Also introduced and laid over was Resolution 58, asking the Legislature to observe a moment of silence for Marion Van Berg, the noted horsebreeder who died Monday.

Unicam Advances Revised Dairy Products Bill

By United Press International

The Legislature, without opposition, gave first round approval Tuesday afternoon to a bill which would revise the controversial 1969 Dairy Products Pricing Act.

The lawmakers sent the bill (LB79) over its first floor hurdle on a 27-0 vote. It is chiefly sponsored by Omaha Sen. Sam Klaver and amended by the Unicameral's Agriculture and Recreation Committee.

Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora, speaking for the committee, said it was felt the law should be changed "because of the public reaction" and a court case involving the measure.

Board Retained

Kremer said the Dairy Products Advisory Board, which he said drew much of the unfavorable comment in connection with the law, has been retained.

However, the board would not set minimum prices for both wholesale and retail sales as it did under the original law, he said. It would be responsible for setting a "minimum basic cost."

Kremer said the minimum cost would be that incurred by the processor, except for profit.

The bill, he said, would still be aimed at stopping predatory trade practices, as was the original law. It would establish a cost schedule for retailers, based on the basic cost, but would not impose a built-in profit margin.

The bill would require retailers to charge at least 10% above the basic cost if the products are delivered and placed in the dairy case; 13% if delivered to the door; and 15% if the retailer picks them up from the wholesalers plant.

The committee indicated that schedule would be enough to stop the predatory trade practices originally objected to before the 1969 law was passed.

Meyer Asks Which Legal Opinions To Publicize

Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer Tuesday asked the Legislature to clarify its action earlier in the day when lawmakers voted to make public all legal opinions from the State Justice Department which are given to individual senators.

Meyer asked for a committee to be appointed "with whom we could work to find a solution satisfactory to all concerned."

The letter was turned over to the Rules Committee for further action.

The lawmakers earlier had voted 19-18 to have all opinions printed in the daily Legislative Journal. Traditional practice had allowed senators to seek opinions but to make such opinions public at their discretion.

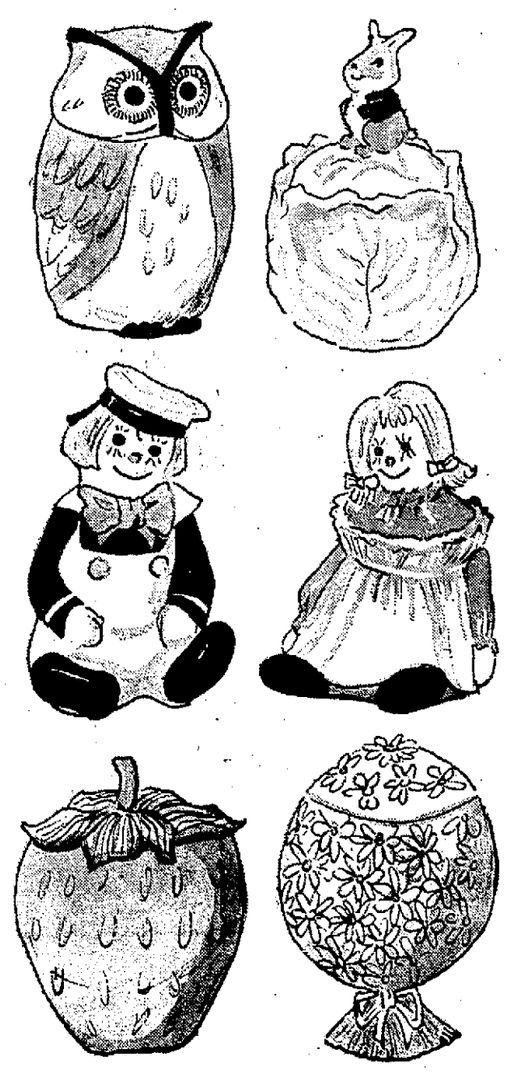

In his letter, Meyer pointed out that several problems could arise should he literally follow the motion and he asked for guidance on which opinions were meant by the legislative action.

B-1 Bomber Plans Draw Verbal Flak

©The New York Times

Washington — A bipartisan congressional group fired its first salvo in the battle over the defense budget Tuesday by attacking the Air Force's proposed new manned bomber as an unnecessary, ineffective and obsolete weapon.

The critical report on the Air Force's B-1 supersonic bomber project was issued by Members of Congress for Peace through Law, a study group of 115 members of the House and Senate, headed this year by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore.

A still-secret General Accounting Office report circulating on Capitol Hill concluded, meanwhile, that the Air Force had "understated" the cost of the B-1 bomber and had not taken adequate steps to prevent future cost increases in the multibillion-dollar project.

To Succeed B-52

The B-1 bomber, designed as a successor late in this decade for the B-52 intercontinental strategic bomber, is now in the engineering development stage. In this year's defense budget, the administration has asked for $370 million to start work on the development of three prototpye models of the swept-winged bomber.

A 16-page report prepared for Members of Congress for Peace through Law by a subcommittee headed by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, questioned whether a manned bomber fleet would be either necessary or useful in the 1980s and beyond, when both the United States and the Soviet Union would possess a nuclear deterrent of ballistic missiles.

The report protested that even if, as is argued by the Air Force, a mixed deterrent of missiles and bombers were deemed necessary, the B-1 would still be ill-designed for its strategic mission and would have a doubtful capability as to its penetrating sophisticated Soviet air defenses.

The report also warned that when a new aerial tanker plane was included, the cost of producing a fleet of 240 of the bombers, as now planned by the Air Force, could run to $20 billion and perhaps as much as $47 billion.

Cost Rises

The Air Force estimate of the cost of producing the new bomber fleet — exclusive of the tanker planes which the Air Force says it will not necessarily need — has risen to $11.4 billion, making it one of the most expensive weapons projects ever presented to Congress.

The GAO report found that between June 1969 and June 1970 the estimated cost of the project had increased by $1.3 billion. The report acknowledged, however, that $982 million of the increase was attributable to inflation.

The McGovern-Seiberling report was particularly critical of the Air Force's insistence that the new bomber must have a high-altitude supersonic capability to penetrate through Soviet defenses to drop its bombs directly on targets. The supersonic capability, it argued, was not only unnecessary but also added about 50% to the cost of the plane.

Noting that the Air Force B-70 bomber project was "dropped precisely because the Soviet Union had the clear capability to destroy high-flying supersonic aircraft," the report said the Air Force mission for the new B-1 bomber "hardly makes any sense" in view of expected Soviet advances in air defenses.

McGovern suggested at a news conference on the report that the supersonic capability was added largely for two reasons: "To enhance the excitement for strategic bomber pilots and the glamor of Air Force recruiting programs."

COOKE . . . filming at Bryan's home.

Cooke Putting Observations Of America On Film

. . . STUDY OF BRYAN INCLUDES VISIT TO FAIRVIEW

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

British correspondent Alistair Cooke, who has been observing America for nearly 40 years, was in Lincoln this week putting some of his observations on film for a BBC documentary scheduled for broadcast two years hence.

Cooke, longtime commentator on American affairs for the British Broadcasting Co. and chief U.S. correspondent for the Manchester Guardian, said Tuesday the 13-part series will be a follow-up to the BBC's "Civilisation."

"The BBC said, 'You've been here 37 years; now distill it into a story of America,'" Cooke explained Tuesday evening.

'Personal History'

Cooke had just completed the last bit of filming for the eighth of the upcoming series, which he said will be titled: "America: A Personal History of the United States."

The eighth of the series will end with a look at William Jennings Bryan, whose Lincoln home, Fairview, will be featured with Cooke's commentary.

Cooke said Bryan ends a program on "Money in the Land," which begins with a look at the money barons of the late 19th century — Carnegie, Rockefeller and J. P. Morgan.

Populist Revolt

Then, he said, it moves to the Midwest and the Populist Revolt, which sprang from the depression of the 1890s.

"In an angry time, America turns to an angry man," he explained, and "found him here" in Lincoln.

One of 'Failed Saints'

He termed the "Great Commoner" one of the nation's "failed saints," a group which Cooke said included such men as Learned Hand and Adlai Stevenson.

Bryan "was essentially the link between Andrew Jackson and Franklin Roosevelt," Cooke said.

"In a way, he prepared the ground with the Populists for the New Deal."

3-Time Candidate

Bryan, who moved to Lincoln in 1887, was three-time Democratic candidate for president before serving as secretary of state under Woodrow Wilson.

Bryan built Fairview in 1901 and finally sold the home in 1922. The home is now an historic landmark which has been refurbished through the efforts of the Lincoln Junior League, the State Historical Society and Bryan Memorial Hospital, near which the home stands.

Cooke said he has taken a year off from his work at the Guardian to devote full time to the series, which he is writing and researching himself.

'New Chaos'

He said he and BBC crews are ending the second of three years of filming the series, which will begin with the discovery of America and end with the "Old Order and the New Chaos," which Cooke said he hopes 'doesn't come true."

Cooke said he will go on from Lincoln with work on other part of the series, and one on the Gold Rush will take him to the West Coast during the next few weeks.

Asked what he wants to do after he finishes the series and the book which will accompany it, Cooke said, "I want to become a golf bum."

He said he hopes the documentary is successful enough to permit him that wish.

Finance Commission Tells Nixon Schools Are In A State Of Crisis

Washington (AP) — A commission on school finance told President Nixon Tuesday both public and private schools are in a state of crisis.

The President's Commission on School Finance also reported there are valid reasons for discontent with the system which has reached a level threatening some school operations

"The complexity of the problem defies precise definition," a progress report on Commission research said.

One recommendation that could stir controversy called for a vote for a measure of public revenue support for nonpublic schools to help arrest the decline of a system made up predominantly of Roman Catholic schools.

14 Of 16 Present

Fourteen of the 16 members of the commission, created by the President more than a year ago, went to the White House Tuesday to present their progress report.

Released along with it was an interim report on nonpublic education by a special panel. The latter recommended more help for parochial and other nonpublic schools, which the chairman of the full commission, former Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy accepted unanimously.

In a covering letter, McElroy said findings to date — a final report will be submitted next March — confirm that "there is indeed a crisis in American elementary and secondary education" that goes considerably beyond financial aspects

The analysis wasn't entirely gloomy, however. At the outset, the commission said: "American schools are providing a better education for a higher proportion of the population than ever before, an often overlooked fact in light of the multiple concerns exhibited by the American public"

It also said the nation is more concerned with its failures than with its successes and this critical, introspective view has focused attention on schools, which are bearing the brunt of the dissatisfaction while operating under severe financial constraints.

Finance is a major problem and the commission said it will recommend reforms in this field but schools undoubtedly will require greater public expenditures in the future.

With all this, the report nevertheless said that "American education is doing a better job for more people than it ever has." It added "that it is paradoxical that public and private education is widely considered to be facing a crisis in public confidence at the moment of its highest overall achievement."

Study Panel Upholds Credits For ROTC Classes At NU

After a six-month study, a special University of Nebraska faculty-student committee has upheld the policy of granting credit for ROTC courses offered at NU's Lincoln campus

The committee report said: "We find no reason to deny academic credit to any ROTC course. On this basis, we recommend that the various college faculties accept ROTC as accredited electives toward the bachelor's degree"

The committee determined that ROTC instructors enjoy flexibility in terms of textbook selection, reference materials adoption, teaching methods, course content and function.

"We found no indication that teachers were instructed to follow a particular political line dictated by the Defense Department," the report read. "Students and teachers pointed out consistently that a wide variety of opinions are expressed on such controversial subjects as the Vietnam war or U.S. policy in the Mideast. Textbooks are often critically objective of the U.S. military policy, tactics and strategy."

The report was submitted to the NU dean of faculties.

Dr. McIntire Plans Answer To 'Haranguers'

Washington (AP) —Dr. Carl McIntire, organizer of a U.S. March for Victory here next Saturday, said Tuesday thousands and thousands will come for the march up Pennsylvania Avenue and rally on the Mall.

Calling his demonstration "our answer to Haiphong's hippie haranguers," the fundamentalist radio preacher told a news conference it was only by coincidence that the rally comes on the heels of the antiwar rallies.

"We are going to straighten things out and clean up the city," McIntire said, meaning "we'll expose current cowardice, then honor past valor and finally launch a program for future heroism."

Viet Economy Said Reason Troops Stay

The reason for continued U.S. presence in Vietnam is neither military nor political but economic, a South Vietnamese official said Tuesday night at the University of Nebraska.

"An immediate (American) pull-out would be favorable politically? Yes. Militarily? Yes. Economically? No." Ngo Thanh Tung explained that the U.S. must phase out slowly in order to save the economy of South Vietnam from collapse.

Tung's comment came during an address sponsored by the University of Nebraska chapter of the Young Americans for Freedom. Tung is secretary of the South Vietnamese Embassy in Washington.

Tung told his audience that Vietnamization, or as it is more properly called, "a transfer of responsibilities," is being carried out effectively with the Vietnamese army.

The transfer has already been completed with the Vietnamese navy, he said, and is nearly complete in the Vietnamese air force.

The nature of the war, is also changing, he said. "Major battles are now non-existent in all areas except border areas."

NU Journalism Student Is Third In Hearst Contest

Dennis Hetherington, who will graduate from the University of Nebraska School of Journalism in June, received the third-place national award in news writing in the Hearst competition finals in Washington Tuesday.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Hetherington, he was one of eight finalists selected from 53 participating schools of journalism.

His story dealt with the problems facing veterans returning to college campuses. Hetherington, 30, is a Navy veteran.

Hetherington will receiv a $500 cash award. Earlier this year, he won a first-place award for the same story in one of the Hearst monthly competitions. For that he received $900.

The University of Nebraska School of Journalism received a fourth place award in competition with 52 other institutions, based on performance of students.

Martindale, 39, Admits His Guilt To Tax Charges

Omaha (UPI) —Glenn D. Martindale, 39, who formerly lived at Scottsbluff and Minatare, entered a guilty plea Tuesday to charges of wilfully submitting false financial statements to officers of the Internal Revenue Service.

U.S. Attorney Richard A. Dier said Martindale had been charged in a six-count indictment with making, subscribing and submitting false and fraudulent statements of financial condition.

These statements are customarily requested of taxpayers who have delinquent accounts owing to the IRS.

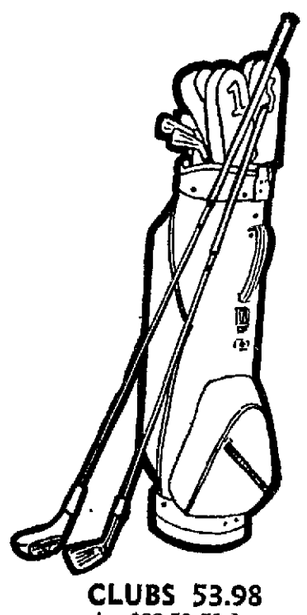

Sentencing was set for the latter part of this month. Martindale could be imprisoned for three years or fined up to $5,000, or both.

B-1 Bomber Plans Draw Verbal Flak

©The New York Times

Washington — A bipartisan congressional group fired its first salvo in the battle over the defense budget Tuesday by attacking the Air Force's proposed new manned bomber as an unnecessary, ineffective and obsolete weapon.

The critical report on the Air Force's B-1 supersonic bomber project was issued by Members of Congress for Peace through Law, a study group of 115 members of the House and Senate, headed this year by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore.

A still-secret General Accounting Office report circulating on Capitol Hill concluded, meanwhile, that the Air Force had "understated" the cost of the B-1 bomber and had not taken adequate steps to prevent future cost increases in the multibillion-dollar project.

To Succeed B-52

The B-1 bomber, designed as a successor late in this decade for the B-52 intercontinental strategic bomber, is now in the engineering development stage. In this year's defense budget, the administration has asked for $370 million to start work on the development of three prototpye models of the swept-winged bomber.

A 16-page report prepared for Members of Congress for Peace through Law by a subcommittee headed by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, questioned whether a manned bomber fleet would be either necessary or useful in the 1980s and beyond, when both the United States and the Soviet Union would possess a nuclear deterrent of ballistic missiles.

The report protested that even if, as is argued by the Air Force, a mixed deterrent of missiles and bombers were deemed necessary, the B-1 would still be ill-designed for its strategic mission and would have a doubtful capability as to its penetrating sophisticated Soviet air defenses.

The report also warned that when a new aerial tanker plane was included, the cost of producing a fleet of 240 of the bombers, as now planned by the Air Force, could run to $20 billion and perhaps as much as $47 billion.

Cost Rises

The Air Force estimate of the cost of producing the new bomber fleet — exclusive of the tanker planes which the Air Force says it will not necessarily need — has risen to $11.4 billion, making it one of the most expensive weapons projects ever presented to Congress.

The GAO report found that between June 1969 and June 1970 the estimated cost of the project had increased by $1.3 billion. The report acknowledged, however, that $982 million of the increase was attributable to inflation.

The McGovern-Seiberling report was particularly critical of the Air Force's insistence that the new bomber must have a high-altitude supersonic capability to penetrate through Soviet defenses to drop its bombs directly on targets. The supersonic capability, it argued, was not only unnecessary but also added about 50% to the cost of the plane.

Noting that the Air Force B-70 bomber project was "dropped precisely because the Soviet Union had the clear capability to destroy high-flying supersonic aircraft," the report said the Air Force mission for the new B-1 bomber "hardly makes any sense" in view of expected Soviet advances in air defenses.

McGovern suggested at a news conference on the report that the supersonic capability was added largely for two reasons: "To enhance the excitement for strategic bomber pilots and the glamor of Air Force recruiting programs."

COOKE . . . filming at Bryan's home.

. . . STUDY OF BRYAN INCLUDES VISIT TO FAIRVIEW

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

British correspondent Alistair Cooke, who has been observing America for nearly 40 years, was in Lincoln this week putting some of his observations on film for a BBC documentary scheduled for broadcast two years hence.

Cooke, longtime commentator on American affairs for the British Broadcasting Co. and chief U.S. correspondent for the Manchester Guardian, said Tuesday the 13-part series will be a follow-up to the BBC's "Civilisation."

"The BBC said, 'You've been here 37 years; now distill it into a story of America,'" Cooke explained Tuesday evening.

'Personal History'

Cooke had just completed the last bit of filming for the eighth of the upcoming series, which he said will be titled: "America: A Personal History of the United States."

The eighth of the series will end with a look at William Jennings Bryan, whose Lincoln home, Fairview, will be featured with Cooke's commentary.

Cooke said Bryan ends a program on "Money in the Land," which begins with a look at the money barons of the late 19th century — Carnegie, Rockefeller and J. P. Morgan.

Populist Revolt

Then, he said, it moves to the Midwest and the Populist Revolt, which sprang from the depression of the 1890s.

"In an angry time, America turns to an angry man," he explained, and "found him here" in Lincoln.

One of 'Failed Saints'

He termed the "Great Commoner" one of the nation's "failed saints," a group which Cooke said included such men as Learned Hand and Adlai Stevenson.

Bryan "was essentially the link between Andrew Jackson and Franklin Roosevelt," Cooke said.

"In a way, he prepared the ground with the Populists for the New Deal."

3-Time Candidate

Bryan, who moved to Lincoln in 1887, was three-time Democratic candidate for president before serving as secretary of state under Woodrow Wilson.

Bryan built Fairview in 1901 and finally sold the home in 1922. The home is now an historic landmark which has been refurbished through the efforts of the Lincoln Junior League, the State Historical Society and Bryan Memorial Hospital, near which the home stands.

Cooke said he has taken a year off from his work at the Guardian to devote full time to the series, which he is writing and researching himself.

'New Chaos'

He said he and BBC crews are ending the second of three years of filming the series, which will begin with the discovery of America and end with the "Old Order and the New Chaos," which Cooke said he hopes 'doesn't come true."

Cooke said he will go on from Lincoln with work on other part of the series, and one on the Gold Rush will take him to the West Coast during the next few weeks.

Asked what he wants to do after he finishes the series and the book which will accompany it, Cooke said, "I want to become a golf bum."

He said he hopes the documentary is successful enough to permit him that wish.

Improved Relations With U.S. Sought By Kremlin

©The New York Times

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN

Moscow — Top Soviet officials have told American diplomats here that they have received orders from the Kremlin to undertake serious efforts to achieve negotiated agreements with the United States, reliable sources said Tuesday.

The Russian officials in recent days have said that they were told to pay closest attention to the conciliatory remarks expressed by Leonid L. Brezhnev, the party leader, at the recent 24th congress of the Soviet Communist Party, about the United States.

Brezhnev, although attacking American policy in Indochina and the Middle East, said, "We proceed from the assumption that it is possible to improve relations between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A."

"Our principle line with respect to the capitalist countries, including the United States, is consistently and fully to practice the principles of peaceful coexistence, to develop mutually advantageous ties, and to cooperate with states willing to do so, in strengthening peace, making our relations with them as stable as possible," he said.

Pravda Article

Pravda, the Communist Party paper, Tuesday printed and authoritative policy article by Georgi A. Arbatov, director of the Institute of the U.S.A., and a recently elected candidate member of the party central committee, in which he gave the Kremlin's theoretical justification in the nuclear age for seeking better relations with the United States.

Foreign Minitser Andrei A. Gromyko, who is given direct responsibility for carrying out the Kremlin directive, met with U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam last Friday in an unpublicized, wide-ranging meeting, the first between the two men since the congress.

It was understood that the atmosphere was quite cordial.

At the party congress, Gromyko also stressed the desire for better relations, and urged the Nixon administration to take Brezhnev's remarks seriously. He said that "we do not favor talks that resemble fencing matches. What we want are serious negotiations." Gromyko and Brezhnev both rebuked Nixon for following "zig-zag" policies that made it hard to reach agreements.

Diplomats here noted that despite the improved atmosphere there has not been any substantive change in any of the key issues such as the Middle East, the talks on limiting strategic arms, or on Berlin, that would indicate that relations in fact would turn toward the better. Some diplomats described the Soviet policy as part of a campaign to shift blame for lack of progress in any important issues to the United States.

Desire For Dialogue

Others said the Soviet line seemed to indicate a desire to engage in a dialogue with Washington, thereby facilitating similar Soviet contacts with Western European countries who were wary of rather obvious Kremlin efforts in recent years to split the United States from its NATO partners.

Arbatov's article, which was read with considerable interest here, seemed an effort at justifying to hard-line Soviet and foreign Communists the continuing Soviet efforts at negotiations with the United States and other capitalist countries.

He said the United States, wracked by domestic and foreign policy crises, was seeking a way out of its problems, and he said it was possible that it would make "realistic correctives" in its policy toward the Soviet Union.

He noted that any U.S. "concessions" would not change the nature of the imperialist power, but he said it was wrong to reject any agreements simply because a country was imperialist.

Rural Telephone Bank Bill Sent To White House

Washington (UPI) — The House passed and sent to the White House Tuesday compromise legislation it sought to create a rural telephone bank and provide up to $30 million more a year for continued expansion of rural phone systems.

The money, subject to annual appropriations by Congress, would be lent at favorable rates to corporations or public bodies unable to get adequate private financing to meet rural telephone needs.

The compromise bill was approved by the Senate April 29.

Rural telephone financing has been carried out by the Rural Electrification Administration. REA, however, has been unable to keep up with demands.

Sweden Convicts One Out Of Four U.S. Deserters

Stockholm (AP) — Every fourth American deserter living in Sweden has been convicted in a Swedish court on criminal charge, the newspaper Expressen reported Tuesday.

It said of 508 deserters granted asylum and working permits, 122 had been convicted, five were being prosecuted, four were wanted by the police and two were prosecuted in Norway. The paper said most of the convictions were on drug charges or for theft.

Optimists To Meet

The four Optimists Clubs of Lincoln will meet Friday at 6 p.m. in a special joint session at the Lincoln Hotel to mark Respect for Law Week. Special guests will be law enforcement officers of the state, county and city. Guest speaker will be Federal Judge Theodore Richling of Omaha.

Modern Dance Author To Talk

Miss Margaret H'Doubler, recognized as the founder of modern dance in higher education, will lecture at the Women's physical education department at the University of Nebraska May 6-8.

Miss H'Doubler is the 1971 winner of the Gulich Award given by the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. She is also the author of many books and articles on creative dance.

Reagan Paid No California Income Tax In 1970, Got Federal Rebate

Sacramento, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan disclosed Tuesday he paid no state income tax for 1970 because of "business reverses" on investments.

Reagan, who earned $44,100 as governor, also said that for at least the "last couple of years" he has received a rebate on his federal income tax.

Democratic reaction was quick.

"It's very easy to say 'taxes should hurt' when you're not paying your fair share," said Senate Democratic floor leader George Moscone of San Francisco.

The Republican governor said for the first time that outside borrowing has become inevitable because of the legislature's refusal to enact a state income tax withholding system in time to become effective July 1.

He blamed Assembly Democratic leaders and accused them of "playing fast and loose with the fiscal integrity of the state for purely partisan advantage."

During the fiscal discussion a newsman asked Reagan whether he paid any state income tax last month. The governor said he couldn't remember.

Less than five minutes after the news conference had ended, the governor's press office sent around a one-sentence memo reading:

"Because of business reverses of Governor Reagan's investments, he owed no state income tax for 1970."

The New York Times

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN

Moscow — Top Soviet officials have told American diplomats here that they have received orders from the Kremlin to undertake serious efforts to achieve negotiated agreements with the United States, reliable sources said Tuesday.

The Russian officials in recent days have said that they were told to pay closest attention to the conciliatory remarks expressed by Leonid L. Brezhnev, the party leader, at the recent 24th congress of the Soviet Communist Party, about the United States.

Brezhnev, although attacking American policy in Indochina and the Middle East, said, "We proceed from the assumption that it is possible to improve relations between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A."

"Our principle line with respect to the capitalist countries, including the United States, is consistently and fully to practice the principles of peaceful coexistence, to develop mutually advantageous ties, and to cooperate with states willing to do so, in strengthening peace, making our relations with them as stable as possible," he said.

Pravda Article

Pravda, the Communist Party paper, Tuesday printed and authoritative policy article by Georgi A. Arbatov, director of the Institute of the U.S.A., and a recently elected candidate member of the party central committee, in which he gave the Kremlin's theoretical justification in the nuclear age for seeking better relations with the United States.

Foreign Minitser Andrei A. Gromyko, who is given direct responsibility for carrying out the Kremlin directive, met with U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam last Friday in an unpublicized, wide-ranging meeting, the first between the two men since the congress.

It was understood that the atmosphere was quite cordial.

At the party congress, Gromyko also stressed the desire for better relations, and urged the Nixon administration to take Brezhnev's remarks seriously. He said that "we do not favor talks that resemble fencing matches. What we want are serious negotiations." Gromyko and Brezhnev both rebuked Nixon for following "zig-zag" policies that made it hard to reach agreements.

Diplomats here noted that despite the improved atmosphere there has not been any substantive change in any of the key issues such as the Middle East, the talks on limiting strategic arms, or on Berlin, that would indicate that relations in fact would turn toward the better. Some diplomats described the Soviet policy as part of a campaign to shift blame for lack of progress in any important issues to the United States.

Desire For Dialogue

Others said the Soviet line seemed to indicate a desire to engage in a dialogue with Washington, thereby facilitating similar Soviet contacts with Western European countries who were wary of rather obvious Kremlin efforts in recent years to split the United States from its NATO partners.

Arbatov's article, which was read with considerable interest here, seemed an effort at justifying to hard-line Soviet and foreign Communists the continuing Soviet efforts at negotiations with the United States and other capitalist countries.

He said the United States, wracked by domestic and foreign policy crises, was seeking a way out of its problems, and he said it was possible that it would make "realistic correctives" in its policy toward the Soviet Union.

He noted that any U.S. "concessions" would not change the nature of the imperialist power, but he said it was wrong to reject any agreements simply because a country was imperialist.

Rural Telephone Bank Bill Sent To White House

Washington (UPI) — The House passed and sent to the White House Tuesday compromise legislation it sought to create a rural telephone bank and provide up to $30 million more a year for continued expansion of rural phone systems.

The money, subject to annual appropriations by Congress, would be lent at favorable rates to corporations or public bodies unable to get adequate private financing to meet rural telephone needs.

The compromise bill was approved by the Senate April 29.

Rural telephone financing has been carried out by the Rural Electrification Administration. REA, however, has been unable to keep up with demands.

Sweden Convicts One Out Of Four U.S. Deserters

Stockholm (AP) — Every fourth American deserter living in Sweden has been convicted in a Swedish court on criminal charge, the newspaper Expressen reported Tuesday.

It said of 508 deserters granted asylum and working permits, 122 had been convicted, five were being prosecuted, four were wanted by the police and two were prosecuted in Norway. The paper said most of the convictions were on drug charges or for theft.

Optimists To Meet

The four Optimists Clubs of Lincoln will meet Friday at 6 p.m. in a special joint session at the Lincoln Hotel to mark Respect for Law Week. Special guests will be law enforcement officers of the state, county and city. Guest speaker will be Federal Judge Theodore Richling of Omaha.

Modern Dance Author To Talk

Miss Margaret H'Doubler, recognized as the founder of modern dance in higher education, will lecture at the Women's physical education department at the University of Nebraska May 6-8.

Miss H'Doubler is the 1971 winner of the Gulich Award given by the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. She is also the author of many books and articles on creative dance.

Reagan Paid No California Income Tax In 1970, Got Federal Rebate

Sacramento, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan disclosed Tuesday he paid no state income tax for 1970 because of "business reverses" on investments.

Reagan, who earned $44,100 as governor, also said that for at least the "last couple of years" he has received a rebate on his federal income tax.

Democratic reaction was quick.

"It's very easy to say 'taxes should hurt' when you're not paying your fair share," said Senate Democratic floor leader George Moscone of San Francisco.

The Republican governor said for the first time that outside borrowing has become inevitable because of the legislature's refusal to enact a state income tax withholding system in time to become effective July 1.

He blamed Assembly Democratic leaders and accused them of "playing fast and loose with the fiscal integrity of the state for purely partisan advantage."

During the fiscal discussion a newsman asked Reagan whether he paid any state income tax last month. The governor said he couldn't remember.

Less than five minutes after the news conference had ended, the governor's press office sent around a one-sentence memo reading:

"Because of business reverses of Governor Reagan's investments, he owed no state income tax for 1970."

Former Presidents Are Honored

An organization's past presidents serve as models for many a current club president — and those who have helped to shape their group's reputation are often recognized for their contributions.

It was recognition day on Monday, May 3, for the past presidents of the Unicameral Ladies Club when a special luncheon was held in their honor. The event was held at the Nebraska Club, and nine former leaders of the group were on hand to be recognized.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Harold Simpson, Mrs. Robert Clark of Sidney; Mrs. George Syas of Omaha; Mrs. Glenn Goodrich, Sen. Ferne Orme, and Sen. Ellen Craft of North Platte.

Pictured at the annual Past Presidents Luncheon are, seated from left to right, Mrs. Jules W. Burbach of Crofton; 1965; Mrs. H. P. Heiliger of Sidney, Iowa, 1947; Mrs. Ralph W. Hill, 1951-53; Mrs. Dale Erlewine of Grant, 1961; Mrs. C. Petrus Peterson, 1943; Mrs. John Knickrehm, 1937; and Mrs. Albert Kjar of Lexington, 1963.

The picture of an exceedingly active weekend still is with us this morning — plus a postscript or two on parties we already have mentioned.

For instance, we have the names of guests who will be attending the Holiday Club dinner dance on Saturday evening at the Lincoln Country Club. Up to this moment the guest list has but three names — all from out of town, but well known in Lincoln.

Among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lukart of Sioux City, Iowa, formerly of Lincoln — The third guest is Mrs. William Cable Jackson of Minneapolis, Minn., who will be remembered in campus circles of a few years back, as Edna Fitzsimmons — Delta Gamma at Nebraska.

Mrs. Jackson will be the house guest of her brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carson.

And since we have mentioned Mr. and Mrs. Carson, who are the chairmen of the Holiday Club's party committee, we may as well repeat the entire committee membership once more. Serving with Mr. and Mrs. Carson are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henrion, Dr. and Mrs Richard Garlinghouse, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan and Mrs. Norman Walt.

The second postscript has to do with a party which took place on Saturday, May 1, at the Lincoln County Club — It was the Monday Night Club's 'May Day' dinner dance, but there was more to the evening than dining and dancing. During the evening the 1970-71 president couple, Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor Greer, turned the duties of their office and their title over to Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stein who are the 1971-72 presidents. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hillyer were named secretary-treasurer.

We think you might be interested in the fact that the Monday Night Club will begin its new season 23 weeks from next Saturday — Oct. 16 — In case you don't already know — Oct. 16 is the Homecoming weekend — 'Big Red' meets KU.

The officers from Lincoln who were installed at a banquet held at the Omaha Hilton Hotel on Saturday evening, May 1, were Mrs. L. C. Kubicek, vice president; Mrs. Earl Bockner, treasurer; and Mrs. Lloyd Peterson, historian.

Members who attended the convention from Lincoln were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dresselhaus, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Kubicek, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sanger, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bockner, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Medina, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Peterson, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Holmans.

Miss Velma McKenzie was installed as the new president of the Lincoln Zonta Club at that group's meeting on Monday evening, April 26. Outgoing president, Mrs. John McArthur, officiated at the insallation ceremonies.

The other Zonta officers for the coming year will include Miss Ruthelen Sittler, vice president; Miss Agnes Van-Ackeren, secretary; Mrs. Galen Plumb, treasurer; and Mrs. Willis Hecht, the new board member.

Following the business meeting, the group held a memorial service for former member, Mrs. Katherine Brown.

Know Your Antiques

The four poster bed is a relatively recent idea. This 1847 bed was made in Wilmington, Del., of mahogany by its original owner. The very thick posts were characteristic of this style.

(Index of American Design, Washington, D.C.)

By RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

The water bed is the first new type of bed in 100 years. How old is the first bed? What was used for a mattress? Ancient pictures show beds in Egypt, Assyria, Persia, Greece and Rome. Stone, wood or metal frames held animal skins, furs, and fabrics.

The first European beds were just piles of leaves. Later shallow boxes were filled with leaves and moss. By the Middle Ages, mattresses were made from feathers, wool, or hair. They were used on benches or in boxlike built-in beds.

Canopy beds were a 12th century idea. Beds became so large, elaborate and expensive by the 18th century that they became a rarity. The more familiar sized beds came into use after this period. The mattress was placed on crossed ropes until the end of the 19th century when box springs were made.

One of the easier ways to spot reproduction Mary Gregory glass is by examining the white enameling. The enameling new pieces chips very easily. Older pieces have less of the paint missing. When no one is looking, try to flake off a bit of the enamel. If it is old, you can't do it.

Q. Since the Spiro Agnew and Mickey Mouse watches seem to be popular collectors items, would a Babe Ruth watch have any value?

A. Collecting is strange and any of the "personality" items 30 years or older are in demand. We have seen Snow White, Buck Rogers, Roy Rogers, The Lone Ranger, Babe Ruth and Cinderella, and other watches sold for prices are higher than most modern watches. Condition is important.

Q. My husband is a Lincoln buff. He collects stamps, coins, books, pictures or anything that mentions Lincoln. He was recently offered a "Lincoln rocker." Is there a reproduction of this famous rocker?

A. The "Lincoln Rocker" is a chair style. Many thousands were and are still being made. It is the same shape as the chair used by Lincoln the night he was shot. After his death, the name Lincoln was given to the Victorian scroll-handled rocking chair.

For a copy of the Kovel's leaflet "Learn the Value of an Antique" send 5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Ralph and Terry Kovel in care of The Lincoln Star.

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

Let's say you're in four hearts and West leads a club. It is immediately obvious that the only possible losers are a trump and three spades, so all your thoughts are devoted to eliminating at least one of them.

If you could see the East-West cards, you would have no difficulty avoiding the trump loser, for you would know how to finesse successfully against the queen.

But since you don't see them, you are faced with the problem of guessing which way to take the finesse. As usual in this type of situation, the direction in which you finesse is influenced by the factor of which opponent will wind up on lead if you misguess the queen.

Thus, in the present case, the proper course of play is clear. You should win the club lead with the ace and play the jack of hearts, finessing after West follows low. As it happens, the jack holds the trick, so you continue with a low heart to the nine, cash the king of hearts, ace of diamonds and ace of hearts, and in that way make twelve tricks.

Note that if the jack loses to East's queen you are still on firm ground. With East on lead, dummy's king of spades cannot be successfully attacked and the contract is secure.

Note also that if you played a heart to the king at trick two and a heart back you would lose a heart and three spades and go down one.

Finally, note further that if you first cashed the ace of hearts and then took a finesse, your journey would also end unsuccessfully. West's four trumps would prove fatal.

What the hand demonstrates above all is that trying to guess which opponent has the queen is not nearly as important as keeping West, the dangerous opponent, out of the lead.

Abby: he should ask mother

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a wonderful man, and we have four children. Elmer (not real name) and I are very happy, but my problem is my mother-in-law.

She never comes over unless specifically invited. I can't understand this as we try to let her know that she is welcome to drop in anytime. Elmer feels neglected because he has a sister, whom his mother talks to daily, and to whose house she goes often. This sister doesn't live any closer to his mother than we do.

Elmer stops in to see his mother at least once a week, but he feels hurt that she never comes here. Is it true that "A son is a son until he takes a wife, but a daughter is a daughter all her fife"?

NO TOWN PLEASE

DEAR NO TOWN: Not necessarily, but the mother-daughter relationship is usually closer than the mother-son. There are many exceptions, however. Tell Elmer to quit sitting around wondering what's wrong, and to ask his mother straight out if there is some reason she doesn't visit more often. And if she assures him that all is well he should quit pouting, and continue to call on HER to keep in touch.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow and I live alone. Nearly every Sunday a cousin comes to visit me for a few hours, and she always brings a lot of gossip about the rest of the family. I am really not interested in hearing about the marital woes of this niece and that nephew, or the financial struggles of other relatives, or which relative is on the outs with another relative, and that's all she ever talks about.

How can I avoid having the family garbage dumped on me week after week? I try to change the subject, but she gets right back on it again. If I tell her plainly I don't care for family gossip, she will berate me for my "holier than thou" attitude. She is vicious. Can you help me?

ANTI-GOSSIP

DEAR ANTI-GOSSIP: You'll need an accomplice for my solution. Invite a friend or neighbor over. Even the most vicious gossip will refrain from washing the family linen in the presence of a third party.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Tubby Hubby

Lie on the floor with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor on your sides. Raise your legs and your trunk at the same time, touching your fingertips to your toes or your ankles, whichever you can. Hold for a few moments and return to starting position.

"Keep your weight down" is the universal warning these days. Sometimes eating too much is too easy, and exercising enough is too hard.

Cutting down on the food intake, in the proper way, of course — and increasing the exercise is a combination that makes stepping on the scales a very rewarding piece of business.

Exercise is a habit — a good one. Eating also is a habit, a necessary one, provided the habit continues with a certain amount of caution. Almost every diet, especially the ones we have for "Tubby Hubby" give its follower the proper amount of food, the proper amount of protein, minerals, certain vitamins — all of which keep him happy appetitewise.

All of this, and loss of pounds, too — What more could one ask?

MENU FOR THURSDAY

BREAKFAST

Two poached or boiled eggs

Two pieces of whole-wheat toast

Coffee

LUNCH

One portion salmon or broiled fish, with lemon juice

Celery sticks

Stewed carrots or other vegetable

One glass of buttermilk or skimmed milk

One piece of whole-wheat bread

One baked potato

DINNER

Lean steak, any meat, if lean

One cup of green beans

One cup of squash or broccoli or greens

One glass of skimmed milk or buttermilk

Fruit cup (fresh fruit)

Use butter or margarine sparingly. Season generously with herbs.)

If you are a Tubby Hubby, and know it, or if you are one and only your wife knows it, perhaps one of you might want to send for my "Tubby Hubby Diet." This will give the head of the house a seven to 12 pound loss. If you would like to have this booklet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star.

Luncheon

The Alpha Omicron Pi Mothers Club will meet for a luncheon and bridge at Hillcrest Country Club on Thursday afternoon, May 6. Out-of-town mothers have been invited to the 1 o'clock event.

Officers Elected

The Lincoln Public Schools Clerical Association will meet at the Elks Club on Wednesday evening, May 5, for the installation of new officers for the 1971-72 school year, and to honor association members who are retiring from the school system.

The officers to be installed include Mrs. Dale Hughes of Culler Junior High, president; Miss Marcella Pralle of Southeast High, vice-president and alternate delegate to the national convention; Mrs. Clarence Busboom of Calvert Elementary, secretary; and Mrs. Larry Lee of Student Services, treasurer.

Mrs. Emery Ozenbaugh of the Media Center and Mrs. Ted Morris of Southeast High School will be honored at the meeting. They will retire at the end of the school year.

U.S. Said On Edge Of 'Heroin Epidemic'

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Two West Coast authorities on drug abuse warned a University of Nebraska audience Tuesday that the nation is on the verge of a "heroin epidemic."

"We are facing a tidal wave of heroin and cocaine," Dr. Henry Bruyn said in the opening session of the three-day Steinhart Lectures sponsored by University Health Services.

"I agree we are facing a heroin epidemic," echoed Dr. David Smith.

Smith is founder and medical director of San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury Free Medical Clinic and Bruyn is medical director of university health services at Cowell Memorial Hospital, University of California at Berkeley.

'Drug Dependency'

And both stressed that the high use of heroin on the nation's coasts will spread across the nation soon, hitting the children of middle-class parents.

A heroin epidemic "is one of the most serious problems the country faces," said Smith And one of the best answers, he added, "is negative peer group pressure."

He urged Nebraskans to prepare for the "heroin scene" through community and school education programs.

And he said law enforcement, research, education and rehabilitation efforts will all be needed to ward off a heroin crisis.

"The heroin addict has to turn to a life of crime" to support his addiction, he said, citing figures that indicate heroin users contribute to more than 50% of the crimes against property in major cities.

Smith and Bruyn said addicts need $50 to $100 a day to support the habit, a financial necessity which forces them to turn to criminal acts.

Smith also said that heroin is the major cause of death among young people in New York City.

Minorities Ignored

In a recent visit to Harlem, he noted, he visited with a "third generation junkie," and he called "disgraceful" the fact that society has virtually ignored the problem of heroin addiction among minorities.

Attention was turned to the problem, he said, only when it "hit the middle-class."

Smith said some youngsters move to heroin as a "downer" after use of other drugs, while others "go immediately to heroin in a time of despair" brought on by individual psychological problems or "reflection on the hopelessness of the social scene."

"There are many roads to heroin," he said.

The founder of the now-famous San Francisco clinic said the development of "exciting alternative movements" is "one of the few optimistic things I see on the contemporary drug scene."

Some young people are learning to "turn on naturally," he said, without the use of mind-altering substances.

In other comments, Smith said the presumption that drug use is limited to America's long-haired youths is a false one.

"There is as much drug abuse in the adult culture as there is in the youth culture," he said. "Adults just hide it better."

Industry Responsible

Smith also said that as many illegal drugs "are dumped in the drug scene by the pharmaceutical industry as by the Mafia."

More than half of the legally manufactured barbituates and amphetamines "are diverted into the drug scene," he said.

Bruyn, discussing hallucenogenic drugs, said although they do not produce dependence, chronic use can lead to brain damage.

He said they can also lead to two other dangers — a distortion of the world that "may cause somebody to act upon the hallucination" and a "bad trip" which causes a "panic reaction based on an uncontrolled hallucination."

Either can lead to death, he said.

©The New York Times

Hong Kong — Peking Radio declared Tuesday night that President Richard Nixon's expressed desire for the normalization of relations between the United States and China was "fraudulent" in light of last week's State Department statement on Nationalist China.

Denouncing the statement, in which State Department press Officer Charles Bray described the sovereignty of Taiwan as "an unsettled question subject to future international resolution," the Peking Radio called for the withdrawal of all U.S. forces and and the Taiwan Strait.

The radio, in a Chinese-language broadcast monitored here, described the visit of an American table tennis team to China as a "new development" in the friendship between the American and Chinese people, but took a jaundiced view of official efforts to improve ties with Peking.

The radio also carried the text of a commentary in Peking's Jenmin Jih Pao accusing the U.S government of "hostility to the Chinese people" and of "brazen interference" in China's internal affairs

The two attacks appeared to dim the prospect of an early improvement of Chinese-American relations on a government level while approving further people-to-people contacts.

The Peking Radio attacked not only the Taiwan statement but also the report of a presidential commission headed by Henry Cabot Lodge, which said the U.S. should support Peking's admission to the United Nations while opposing the expulsion of the Nationalist government of the epublic of China on Taiwan.

The radio noted that on April 29 Nixon said at a news conference the Lodge report was being given consideration in the high counsels of the U.S. government and said this showed that the U.S. was "peddling the plot of two Chinas or one China, one Taiwan."

"There is only one China in the world," the broadcast said. "Taiwn is an inalienable part of China's sacred territory. This has constantly been the solemn stand of the Chinese people."

'Political Capital'

The radio said that the Nixon administration was "hurriedly showing all kinds of attitudes on improving relations with China." Declaring that the administration was beset with difficulties ta home and abroad, the radio said the U.S. was vainly attempting to "gain political capital and extricate itself from its isolated situation."

While attacking the U.S. government, the broadcast asserted that the American people were always friendly to the Chinese people and resolutely supported them in their "just struggle to liberate Taiwan" and their demand for the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Taiwan and the Taiwan Strait.

Calling on the U.S. to stop interfering in China's internal affairs, the Peking Radio said that if it persisted in its hostility to the Chinese people, the Nixon administration would become more isolated and would suffer complete defeat.

Bray's statement on Taiwan's sovereignty has put Peking and the Nationalist government in Taipei in rare agreement. Both assert that Taiwan is part of China, although they disagree on which government is the rightful representative of China.

Carpenter To Propose Trade School For Pen

Sen. Terry Carpenter Tuesday said he will propose the appropriation of about $500,000 this year to fund operation of "a trade school" at the Penal Complex.

Carpenter said the Legislature should also provide planning funds for relocation and construction of a new Penal Complex in Lincoln.

His proposals will be presented as amendments to the Appropriations Committee's capital construction budget bill, the Scottsbluff senator said

The vocational technical school is "particularly needed now" in view of the recent U.S. District Court decision prohibiting segregated living quarters at the Pemtentiary, he said.

"We are obligated to see if we can't find a way in which these people can work out their energies on something other than each other," Carpenter declared.

"I thunk this is one important building need we should not overlook"

The Appropriations Committee delayed until Wednesday a meeting at which it hopes to complete work on the construction bill The measure will probably reach the floor next week.

5 Tons Of Pot Found On Yacht After Chase

San Francisco (UPI) — Custom agents on Coast Guard boats ran down a yacht in a sea chase 10 miles outside the Golden Gate Monday and seized five tons of marijuana wortn $1.5 million — the largest haul in U.S. history — the government revealed Tuesday.

Eight persons were arrested late Monday on the yacht "Mercy Wiggins," a companion boat to the "Andiamo" which was seized in San Francisco Bay, and a bus-type camper waiting at the docks in San Francisco.

John Van Diver, special agent in charge of the Customs office at San Diego, said both the "Mercy Wiggins" and the "Andiamo" had been under surveillance from the time they entered U.S. waters from a trip to Mexico.

He said Customs agents had been working on the case for a year, using planes, boats and helicopters to keep watch on the "Mercy Wiggins," which had been making regular trips between San Francisco and San Diego but left port at San Diego about six weeks ago for Mexico.

The "Mercy Wiggins," a 60-foot converted shrimp boat with a roomy hold, was boarded about 6:30 p.m. Monday, Van Diver said. Below decks, agents found bundle after bundle of marijuana stuffed into pillowcases which were then encased in waterproof plastic bags.

Customs agents brought the vessel to Yerba Buena Island in San Francisco Bay, loaded the contraband — enough for thousands of "joints" — into a rental trailer and drove off.

Two persons were arrested on the "Mercy Wiggins," two on the "Andiamo" and four with the camper-bus at the St. Francis Marina in San Francisco.

The eight persons were all charged with attempting to smuggle marijuana. Other arrests were expected.

Officials did not specify the exact connection between the "Mercy Wiggins" and the "Andiamo," a 38-foot vessel which was followed toward the Sacramento River inside San Francisco Bay and also boarded.

More Hospital Visitors Sought

The Lincoln Area Volunteer Bureau Board will sponsor an orientation session Wednesday for anyone 13 or older who is interested in becoming a volunteer visitor at hospitals and nursing homes.

The session will be held at the Madonna Personal Care Center at 2200 So. 52nd at 7:30 p.m. Another session will be held at the same time and place May 12.

U.S. Said On Edge Of 'Heroin Epidemic'

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Two West Coast authorities on drug abuse warned a University of Nebraska audience Tuesday that the nation is on the verge of a "heroin epidemic."

"We are facing a tidal wave of heroin and cocaine," Dr. Henry Bruyn said in the opening session of the three-day Steinhart Lectures sponsored by University Health Services.

"I agree we are facing a heroin epidemic," echoed Dr. David Smith.

Smith is founder and medical director of San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury Free Medical Clinic and Bruyn is medical director of university health services at Cowell Memorial Hospital, University of California at Berkeley.

'Drug Dependency'

And both stressed that the high use of heroin on the nation's coasts will spread across the nation soon, hitting the children of middle-class parents.

A heroin epidemic "is one of the most serious problems the country faces," said Smith. And one of the best answers, he added, "is negative peer group pressure."

He urged Nebraskans to prepare for the "heroin scene" through community and school education programs.

And he said law enforcement, research, education and rehabilitation efforts will all be needed to ward off a heroin crisis.

"The heroin addict has to turn to a life of crime" to support his addiction, he said, citing figures that indicate heroin users contribute to more than 50% of the crimes against property in major cities.

Smith and Bruyn said addicts need $50 to $100 a day to support the habit, a financial necessity which forces them to turn to criminal acts.

Smith also said that heroin is the major cause of death among young people in New York City.

Minorities Ignored

In a recent visit to Harlem, he noted, he visited with a "third generation junkie," and he called "disgraceful" the fact that society has virtually ignored the problem of heroin addiction among minorities.

Attention was turned to the problem, he said, only when it "hit the middle-class."

Smith said some youngsters move to heroin as a "downer" after use of other drugs, while others "go immediately to heroin in a time of despair" brought on by individual psychological problems or "reflection on the hopelessness of the social scene."

"There are many roads to heroin," he said.

The founder of the now-famous San Francisco clinic said the development of "exciting alternative movements" is "one of the few optimistic things I see on the contemporary drug scene."

Some young people are learning to "turn on naturally," he said, without the use of mind-altering substances.

In other comments, Smith said the presumption that drug use is limited to America's long-haired youths is a false one.

"There is as much drug abuse in the adult culture as there is in the youth culture," he said. "Adults just hide it better."

Industry Responsible

Smith also said that as many illegal drugs "are dumped in the drug scene by the pharmaceutical industry as by the Mafia."

More than half of the legally manufactured barbituates and amphetamines "are diverted into the drug scene," he said.

Bruyn, discussing hallucenogenic drugs, said although they do not produce dependence, chronic use can lead to brain damage.

He said they can also lead to two other dangers — a distortion of the world that "may cause somebody to act upon the hallucination" and a "bad trip" which causes a "panic reaction based on an uncontrolled hallucination."

Either can lead to death, he said.

©The New York Times

Hong Kong — Peking Radio declared Tuesday night that President Richard Nixon's expressed desire for the normalization of relations between the United States and China was "fraudulent" in light of last week's State Department statement on Nationalist China.

Denouncing the statement, in which State Department press Officer Charles Bray described the sovereignty of Taiwan as "an unsettled question subject to future international resolution," the Peking Radio called for the withdrawal of all U.S. forces and and the Taiwan Strait.

The radio, in a Chinese-language broadcast monitored here, described the visit of an American table tennis team to China as a "new development" in the friendship between the American and Chinese people, but took a jaundiced view of official efforts to improve ties with Peking.

The radio also carried the text of a commentary in Peking's Jenmin Jih Pao accusing the U.S. government of "hostility to the Chinese people" and of "brazen interference" in China's internal affairs.

The two attacks appeared to dim the prospect of an early improvement of Chinese-American relations on a government level while approving further people-to-people contacts.

The Peking Radio attacked not only the Taiwan statement but also the report of a presidential commission headed by Henry Cabot Lodge, which said the U.S. should support Peking's admission to the United Nations while opposing the expulsion of the Nationalist government of the epublic of China on Taiwan.

The radio noted that on April 29 Nixon said at a news conference the Lodge report was being given consideration in the high counsels of the U.S. government and said this showed that the U.S. was "peddling the plot of two Chinas or one China, one Taiwan."

"There is only one China in the world," the broadcast said. "Taiwn is an inalienable part of China's sacred territory. This has constantly been the solemn stand of the Chinese people."

'Political Capital'

The radio said that the Nixon administration was "hurriedly showing all kinds of attitudes on improving relations with China." Declaring that the administration was beset with difficulties ta home and abroad, the radio said the U.S. was vainly attempting to "gain political capital and extricate itself from its isolated situation."

While attacking the U.S. government, the broadcast asserted that the American people were always friendly to the Chinese people and resolutely supported them in their "just struggle to liberate Taiwan" and their demand for the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Taiwan and the Taiwan Strait.

Calling on the U.S. to stop interfering in China's internal affairs, the Peking Radio said that if it persisted in its hostility to the Chinese people, the Nixon administration would become more isolated and would suffer complete defeat.

Bray's statement on Taiwan's sovereignty has put Peking and the Nationalist government in Taipei in rare agreement. Both assert that Taiwan is part of China, although they disagree on which government is the rightful representative of China.

Carpenter To Propose Trade School For Pen

Sen. Terry Carpenter Tuesday said he will propose the appropriation of about $500,000 this year to fund operation of "a trade school" at the Penal Complex.

Carpenter said the Legislature should also provide planning funds for relocation and construction of a new Penal Complex in Lincoln.

His proposals will be presented as amendments to the Appropriations Committee's capital construction budget bill, the Scottsbluff senator said.

The vocational technical school is "particularly needed now" in view of the recent U.S. District Court decision prohibiting segregated living quarters at the Penitentiary, he said.

"We are obligated to see if we can't find a way in which these people can work out their energies on something other than each other," Carpenter declared.

The Appropriations Committee delayed until Wednesday a meeting at which it hopes to complete work on the construction bill. The measure will probably reach the floor next week.

5 Tons Of Pot Found On Yacht After Chase

San Francisco (UPI) — Custom agents on Coast Guard boats ran down a yacht in a sea chase 10 miles outside the Golden Gate Monday and seized five tons of marijuana worth $1.5 million — the largest haul in U.S. history — the government revealed Tuesday.

Eight persons were arrested late Monday on the yacht "Mercy Wiggins," a companion boat to the "Andiamo" which was seized in San Francisco Bay, and a bus-type camper waiting at the docks in San Francisco.

John Van Diver, special agent in charge of the Customs office at San Diego, said both the "Mercy Wiggins" and the "Andiamo" had been under surveillance from the time they entered U.S. waters from a trip to Mexico.

He said Customs agents had been working on the case for a year, using planes, boats and helicopters to keep watch on the "Mercy Wiggins," which had been making regular trips between San Francisco and San Diego but left port at San Diego about six weeks ago for Mexico.

The "Mercy Wiggins," a 60-foot converted shrimp boat with a roomy hold, was boarded about 6:30 p.m. Monday, Van Diver said. Below decks, agents found bundle after bundle of marijuana stuffed into pillowcases which were then encased in waterproof plastic bags.

Customs agents brought the vessel to Yerba Buena Island in San Francisco Bay, loaded the contraband — enough for thousands of "joints" — into a rental trailer and drove off.

Two persons were arrested on the "Mercy Wiggins," two on the "Andiamo" and four with the camper-bus at the St. Francis Marina in San Francisco.

The eight persons were all charged with attempting to smuggle marijuana. Other arrests were expected.

Officials did not specify the exact connection between the "Mercy Wiggins" and the "Andiamo," a 38-foot vessel which was followed toward the Sacramento River inside San Francisco Bay and also boarded.

More Hospital Visitors Sought

The Lincoln Area Volunteer Bureau Board will sponsor an orientation session Wednesday for anyone 13 or older who is interested in becoming a volunteer visitor at hospitals and nursing homes.

The session will be held at the Madonna Personal Care Center at 2200 So. 52nd at 7:30 p.m. Another session will be held at the same time and place May 12.

Research Student

Roger K. Stoltzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Stoltzman of Lincoln and sophomore at Westmar College, LeMars, Iowa, has been named a visiting research student at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. for the summer.

If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Run 'Em Where They Can Win Key To 'Mr. Van's' Success

M. H. Van Berg had a philosophy about race horses and it was that philosophy that started with a victory in an $800 claiming race that netted him a $300 purse and from there led to nearly $14 million in winnings in the next 24 years.

The Columbus native, who is perhaps the nation's best known horseman, never won a Kentucky Derby. He never won a Preakness, nor did he ever win the Belmont.

The richest race a Van Berg thoroughbred ever won was the Matron Stakes in Chicago in 1958 with Estacion. He neared the $14 million figure a nickel and a dime at a time.

"He would rather enter a $5,000 race he thought he had a chance of winning than a $100,000 race he didn't think he had a chance in," Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Tom Brock, current president of the Thoroughbred Racing Association, once said of Van Berg.

With this philosophy, Van Berg would study the track conditions book the way a stock broker studies the Wall Street Journal.

"Conditions let horses win," he once said. "The greatest mistake a horseman can make is trying to buck strength. If you have a $4,000 claimer, don't have him knock heads with $5,000 runners. If you have a sprinter, run him in sprints. If you have a horse who can't go in mud, wait for a fast track."

M. H. Equals Master Horseman

An example of Van Berg's uncanny ability to run his horses in the right race at the right time occurred several years ago at Sportsman's Park in Chicago.

The leading horse in the Van Berg stable at the time appeared to be Bouncer. He was entered in Sportsman's first big feature along with nationally known Hoop Bound, Wa Wa Cy and Gay Revoke.

so he pulled Bouncer out of the race and entered Kuru San, a less respected colt.

Kuru San nipped Hoop Bound at the wire with Gay Revoke third.

In the next race Bouncer won in a breeze, causing W. H. Bishop, owner of Gay Revoke, to exclaim, "Boys, it was just another case of getting out-smarted by the old man.

Perhaps another key to his success was that Mr. Van had almost a talking relationship with horses. He understood them perhaps better than any other horseman, who ever lived.

Horses Hate To Lose

"Horses, like people, hate to lose," he once explained. "Rose's Gem (his leading money winner with better than $230,000) would sulk and kick his stall if he lost.

"My advice is never enter a horse in a race unless you think he has a chance of winning."

He always seemed to understand and to be understanding with his horses. "Some of my horses require companionship," he explained. "I try to help them out. If a horse wants a goat around, we give him a goat .One horse has three goats in the stall with him. Another has a Shetland pony.

"A horse is much like a man in that if you give him plenty of good eats and good place to sleep, you have a happy animal.

"One must look after a horse's health as though it were his own. The best gauge is the feed tub. Once a horse refuses to eat, he's usually in bad shape. Rest is the only thing that will help. Many trainers have made the mistake of running a horse that hasn't eaten properly.

"Well, when you're sick, you don't feel like eating, either, do you?"

Claimers Need Attention, Too

And Van Berg never played favorites with his horses. The $4,000 claimer got the same attention that did Sonny Fleet, Estacion or Rose's Gem.

M.H. enjoyed talking about those stars of his stable, but he also enjoyed talking about Bud Smith, a 9-year-old he claimed for $800.

"I claimed Bud Smith for $800 in '37 when the horse was nine years old," Van Berg recalled. "I took him from a fellow named Owen, whose horses were trained by H. E. Van Buskirk. This was at Omaha."

Van Berg claimed Bud Smith on June 28, running him back July 1. The horse finished second, beaten a neck. On July 3 Bud Smith was second again, defeated one length. On July 5 Bud Smith again finished second.

"That third start he was claimed from me by a fellow named Ingals and shipped to Fairmount Park," remembered Van Berg. "My family had become attached to Bud Smith. To keep peace in the family I had to go to Fairmount and buy the horse back.

"When Bud Smith was 10 he won three of 14, being second four times and third three times. When he was 12 he won another four times and I ran him when he was 13. In all, for us, Bud Smith earned 37 checks, by that I mean he got a piece of the purse. Since then, I've had horses worth $50,000, but they did not always extend themselves and I would wish they had some of Bud Smith's heart. Sounds odd doesn't it — having a $50,000 horse and wishing he had a bit of an $800 claimer in him."

Sounds strange, but that was the way Van Berg was about horses.

Bailey Shines On Relay Teams

. . . TIGERS BLAST FOES

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Crete — The meet is called the Doane College Night Relays and that it was.

The host Tigers, led by a brilliant individual performance of Rick Bailey, dominated the 23rd running here Tuesday by capturing seven events. Doane athletes set a record in winning the 440-yard relay then took the 880, mile and sprint medley relays in addition to the 100, high hurdles and triple jump.

Hastings had the next best showing, winning the shot, two-mile and 480 high-hurdle shuttle relays.

Bailey ran on three winning relay teams — anchoring the sprint medley with an 880, running a leg on the 880 relay and a come-from-behind anchor on the mile relay. He took the baton from teammate Ron Bauer and overhauled Hastings' George Davis in the backstretch to win the mile relay going away.

In the sprint medley, Bailey took the baton about even with Southwestern but crossed the finish line about 20 yards ahead. In the 880 relay, he ran the third leg and stretched Doane's already wide margin when he handed off to anchorman Rich Zenger. But all of this was doubtful in early spring when Bailey almost had surgery on a knee.

"We took Rick to three doctors and decided to let him run this spring and have surgery after the season is over," said Doane coach Al Papik.

"One doctor told us if his knee didn't lock up after a week of running, Rick should be able to compete this season. The other doctors wanted to operate immediately, so we're glad now we didn't follow their advice."

Also helping the Tigers' cause was the return of Lawrence Baker who had pulled a hamstring muscle at the Drake Relays.

Baker ran on the 440 and 880 relays for Doane when the times were the fastest ever in college state ranks this year with a :41.4 in the 440 and 1:24.9 in the 880. Baker ran on both the 440 and 880 relays Tuesday but said he could have run a better in the 880 relay.

However, in the 440 relay, Baker teamed with Burrell Williams, Rich Zenger and Harold Clarke to clip off a :41.5 which broke the meet record of :42.0 set last year by Doane's Mike Sallier, Williams, Zenger and Warren Marigny.

Williams successfully won the 100 for an unprecedented fourth consecutive year in :09.8 beating out Zenger.

Larry Engelman of Doane won the high hurdles in :14.8 with teammate Harvey Schneider second. And freshman Bill Williams won the triple jump for the Tigers with a leap of 45-1¾.

Three more meet records were set in the pole vault, mile and long jump.

McPherson's Mike Butsch won the pole vault at 14-9 while his record was 14-6, Kansas Wesleyan's Glen Appell improved his mile mark from 4:15.5 to 4:10.3 and John F. Kennedy's Wayne King, a Lincoln High School graduate, leaped 24-3½ in the long jump, bettering the record of 23-10.

Nebraska Wesleyan's Kurt Nielsen won the high jump at 6-4 but missed at 6-7 when trying for the record. The high jump was the only first for the Plainsmen.

Girls' Track Winding Curb For Finale At Grand Island

. . . FIRST OFFICIAL SEASON CONCLUDES MAY 15

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The first official season of high school girls track has now entered its next-to-last week of competition.

Twenty-four district meets are on the slate this week, with the state meet scheduled in Grand Island, May 15.

Take the 50-yard dash for instance. When the initial chart was published two weeks ago there were just eight girls in the state who had sped the distance in :06.3 or better. The list contains twice as many names now. And just two-tenths of a second separates first and 16th place.

The high jump gives another good example. Two weeks ago there just eight girls who had cleared the bar at 4-10 or better. As in the 50-yard dash, now there are 16.

Mass improvement is found on each list. Four events have new statewide leaders. On three others the previous pacesetter has an improved timing.

Donna Schuster of Beatrice has lowered the leading 880 time three and a half seconds. Even more dramatic is the fact that it takes an eight-second faster timing now than two weeks ago to claim the tenth spot on the half-mile chart.

New discus leader Doreen Duncan of Grand Island Northwest is three feet beyond the top distance of two weeks ago. And on that initial list there were four girls in the top ten who were under 100 feet. Now it takes a toss of 105-1½ to be tenth.

Polly Rothwell of Hyannis is the other new individual to be No. 1. She high jumped 5-1¼ last week. West Point's Peggy Bernard, previously all alone at the top after clearing 5-0, is now in a three-way tie at that height for second.

The fourth leadership change came in the 440-yard relay when a quartet of speedsters from Hastings St. Cecilia grabbed the top position away from a North Platte foursome.

There will be four Class A and Class B district meets this week. The winners of the first four places in each individual event and the first and second places in each relay will qualify for the state meet.

Bailey Shines On Relay Teams

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Crete — The meet is called the Doane College Night Relays and that it was.

The host Tigers, led by a brilliant individual performance of Rick Bailey, dominated the 23rd running here Tuesday by capturing seven events. Doane athletes set a record in winning the 440-yard relay then took the 880, mile and sprint medley relays in addition to the 100, high hurdles and triple jump.

Hastings had the next best showing, winning the shot, two-mile and 480 high-hurdle shuttle relays.

Bailey ran on three winning relay teams — anchoring the sprint medley with an 880, running a leg on the 880 relay and a come-from-behind anchor on the mile relay. He took the baton from teammate Ron Bauer and overhauled Hastings' George Davis in the backstretch to win the mile relay going away.

In the sprint medley, Bailey took the baton about even with Southwestern but crossed the finish line about 20 yards ahead. In the 880 relay, he ran the third leg and stretched Doane's already wide margin when he handed off to anchorman Rich Zenger. But all of this was doubtful in early spring when Bailey almost had surgery on a knee.

"We took Rick to three doctors and decided to let him run this spring and have surgery after the season is over," said Doane coach Al Papik.

"One doctor told us if his knee didn't lock up after a week of running, Rick should be able to compete this season. The other doctors wanted to operate immediately, so we're glad now we didn't follow their advice."

Also helping the Tigers' cause was the return of Lawrence Baker who had pulled a hamstring muscle at the Drake Relays.

Run 'Em Where They Can Win Key To 'Mr. Van's' Success

M. H. Van Berg had a philosophy about race horses and it was that philosophy that started with a victory in an $800 claiming race that netted him a $300 purse and from there led to nearly $14 million in winnings in the next 24 years.

The Columbus native, who is perhaps the nation's best known horseman, never won a Kentucky Derby. He never won a Preakness, nor did he ever win the Belmont.

The richest race a Van Berg thoroughbred ever won was the Matron Stakes in Chicago in 1958 with Estacion. He neared the $14 million figure a nickel and a dime at a time.

"He would rather enter a $5,000 race he thought he had a chance of winning than a $100,000 race he didn't think he had a chance in," Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Tom Brock, current president of the Thoroughbred Racing Association, once said of Van Berg.

With this philosophy, Van Berg would study the track conditions book the way a stock broker studies the Wall Street Journal.

"Conditions let horses win," he once said. "The greatest mistake a horseman can make is trying to buck strength. If you have a $4,000 claimer, don't have him knock heads with $5,000 runners. If you have a sprinter, run him in sprints. If you have a horse who can't go in mud, wait for a fast track."

M. H. Equals Master Horseman

The leading horse in the Van Berg stable at the time appeared to be Bouncer. He was entered in Sportsman's first big feature along with nationally known Hoop Bound, Wa Wa Cy and Gay Revoke.

SPORT SIGNALS

Kuru San nipped Hoop Bound at the wire with Gay Revoke third.

In the next race Bouncer won in a breeze, causing W. H. Bishop, owner of Gay Revoke, to exclaim, "Boys, it was just another case of getting out-smarted by the old man.

Horses Hate To Lose

"Horses, like people, hate to lose," he once explained. "Rose's Gem (his leading money winner with better than $230,000) would sulk and kick his stall if he lost.

"My advice is never enter a horse in a race unless you think he has a chance of winning."

He always seemed to understand and to be understanding with his horses. "Some of my horses require companionship," he explained. "I try to help them out. If a horse wants a goat around, we give him a goat .One horse has three goats in the stall with him. Another has a Shetland pony.

"A horse is much like a man in that if you give him plenty of good eats and good place to sleep, you have a happy animal.

"One must look after a horse's health as though it were his own. The best gauge is the feed tub. Once a horse refuses to eat, he's usually in bad shape. Rest is the only thing that will help. Many trainers have made the mistake of running a horse that hasn't eaten properly.

Claimers Need Attention, Too

M.H. enjoyed talking about those stars of his stable, but he also enjoyed talking about Bud Smith, a 9-year-old he claimed for $800.

"I claimed Bud Smith for $800 in '37 when the horse was nine years old," Van Berg recalled. "I took him from a fellow named Owen, whose horses were trained by H. E. Van Buskirk. This was at Omaha."

Van Berg claimed Bud Smith on June 28, running him back July 1. The horse finished second, beaten a neck. On July 3 Bud Smith was second again, defeated one length. On July 5 Bud Smith again finished second.

"That third start he was claimed from me by a fellow named Ingals and shipped to Fairmount Park," remembered Van Berg. "My family had become attached to Bud Smith. To keep peace in the family I had to go to Fairmount and buy the horse back.

"When Bud Smith was 10 he won three of 14, being second four times and third three times. When he was 12 he won another four times and I ran him when he was 13. In all, for us, Bud Smith earned 37 checks, by that I mean he got a piece of the purse. Since then, I've had horses worth $50,000, but they did not always extend themselves and I would wish they had some of Bud Smith's heart. Sounds odd doesn't it — having a $50,000 horse and wishing he had a bit of an $800 claimer in him."

Sounds strange, but that was the way Van Berg was about horses.

Girls' Track Winding Curb For Finale At Grand Island

... FIRST OFFICIAL SEASON CONCLUDES MAY 15

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The first official season of high school girls track has now entered its next-to-last week of competition.

Twenty-four district meets are on the slate this week, with the state meet scheduled in Grand Island, May 15.

Take the 50-yard dash for instance. When the initial chart was published two weeks ago there were just eight girls in the state who had sped the distance in :06.3 or better. The list contains twice as many names now. And just two-tenths of a second separates first and 16th place.

The high jump gives another good example. Two weeks ago there just eight girls who had cleared the bar at 4-10 or better. As in the 50-yard dash, now there are 16.

Mass improvement is found on each list. Four events have new statewide leaders. On three others the previous pacesetter has an improved timing.

Donna Schuster of Beatrice has lowered the leading 880 time three and a half seconds. Even more dramatic is the fact that it takes an eight-second faster timing now than two weeks ago to claim the tenth spot on the half-mile chart.

New discus leader Doreen Duncan of Grand Island Northwest is three feet beyond the top distance of two weeks ago. And on that initial list there were four girls in the top ten who were under 100 feet. Now it takes a toss of 105-1½ to be tenth.

Polly Rothwell of Hyannis is the other new individual to be No. 1. She high jumped 5-1¼ last week. West Point's Peggy Bernard, previously all alone at the top after clearing 5-0, is now in a three-way tie at that height for second.

The fourth leadership change came in the 440-yard relay when a quartet of speedsters from Hastings St. Cecilia grabbed the top position away from a North Platte foursome.

There will be four Class A and Class B district meets this week. The winners of the first four places in each individual event and the first and second places in each relay will qualify for the state meet.

Bailey Shines On Relay Teams

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Crete — The meet is called the Doane College Night Relays and that it was.

The host Tigers, led by a brilliant individual performance of Rick Bailey, dominated the 23rd running here Tuesday by capturing seven events. Doane athletes set a record in winning the 440-yard relay then took the 880, mile and sprint medley relays in addition to the 100, high hurdles and triple jump.

Hastings had the next best showing, winning the shot, two-mile and 480 high-hurdle shuttle relays.

Bailey ran on three winning relay teams — anchoring the sprint medley with an 880, running a leg on the 880 relay and a come-from-behind anchor on the mile relay. He took the baton from teammate Ron Bauer and overhauled Hastings' George Davis in the backstretch to win the mile relay going away.

In the sprint medley, Bailey took the baton about even with Southwestern but crossed the finish line about 20 yards ahead. In the 880 relay, he ran the third leg and stretched Doane's already wide margin when he handed off to anchorman Rich Zenger. But all of this was doubtful in early spring when Bailey almost had surgery on a knee.

"We took Rick to three doctors and decided to let him run this spring and have surgery after the season is over," said Doane coach Al Papik.

"One doctor told us if his knee didn't lock up after a week of running, Rick should be able to compete this season. The other doctors wanted to operate immediately, so we're glad now we didn't follow their advice."

Also helping the Tigers' cause was the return of Lawrence Baker who had pulled a hamstring muscle at the Drake Relays.

Baker ran on the 440 and 880 relays for Doane when the times were the fastest ever in college state ranks this year with a :41.4 in the 440 and 1:24.9 in the 880. Baker ran on both the 440 and 880 relays Tuesday but said he could have run a better in the 880 relay.

However, in the 440 relay, Baker teamed with Burrell Williams, Rich Zenger and Harold Clarke to clip off a :41.5 which broke the meet record of :42.0 set last year by Doane's Mike Sallier, Williams, Zenger and Warren Marigny.

Williams successfully won the 100 for an unprecedented fourth consecutive year in :09.8 beating out Zenger.

Larry Engelman of Doane won the high hurdles in :14.8 with teammate Harvey Schneider second. And freshman Bill Williams won the triple jump for the Tigers with a leap of 45-1¾.

Three more meet records were set in the pole vault, mile and long jump.

McPherson's Mike Butsch won the pole vault at 14-9 while his record was 14-6, Kansas Wesleyan's Glen Appell improved his mile mark from 4:15.5 to 4:10.3 and John F. Kennedy's Wayne King, a Lincoln High School graduate, leaped 24-3½ in the long jump, bettering the record of 23-10.

Nebraska Wesleyan's Kurt Nielsen won the high jump at 6-4 but missed at 6-7 when trying for the record. The high jump was the only first for the Plainsmen.

NWU Splits Twin Bill With Northwest Mizzou

In the opener the Plainsmen blew open a tight 2-2 game by scoring five runs in the top of the seventh and then held on for the 7-3 win. Mike Garlow went the route for NWU, making his record 4-3 on the season.

The Plainsmen fought back however, loading the bases with two out and then getting a run on a single by Jerry Colvert to make the count 3-2. But then Rick Boals flied out to end the contest.

Half Of Big Eight Schools Hit By JC Ruling

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Fifteen football players at four Big Eight Conference schools have been ruled ineligible to play next fall because of the NCAA's interpretation of the controversial junior college transfer rule.

Sheats definitely would have been a starter, and Sutton had run on the No. 1 defensive unit in spring drills. Adams and Gardner also were likely to see a lot of action.

The confusion stemmed from an NCAA rule, which its council stated means that mid-year transfers with 48 hours of credit must have a 2.5 grade-point average. The Big Eight, the Western Athletic Conference and others contended the rule was not written that way and misinterpreted it.

As a result, those schools recruiting mid-year junior college transfers are not obligated to give those students a free ride for a full year before they become eligible for the 1972 season.

Informed sources say the number of junior college transfers ruled ineligible may reach 10; when all the ineligibles are divulged.

Kansas State, though it is withholding names, is expected to lose middle guard Steve Eaton, defensive end Willie Cullars, offensive tackle Chuck Price and running backs Norman Young and Jerry Johnson.

Missouri has lost tailback Leroy Moss, quarterback Jack Cherry and wide receiver Jim Sharp. Oklahoma State's losses running back James Nunn and offensive linemen Bill Bryan and Calvin Payne.

Within the Big Eight, the NCAA ruling seems to have made the poor poorer. Missouri, Oklahoma State and Kansas all finished in the second division last fall and Kansas State, the second-place finisher, was hard-hit by graduation losses.

Commission Area By Wilcox May Produce Canada Geese

Work now under way at the Game Commission's Sacramento Game Management Area near Wilcox may someday produce nesting populations of Canada geese in the Sand Hills region.

A captive flock of Canada geese at Sacramento, which includes 50 nesting pairs, is producing goslings to be released on the Valentine National Wildlife Refuge and on other Sand Hills lakes. Last year, about 100 goslings were stocked there, and several times that number should be turned loose this year if things go according to plan.

The Sand Hills were once part of the Canada's nesting range, but any number of factors including changes in land use, droughts, and hunting pressure caused the big birds to abandon the area. The nesting habitat is still intact, however, and the Game Commission hopes the young geese being released in the Sand Hills will return when old enough to reproduce.

The captive flock at Sacramento is kept in a 50-acre pen, and individual nesting sites are provided inside. Eggs from the first clutch produced by the geese are collected and incubated artificially. So far, about 170 fertile eggs have been taken from the nests.

Many of the pairs may then renest to produce another batch of eggs, which will be left with the parents for natural hatching and rearing. In this way, the Commission hopes to about double the crop of young Canadas.

As part of the reintroduction program, the part of the Sand Hills involved has been closed to the shooting of dark geese, which includes both Canadas and whitefronts.

'Digger' Phelps New Irish Cage Coach

South Bend, Ind. (AP) — Richard "Digger" Phelps, 29, who last year guided Fordham University to its best year in history, was named head basketball coach at the Notre Dame University Tuesday.

In his one season at Fordham, Phelps led the Rams to a 26-3 mark and was named coach of the year in District Two of the National Association of College Basketball Coaches.

"This is a personal matter with me, something that I have always wanted," Phelps said before leaving New York for Notre Dame, where he will appear at a news conference today.

"There is no way I can turn down this position. I appreciate what Fordham has done for me this year. I have the greatest respect for Fordham president Father Michael Walsh and athletic director Pete Carlesimo.

"I have done what was best for me and my family," Phelps said.

Carlesimo commented that Phelps "did an excellent job in the year he has been head coach. A week ago he stated that financial arrangements were not a factor in all of the several decisions he was facing.

"His family's future happiness was paramount, Phelps told me," Carlesimo said. "When the position at Notre Dame came open, he applied. As long as a year ago he had told us that his ambition had always been to coach at Notre Dame.

'Digger' Phelps New Irish Cage Coach

South Bend, Ind. (AP) — Richard "Digger" Phelps, 29, who last year guided Fordham University to its best year in history, was named head basketball coach at the Notre Dame University Tuesday.

Phelps succeeds Johnny Dee, who resigned last week to return to private law practice in Denver, Colo.

In his one season at Fordham, Phelps led the Rams to a 26-3 mark and was named coach of the year in District Two of the National Association of College Basketball Coaches.

"This is a personal matter with me, something that I have always wanted," Phelps said before leaving New York for Notre Dame, where he will appear at a news conference today.

"There is no way I can turn down this position. I appreciate what Fordham has done for me this year. I have the greatest respect for Fordham president Father Michael Walsh and athletic director Pete Carlesimo.

"I have done what was best for me and my family," Phelps said.

Carlesimo commented that Phelps "did an excellent job in the year he has been head coach. A week ago he stated that financial arrangements were not a factor in all of the several decisions he was facing.

"His family's future happiness was paramount, Phelps told me," Carlesimo said. "When the position at Notre Dame came open, he applied. As long as a year ago he had told us that his ambition had always been to coach at Notre Dame.

Pappin's Score Sparks Chicago

Chicago (AP) — Jim Pappin's sudden-death goal 71 seconds into the second overtime broke up a brilliant goaltending duel between Montreal's Ken Dryden and Chicago's Tony Esposito and gave the Black Hawks a 2-1 victory over the Canadiens in the opening game of their National Hockey League Stanley Cup final series Tuesday night.

Game No. 2 in the best-of-seven championship series will be played in Chicago Thursday night.

Nixon Expected To Propose Lockheed Loan Guarantees

Washington (AP) — Republican legislative leaders said Tuesday President Nixon is expected to recommend shortly that the federal government guarantee $250 million in loans to the financially pressed Lockheed Aircraft Corp. If he does, strong congressional opposition is assured.

Sen. Hugh Scott, the GOP Senate leader from Pennsylvania, and Rep. Leslie Arends of Illinois, the House Republicans' assistant leader, passed this word to newsmen after the weekly intraparty breakfast at the White House.

Arends said there was no opposition to such a guarantee voiced at the Republicans' session. And Scott said the proposal "should pass the Congress and it ought to."

But the Senate majority leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., told reporters Tuesday, "I'm just against the government bailing out corporations. If private enterprise wants to do the job, let them do it."

Proxmire To Fight

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate-House Joint Economic Committee, already has announced he will fight any proposed guarantee.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said Tuesday he would oppose any guarantee for Lockheed "unless the corner grocer gets one, too." Hartke was instrumental in the passage of legislation last December giving emergency loan guarantees to keep the Penn Central Railroad operating.

Lockheed needs additional financing to put into production its TriStar jumbo jet plane. The program was thrown into jeopardy by the financial collapse of the British Rolls-Royce Co., builder of the TriStar engines.

Scott said Nixon discussed the Lockheed question in terms of 25,000 jobs threatened if Lockheed goes bankrupt. "The cost of not helping Lockheed would be substantially greater than helping," he said.

Decision Neat?

Later White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters he thinks a decision on the Lockheed matter will come this week.

Mansfield said he favors creation of a government corporation such as the old Reconstruction Finance Corporation to deal with such situations rather than handling them on a case-by-case basis.

Scott said this approach was discussed but "the feeling I get is that the legislation will be specific," dealing just with Lockheed.

He said 11,000 jobs are affected in Lockheed itself, and another 14,000 among subcontractors on projects such as the C5A supertransport.

The only possible alternative to federally guaranteed loans from private banks is for the Defense Department to take over the ailing firm and that would be more expensive, Scott said.

STORY AT LEFT

Over 300 Participate In Candlelight March

More than 300 pepole turned out Tuesday night to participate in a candlelight march for peace at the University of Nebraska.

The marchers, walking two abreast, wound in a procession nearly three blocks long as they sang and chanted their way past residence halls and fraternity and sorority houses.

At the Military and Naval Sciences building, the group stood in silent prayer for the students killed at Kent State and Jackson State Universities a year ago, as well as for the dead in Indochina.

Fritz Edelstein, principal organizer of the march, said he was "very moved" by the showing. "There is a solidarity here that hasn't been seen for a long time," he said.

The peace demonstrators, who plan a march Wednesday afternoon to the State Capitol, were given a parade permit Tuesday allowing them to use half of 13th St. for the march.

Speaking on the decision of the city to allow them to use 13th St., Edelstein said "we thank the city for its cooperation in allowing the people to march. We appreciate the time and effort involved on the part of the mayor's office."

Leaders of the march estimated that 2,500 to 4,000 people would be on hand.

NU Regents Set Omaha Meeting

Carpenter Asking Injunction Against Property Reappraisal

Gering (AP) — Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff is asking a permanent injunction against the reappraisal of Scotts Bluff County property by Justin H. Haynes and Co.

Named as defendants in the suit filed in District Court were the county; Marjorie Kleist, county assessor; Melvin Maxwell, county clerk, and Don Stannard, county treasurer.

The suit asked that an order by issued declaring any taxes assessed under the firm's 1971 appraisal void and uncollectible.

Carpenter's petition says that the Hayes company was employed by the county to reappraise all real estate in the county in 1969.

The Board of Commissioners, according to the petition, "did not contract with Justin H. Haynes and Co. to provide complete appraisal service for all land and improvements both urban and rural to value all property at actual value according to recognized and accepted appraisal methods and techniques in conformance" with a 1967 state law.

The petition also alleged that the company failed to have qualified personnel conduct and supervise the appraisal, and failed to make physical inspection of each parcel of real estate.

The petition said this would preclude uniform assessment. Since several thousand parties are interested in the questions, the petition said "this plaintiff therefore sues on this action for the benifit of all those interested persons."

Sex Emphasis Bothers Censor

London (AP) — Britain's chief film censor, 67-year-old John Trevelyan, has quit because he's had enough of sex films. He feels that the emphasis on sex is killing the film industry.

"Sex is a marvelous human activity," he said. "But merely to watch other people doing it is not my kind of entertainment."

Certified Hearing Aid Audiologist

More children with hearing defects are going to the Otologist than ever before. This is primarily due to the hearing conservation programs of the school systems, improved education of the parents and the astuteness of the pediatrician and general practitioner.

Of course it is well known that the most critical years for detecting hearing loss are in the preschool years and the lower elementary grades. If a hearing aid is recommended call me for further evaluation and possible fitting. Today many youngsters who are wearing hearing aids are attending normal schools with normal progression.

Write for booklet of MAICO Method of Custom Fitting. I'm located at 713 Sharp Bldg., Lincoln. Phone 432-1907.

Nixon Expected To Propose Lockheed Loan Guarantees

Washington (AP) — Republican legislative leaders said Tuesday President Nixon is expected to recommend shortly that the federal government guarantee $250 million in loans to the financially pressed Lockheed Aircraft Corp. If he does, strong congressional opposition is assured.

Sen. Hugh Scott, the GOP Senate leader from Pennsylvania, and Rep. Leslie Arends of Illinois, the House Republicans' assistant leader, passed this word to newsmen after the weekly intraparty breakfast at the White House.

Arends said there was no opposition to such a guarantee voiced at the Republicans' session. And Scott said the proposal "should pass the Congress and it ought to."

But the Senate majority leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., told reporters Tuesday, "I'm just against the government bailing out corporations. If private enterprise wants to do the job, let them do it."

Proxmire To Fight

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate-House Joint Economic Committee, already has announced he will fight any proposed guarantee.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said Tuesday he would oppose any guarantee for Lockheed "unless the corner grocer gets one, too." Hartke was instrumental in the passage of legislation last December giving emergency loan guarantees to keep the Penn Central Railroad operating.

Lockheed needs additional financing to put into production its TriStar jumbo jet plane. The program was thrown into jeopardy by the financial collapse of the British Rolls-Royce Co., builder of the TriStar engines.

Scott said Nixon discussed the Lockheed question in terms of 25,000 jobs threatened if Lockheed goes bankrupt. "The cost of not helping Lockheed would be substantially greater than helping," he said.

Decision Neat?

Later White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters he thinks a decision on the Lockheed matter will come this week.

Mansfield said he favors creation of a government corporation such as the old Reconstruction Finance Corporation to deal with such situations rather than handling them on a case-by-case basis.

Scott said this approach was discussed but "the feeling I get is that the legislation will be specific," dealing just with Lockheed.

He said 11,000 jobs are affected in Lockheed itself, and another 14,000 among subcontractors on projects such as the C5A supertransport.

The only possible alternative to federally guaranteed loans from private banks is for the Defense Department to take over the ailing firm and that would be more expensive, Scott said.

HELP DUE . . . says Arends, left, with Scott.

Over 300 Participate In Candlelight March

More than 300 pepole turned out Tuesday night to participate in a candlelight march for peace at the University of Nebraska.

The marchers, walking two abreast, wound in a procession nearly three blocks long as they sang and chanted their way past residence halls and fraternity and sorority houses.

The group was occasionally harassed by passing motorists.

At the Military and Naval Sciences building, the group stood in silent prayer for the students killed at Kent State and Jackson State Universities a year ago, as well as for the dead in Indochina.

Fritz Edelstein, principal organizer of the march, said he was "very moved" by the showing. "There is a solidarity here that hasn't been seen for a long time," he said.

The peace demonstrators, who plan a march Wednesday afternoon to the State Capitol, were given a parade permit Tuesday allowing them to use half of 13th St. for the march.

Speaking on the decision of the city to allow them to use 13th St., Edelstein said "we thank the city for its cooperation in allowing the people to march. We appreciate the time and effort involved on the part of the mayor's office."

Leaders of the march estimated that 2,500 to 4,000 people would be on hand.

NU Regents Set Omaha Meeting

University of Nebraska regents will meet at 10 a.m. Saturday in the basic science building at the NU Medical Center in Omaha, the University reported Tuesday.

Carpenter Asking Injunction Against Property Reappraisal

Gering (AP) — Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff is asking a permanent injunction against the reappraisal of Scotts Bluff County property by Justin H. Haynes and Co.

Named as defendants in the suit filed in District Court were the county; Marjorie Kleist, county assessor; Melvin Maxwell, county clerk, and Don Stannard, county treasurer.

The suit asked that an order by issued declaring any taxes assessed under the firm's 1971 appraisal void and uncollectible.

Carpenter's petition says that the Hayes company was employed by the county to reappraise all real estate in the county in 1969.

The Board of Commissioners, according to the petition, "did not contract with Justin H. Haynes and Co. to provide complete appraisal service for all land and improvements both urban and rural to value all property at actual value according to recognized and accepted appraisal methods and techniques in conformance" with a 1967 state law.

The petition also alleged that the company failed to have qualified personnel conduct and supervise the appraisal, and failed to make physical inspection of each parcel of real estate.

The petition said this would preclude uniform assessment. Since several thousand parties are interested in the questions, the petition said "this plaintiff therefore sues on this action for the benifit of all those interested persons."

Sex Emphasis Bothers Censor

London (AP) — Britain's chief film censor, 67-year-old John Trevelyan, has quit because he's had enough of sex films. He feels that the emphasis on sex is killing the film industry.

"Sex is a marvelous human activity," he said. "But merely to watch other people doing it is not my kind of entertainment."

Certified Hearing Aid Audiologist

More children with hearing defects are going to the Otologist than ever before. This is primarily due to the hearing conservation programs of the school systems, improved education of the parents and the astuteness of the pediatrician and general practitioner.

Of course it is well known that the most critical years for detecting hearing loss are in the preschool years and the lower elementary grades. If a hearing aid is recommended call me for further evaluation and possible fitting. Today many youngsters who are wearing hearing aids are attending normal schools with normal progression.

Stock Prices Climb Sharply

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 6.04 points at 938.45. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.31 to 57.22

Beneficiaries of the upturn included chemicals, drugs, tobaccos, airlines, electronics, aircrafts, mail order-retail, motors, electronics, and glamour stocks. All other groups were mixed.

Analysts attributed the turnabout to investors' snapping up bargains that resulted from the selloff in the three previous sessions, when the Dow industrial average lost a total of some 18 points. The blue-chip indicator dropped 9.34 points Monday.

Aircraft issues, according to brokers, benefited from news was planning to support a government loan to financially troubled Lockheed. The support reportedly could be extended to other aerospace companies. Lockheed closed up 5/8 at 14 5/8.

Another strong performer among the aircrafts was United, up 2¼ at 43. The company reported higher first quarter earnings over a year earlier.

Of the 1,680 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 887 advanced, and 513 declined. New yearly highs were reached by 75 issues and lows by 28.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 1.6 to 331.1. Industrials were up 3.5, rails were up .2, and utilities were up .6.

The number of blocks of 10,000 shares traded on the Big Board rose to 113 from a revised 87 Monday.

Issues on the Big Board's most-active list included Eastern Air Lines, up 1⅛ at 25¾; Northwest Airlines, up 1¾ at 35⅝; Deere & Co., up 1⅜ at 43⅜; and Texaco, off ¾ at 36¾, and Texaco, off ¾ at 36¾.

Fed Cattle Prices Up At Omaha

Values on slaughter steers and heifers shaped up steady to 25 cents higher. Demand continued broad for cattle definitely in the choice and better grade, reflecting a wide differential between good and choice beef carcasses at wholesale.

Top-good and choice 950-1,075 lb. fleshy steers went out on feeder accounts at 31.00-32.00.

Hog prices also took the measure of advancing wholesale prices and moderately orderly marketing. Butchers under 240 lbs. sold 25 to 50 cents higher, heavier weights 50 cents to as much as 75 cents better, narrowing price spreads considerably. Sows shaped up strong to 25 cents or more higher.

Most 190-240 lb. barrows and gilts cleared 17.00-18.00. Sows bunched 14.50-15.50.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Growing Interest Noted In Variable Annuity Field

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Those who look beyond the daily ripples in the stock market to long term economic security are comparing the pros and cons of various financial packages of convenience.

With increased sales efforts by insurance companies, there is growing reader interest in variable annuities as an alternative to withdrawal plans in mutual fund investments. Both plans offer professionally supervised diversification of investments, but the insurance companies in annuities assume the risk that the individual may outlive the averages. Thus, unlike withdrawal plans, there is a continuing obligat fooi neht a costinuing obligation of the seller of annuity contracts to continue payments as long as the annuitant survives.

Developments in the variable annuity field are coming so fast that interested readers are advised to consult an experienced insurance man, such as a chartered life underwriter, and let him submit variable annuity plans.

Originally such contracts, designed to assure future purchasing power rather than a fixed number of dollars of uncertain future buying power, were offered only to college deans and dons through CREF, an affiliate of the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association.

Then, as the idea of an inflation-hedged annuity won attention, a number of new small specialized companies entered the field.

Today the larger companies, which originally offered only group variable annuities, are now catering to individuals.

Q. — An Owensboro, Ky. reader writes: "You have mentioned the 'accounting revolution' in your last two articles. I am not knowledgeable about specific examples."

A. — Among companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange, Memorex and International Industries have reduced reported earnings as a result of changed accounting rules. The professional accounting societies and the Accounting Principles Board have co-operated with the SEC in changing bookkeeping methods.

Q. — A reader in Gibsonia, Pa., is interested in setting up educational funds for two children who will be in college in six and eight years. He wants to add to the initial investment monthly deposits of $150. He writes: "Municipal bonds are attractive at my income, but they have no growth potential. I

A. — Even if municipal bonds are attractive at the father's income, he should discuss with his tax adviser methods of giving the securities purchased to the children. This would entail tax savings. The comment that municipals have no growth potential is not accurate at this juncture, when many are depressed because of high interest rates but may be expected to rise as they approach maturity or earlier if interest rates should drop precipitatedly. It is fallacious to assume that no load funds are the best; the absence of a load is attractive only when other factors, such as investment skill, are equal.

Q. — A reader in Dallas, with adequate provision for his own retirement, wants to set up funds for his sons aged six and nine, and does not wish to buy the same securities for both. He is indecisive as to whether to use the vehicle of mutual funds, such as T. Rowe Price Growth, which he specifically mentions, or to buy individual stocks such as Sears.

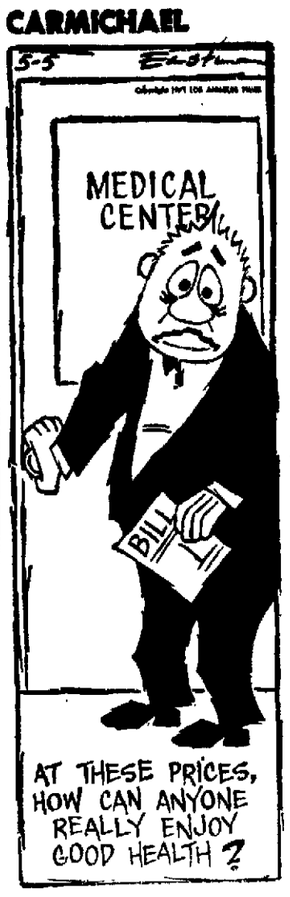

A. — Diversification, such as you get in a mutual fund theoretically at least safeguards against excessive loss, but a fund ordinarily will not perform as brilliantly as a lucky strike in the security of an outstanding company. The First National City Bank of New York recently listed its favorite 50 stocks used for clients in trust and investment accounts. In order of amounts invested, Sears was tenth on the bank's list. International Business Machines; Xerox; Avon Products; General Motors; Eastman Kodak; Merck; Coca-Cola; Phillips Petroleum; and Standard Oil (New Jersey) were listed ahead of Sears, and forty others were further down on the list.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by

Exon Won't 'Intervene' In Pope, Alvarez Cases

Gov. J. J. Exon said Tuesday he "has no authority to intervene" in the event death sentences against Duane Earl Pope or Thomas A. Alvarez would be carried out.

The comment was made following a U.S. Supreme Court ruling Monday on death penalties in which death sentences were upheld against a California man and an Ohio man.

Exon said the court "endorsed the process always followed in Nebraska that the jury has the right to set the death penalty."

He said decisions regarding individuals under the death sentence in the state "would be a matter, under the statutes, for the entire board of pardons." The board includes the governor, attorney general and secretary of the state.

Alvarez's death sentence in 1966 slaying of Mrs. Mary OShea of Lincoln has been delayed pending an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. Pope's execution has been delayed until July 17 by the State Supreme Court to allow time for a similar appeal. He was convicted for slaying three bank employes during the 1965 Big Springs bank robbery.

The U.S. court has never ruled on the argument that the death penalty is a form of cruel and unusual punishment prohibited by the constitution, although it has been brought before the court several times.

In Ohio, Gov. John J. Gilligan said after the Monday Supreme Court ruling there will be no executions in Ohio until the court "has ruled on the constitutionality of the death penalty itself."

Sharing Fresh Colorado Water Called Major U.S.-Mexican Issue

By JEREMIAH O'LEARY
(C) Washington Star

Matehuala, Mexico — President Luis Echeverria of Mexico says the sharing of fresh water from the Colorado River is the major issue between Mexico and the United States.

The 49-year-old president said in a recent interview that the long dispute over the salinity of the river water when it reaches Mexico from the border with California and Arizona is much more important to Mexico than the question of trade relations and export quotas.

"The balance of trade and the protectionist quotas are matters that change from time to time and we are optimistic that our products will be given a larger share of the U.S. market," Echeverria said. He said he also is confident progress will be made on the Colorado problem.

Mexico and the United States have an agreement to share the water of the river, but Mexico's complaint is that American farmers in the dry Western states get first crack at the life-giving waters.

Fresh Water Required

After Colorado water passes through the fields of Arizona and California it returns to the main stream filled with mineral salts. The United States is required to release fresh water from upstream reservoirs to maintain a certain level of purity for water reaching Mexico because when the salinity is too high Mexico's rich northern farms are damaged.

Echeverria said he realizes that President Nixon has political problems with the affected states and the members of Congress representing them, and that he is sure Washington will do all in its power to see that the two nations have a more equitable share of the water.

He said he expects to exchange state visits with Nixon this year, probably within the next six months. Echeverria visited Washington when he was president-elect last November and Nixon came to Puerto Vallarta last summer.

Population Problem

Asked about his intentions for meeting the problem of Mexico's 3.4% annual population increase, Echeverria said industrialization and full employment were preferrable to limitation of the population (now 50 million).

But, he said, his government was putting no obstacles in the path of private foundations or organizations which dispense family-planning information.

In essence, Echeverria indicated the government looks the other way and does not take a stand for or against contraception. Almost all Mexicans are Roman Catholics. Echeverria, who has eight children, is looking for no quarrel with the church.

Younger priests are telling parishioners that the size of their families is a matter of conscience and only a minority of conservatives, and some rural churchmen, are insisting on the old ways. The pill and other contraceptive devices are available almost everywhere in big cities of Mexico. But contraception is still unknown in many rural distrcits.

Special Olympics Attracts Kennedy Family Members

Kearney (UPI) — Two members of the Kennedy family will be attending the Nebraska State Special Olympics at Kearney State College May 28 and 29.

Olympics officials said they are Mrs. Ethel Kennedy, widow of Robert Kennedy, and Mrs. Patricia Kennedy Smith, wife of Stephen Smith.

The event for the mentally retarded is sponsored by the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation. About 500 persons are expected to compete in such events as swimming, bowling and track and field.

On May 15, a meet in preparation for the event will be held at Technical High School in Omaha, at which 300 persons are expected to compete.

Mexico Asks Rejection Of Biological Arms Ban

Geneva (UPI) — Mexico called on the non-aligned world Tuesday to reject big power proposals to ban biological weapons as a ruse to delay real measures of disarmament.

East and West have both submitted draft treaties on the prohibition of biological means of warfare to the 25-nation Geneva Disarmament Conference.

It was proposed, he said, because the big powers "are as yet not prepared to ban the production of chemical weapons.

Instead of pushing this partial measure, he said, the big powers should get down to serious negotiations on prohibiting both biological and chemical weapons in one single treaty as well as ending all nuclear tests.

Western disarmament officials agreed that Castaneda's statement was the sharpest attack yet on the United States and Soviet Union and their respective allies at the disarmament talks.

Gary Mayor Hatcher Is Renominated

Gary, Ind. (AP) — Mayor Richard G. Hatcher won the Democratic nomination for a second term Tuesday, defeating a fellow Negro who had party backing, Lake County Coroner Alexander S. Williams.

Hatcher racked up huge margins in the steel city's virtually all-black districts, and Williams' strong margins in white precincts failed to overcome the heavy black turnout.

Hatcher fought a tough campaign against both Williams and the Lake County Democratic organization which has consistently opposed him and had lent tacit support to Williams.

It appeared that Hatcher's victory margin would far exceed his 2,300-vote edge in the 1967 primary when he defeated a white, machine-backed candidate, then-incumbent A. Martin Katz.

Although the Democratic nomination normally is tanatmount to election in the heavily Democratic city, the party regulars backed the Republican candidate in 1967 and almost thwarted Hatcher's bid to become one of the first elected black mayors of a major American city.

3 Radicals In Berkeley Nix Pledge

Berkeley, Calif. (AP) — The new avowed radical members of the Berkeley City Council refused to join in the pledge of allegiance to the flag at their first meeting Tuesday.

"We cannot in good conscience take this pledge," declared D'Army Bailey, Negro attorney. He said he was speaking for himself, Ilona Hancock and Ira Simmons, who were elected with student and black support on the radical slate on April 6.

Simmons is a black attorney and Mrs. Hancock is the white wife of a University of California faculty member.

"Our devotion to creating liberty and justice for all must be judged not by our adherence to a ritualistic observance but to the actions that we take as councilmen," said Bailey. About one-third of the audience of 200 applauded Bailey and refused to stand for the pledge.

Warren Widener, newly elected as the city's first Negro mayor, stood and recited the pledge with the four other council members.

COCA-COLA EARNINGS SET RECORD

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Earnings of the Coca-Cola Co. for the first quarter of 1971 were the highest of any first quarter in the company's history, said President Paul J. Austin Tuesday.

Austin, who also is board chairman, announced after a meeting of directors that net profit for the first quarter, after provision for reserves, taxes, etc., was $30,920,321 or 52 cents per share. This was an increase of 13% over the $27,272,833 or 46 cents a share earned in the first quarter of 1970.

Installment Credit By Consumers Rises In March

The New York Times

Washington — Consumer installment credit rose by $495 million in March, the largest increase since November, 1969, the federal reserve board reported Tuesday.

The March increase reflected a strong rebound in automobile credit, which rose by $201 million. The other big factor was a rise of $235 million in personal installment loans.

The March increase brought the total of installment credit outstanding to $99,168,000,000. In addition there was $24,436,000,000 of noninstallment credit, such as charge accou-

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Growing Interest Noted In Variable Annuity Field

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Those who look beyond the daily ripples in the stock market to long term economic security are comparing the pros and cons of various financial packages of convenience.

With increased sales efforts by insurance companies, there is growing reader interest in variable annuities as an alternative to withdrawal plans in mutual fund investments. Both plans offer professionally supervised diversification of investments, but the insurance companies in annuities assume the risk that the individual may outlive the averages. Thus, unlike withdrawal plans, there is a continuing obligat fooi neht a costinuing obligation of the seller of annuity contracts to continue payments as long as the annuitant survives.

Developments in the variable annuity field are coming so fast that interested readers are advised to consult an experienced insurance man, such as a chartered life underwriter, and let him submit variable annuity plans.

Originally such contracts, designed to assure future purchasing power rather than a fixed number of dollars of uncertain future buying power, were offered only to college deans and dons through CREF, an affiliate of the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association.

Then, as the idea of an inflation-hedged annuity won attention, a number of new small specialized companies entered the field.

Today the larger companies, which originally offered only group variable annuities, are now catering to individuals.

Q. — An Owensboro, Ky. reader writes: "You have mentioned the 'accounting revolution' in your last two articles. I am not knowledgeable about specific examples."

A. — Among companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange, Memorex and International Industries have reduced reported earnings as a result of changed accounting rules. The professional accounting societies and the Accounting Principles Board have co-operated with the SEC in changing bookkeeping methods.

Q. — A reader in Gibsonia, Pa., is interested in setting up educational funds for two children who will be in college in six and eight years. He wants to add to the initial investment monthly deposits of $150. He writes: "Municipal bonds are attractive at my income, but they have no growth potential. I have been thinking of mutual funds. No load funds appear more attractive.

MERRYLE RUKEYSER
Economic Security

A. — Even if municipal bonds are attractive at the father's income, he should discuss with his tax adviser methods of giving the securities purchased to the children. This would entail tax savings. The comment that municipals have no growth potential is not accurate at this juncture, when many are depressed because of high interest rates but may be expected to rise as they approach maturity or earlier if interest rates should drop precipitatedly. It is fallacious to assume that no load funds are the best; the absence of a load is attractive only when other factors, such as investment skill, are equal.

Q. — A reader in Dallas, with adequate provision for his own retirement, wants to set up funds for his sons aged six and nine, and does not wish to buy the same securities for both. He is indecisive as to whether to use the vehicle of mutual funds, such as T. Rowe Price Growth, which he specifically mentions, or to buy individual stocks such as Sears.

A. — Diversification, such as you get in a mutual fund theoretically at least safeguards against excessive loss, but a fund ordinarily will not perform as brilliantly as a lucky strike in the security of an outstanding company. The First National City Bank of New York recently listed its favorite 50 stocks used for clients in trust and investment accounts. In order of amounts invested, Sears was tenth on the bank's list. International Business Machines; Xerox; Avon Products; General Motors; Eastman Kodak; Merck; Coca-Cola; Phillips Petroleum; and Standard Oil (New Jersey) were listed ahead of Sears, and forty others were further down on the list.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by

Gov. J. J. Exon said Tuesday he "has no authority to intervene" in the event death sentences against Duane Earl Pope or Thomas A. Alvarez would be carried out.

The comment was made following a U.S. Supreme Court ruling Monday on death penalties in which death sentences were upheld against a California man and an Ohio man.

Exon said the court "endorsed the process always followed in Nebraska that the jury has the right to set the death penalty."

He said decisions regarding individuals under the death sentence in the state "would be a matter, under the statutes, for the entire board of pardons." The board includes the governor, attorney general and secretary of the state.

Alvarez's death sentence in 1966 slaying of Mrs. Mary OShea of Lincoln has been delayed pending an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. Pope's execution has been delayed until July 17 by the State Supreme Court to allow time for a similar appeal. He was convicted for slaying three bank employes during the 1965 Big Springs bank robbery.

The U.S. court has never ruled on the argument that the death penalty is a form of cruel and unusual punishment prohibited by the constitution, although it has been brought before the court several times.

In Ohio, Gov. John J. Gilligan said after the Monday Supreme Court ruling there will be no executions in Ohio until the court "has ruled on the constitutionality of the death penalty itself."

Sharing Fresh Colorado Water Called Major U.S.-Mexican Issue

By JEREMIAH O'LEARY
(C) Washington Star

Matehuala, Mexico — President Luis Echeverria of Mexico says the sharing of fresh water from the Colorado River is the major issue between Mexico and the United States.

The 49-year-old president said in a recent interview that the long dispute over the salinity of the river water when it reaches Mexico from the border with California and Arizona is much more important to Mexico than the question of trade relations and export quotas.

"The balance of trade and the protectionist quotas are matters that change from time to time and we are optimistic that our products will be given a larger share of the U.S. market," Echeverria said. He said he also is confident progress will be made on the Colorado problem.

Mexico and the United States have an agreement to share the water of the river, but Mexico's complaint is that American farmers in the dry Western states get first crack at the life-giving waters.

Fresh Water Required

After Colorado water passes through the fields of Arizona and California it returns to the main stream filled with mineral salts. The United States is required to release fresh water from upstream reservoirs to maintain a certain level of purity for water reaching Mexico because when the salinity is too high Mexico's rich northern farms are damaged.

Echeverria said he realizes that President Nixon has political problems with the affected states and the members of Congress representing them, and that he is sure Washington will do all in its power to see that the two nations have a more equitable share of the water.

He said he expects to exchange state visits with Nixon this year, probably within the next six months. Echeverria visited Washington when he was president-elect last November and Nixon came to Puerto Vallarta last summer.

Population Problem

Asked about his intentions for meeting the problem of Mexico's 3.4% annual population increase, Echeverria said industrialization and full employment were preferrable to limitation of the population (now 50 million).

But, he said, his government was putting no obstacles in the path of private foundations or organizations which dispense family-planning information.

In essence, Echeverria indicated the government looks the other way and does not take a stand for or against contraception. Almost all Mexicans are Roman Catholics. Echeverria, who has eight children, is looking for no quarrel with the church.

Younger priests are telling parishioners that the size of their families is a matter of conscience and only a minority of conservatives, and some rural churchmen, are insisting on the old ways. The pill and other contraceptive devices are available almost everywhere in big cities of Mexico. But contraception is still unknown in many rural distrcits.

Special Olympics Attracts Kennedy Family Members

Kearney (UPI) — Two members of the Kennedy family will be attending the Nebraska State Special Olympics at Kearney State College May 28 and 29.

Olympics officials said they are Mrs. Ethel Kennedy, widow of Robert Kennedy, and Mrs. Patricia Kennedy Smith, wife of Stephen Smith.

The event for the mentally retarded is sponsored by the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation. About 500 persons are expected to compete in such events as swimming, bowling and track and field.

On May 15, a meet in preparation for the event will be held at Technical High School in Omaha, at which 300 persons are expected to compete.

Mexico Asks Rejection Of Biological Arms Ban

Geneva (UPI) — Mexico called on the non-aligned world Tuesday to reject big power proposals to ban biological weapons as a ruse to delay real measures of disarmament.

East and West have both submitted draft treaties on the prohibition of biological means of warfare to the 25-nation Geneva Disarmament Conference.

It was proposed, he said, because the big powers "are as yet not prepared to ban the production of chemical weapons.

They are draft treaties which are more important for what they do not contain than for what they do contain," Castaneda said.

Instead of pushing this partial measure, he said, the big powers should get down to serious negotiations on prohibiting both biological and chemical weapons in one single treaty as well as ending all nuclear tests.

Western disarmament officials agreed that Castaneda's statement was the sharpest attack yet on the United States and Soviet Union and their respective allies at the disarmament talks.

Gary Mayor Hatcher Is Renominated

Gary, Ind. (AP) — Mayor Richard G. Hatcher won the Democratic nomination for a second term Tuesday, defeating a fellow Negro who had party backing, Lake County Coroner Alexander S. Williams.

Hatcher racked up huge margins in the steel city's virtually all-black districts, and Williams' strong margins in white precincts failed to overcome the heavy black turnout.

Hatcher fought a tough campaign against both Williams and the Lake County Democratic organization which has consistently opposed him and had lent tacit support to Williams.

It appeared that Hatcher's victory margin would far exceed his 2,300-vote edge in the 1967 primary when he defeated a white, machine-backed candidate, then-incumbent A. Martin Katz.

Although the Democratic nomination normally is tanatmount to election in the heavily Democratic city, the party regulars backed the Republican candidate in 1967 and almost thwarted Hatcher's bid to become one of the first elected black mayors of a major American city.

There were indications this year the Democratic regulars might stay out of the ensuing campaign rather than endorse a Republican.

3 Radicals In Berkeley Nix Pledge

Berkeley, Calif. (AP) — The new avowed radical members of the Berkeley City Council refused to join in the pledge of allegiance to the flag at their first meeting Tuesday.

"We cannot in good conscience take this pledge," declared D'Army Bailey, Negro attorney. He said he was speaking for himself, Ilona Hancock and Ira Simmons, who were elected with student and black support on the radical slate on April 6.

Simmons is a black attorney and Mrs. Hancock is the white wife of a University of California faculty member.

"Our devotion to creating liberty and justice for all must be judged not by our adherence to a ritualistic observance but to the actions that we take as councilmen," said Bailey. About one-third of the audience of 200 applauded Bailey and refused to stand for the pledge.

Warren Widener, newly elected as the city's first Negro mayor, stood and recited the pledge with the four other council members.

COCA-COLA EARNINGS SET RECORD

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Earnings of the Coca-Cola Co. for the first quarter of 1971 were the highest of any first quarter in the company's history, said President Paul J. Austin Tuesday.

Austin, who also is board chairman, announced after a meeting of directors that net profit for the first quarter, after provision for reserves, taxes, etc., was $30,920,321 or 52 cents per share. This was an increase of 13% over the $27,272,833 or 46 cents a share earned in the first quarter of 1970.

Installment Credit By Consumers Rises In March

The New York Times

Washington — Consumer installment credit rose by $495 million in March, the largest increase since November, 1969, the federal reserve board reported Tuesday.

Installment credit had been sluggish for months, parallelling the relatively weak showing of retail sales generally.

The March increase reflected a strong rebound in automobile credit, which rose by $201 million. The other big factor was a rise of $235 million in personal installment loans.

The March increase brought the total of installment credit outstanding to $99,168,000,000. In addition there was $24,436,000,000 of noninstallment credit, such as charge accounts.

Sunny days of the big sale. We are in the midst of selling the family scatter. And it's never looked so good.

The Real Estate Man said: "I hope you'll take this in the spirit in which it's offered. I think you should paint the front of the house. First impressions . . ."

The Real Estate Man said: "It's not for me to criticize. It's your house. But I think the yard . . ."

I hired a boy. He weeded the yard. He clipped the hedge.

"The floors," murmured the Real Estate Man. I had the floors sanded and repolished.

The house is shown. Several times a day. At 8 in the morning, the phone rang. "This is Mumble and Grumble Real Estate," said the lady. (Many, many chicks in the real estate ramble.) "May I show the house at 9?"

The house wren snatched the paper from under my eyes. She grabbed my coffee. She said: "Hurry! We have to get the house picked up!"

I said: "Bring back that coffee! Bring back my paper! The people can look at the house. They can walk around me."

She began stuffing dishcloths into drawers. She said: "I'll make the beds. You sweep the kitchen. Anything lying around, hide it in the dishwasher."

I said: "Maybe we should serve hors d'oeuvres. Maybe we should have entertainment. I could put on a turban and play a flute and get a cobra to come up out of a basket."

She said: "Hurry! They'll be here any minute."

They arrived at 11. Man and wife and Real Estate Lady. They looked the place over in a gloomy sort of way. They said: "Thanks. It's a little large for what we wanted."

The Real Estate Man said: "Just say so if I'm out of line. It's your sale. But I think new curtains would give it a fresh look . . ."

I put in new curtains. The phone rang. The lady said: "High, Wide And Handsome Real Estate. Can we show your house this afternoon at 2?"

The house wren said tensely: "We'll have to send the children to the neighbors.

We sent them ..to the neighbors: "Don't come home until we call you, hear?"

The people didn't get around until 5:30. By that time the moppets had returned. "The people told us to go home." The house was a shambles.
